PORTLAND'S GREAT UNDERTAKING.

Any Oregonian who reads the June number of the American Review of Reviews, will discover the magnitude of the work undertaken by Portland in preparing for the Lewis & Ciark Centennial. In the Review appears an article on the Buffalo Pan-American exposition, showing that the preparations for that great fair were very extensive, that $10,000,000 was expended in getting ready for the opening of the gates, that buildings of wonderful architectural beauty and adorned in highest form of art were erected, and that the fair is now known the world over as a rival in every respect of the Chicago Columbian exposition and of PINE NEEDLES INDUSTRY IN OREGON. the Paris world's tair of last year. It will leave a stain upon the name of the city of Buffalo, if those men be not given the full extent of punishment provided by statutes that. even when enforced to the limit, are inadequate to give justice to those men who violated every impulse of decency that comes to human hearts.

CONGER DEPENDS MISSIONARIES.

E. H. Conger, United States minister to China who recently returned to this country, comes out in the June number of the National Magazine with a vigorous defense of the missionaries who were in China during and after the Boxer outrages. Charges have been made indiscriminately that the missionaries looted with shameful rapacity. Newspaper correspondents sent over many sensational stories. Notwithstanding a spirit of skepticism exists and is commonly given expression as to the unreliability of the press representatives on other topics, the public appeared to be over-anxious to believe anything said that was derogatory of the character of the Christian missionaries .

Minister Conger gives some information tending to clear up the turgid the amount his stomach will aries as a class. THE SIZE OF A PENNY.

differs with different eyes.

There are parents who teach their children to be economical by giving them nothing to be economical thus enlarging upon the necessity for a right appreciation of something which the child is nothing. The only way to teach the boy or girl the size of a penny is to give the child one to spend, so that he or she may discover independently its worth in marbles or in stick peppermint candy. If you buy him just the quantity of marbles or candy you think he ought to have be will forever remain in ignorance of the value of a penny; also atmosphere and present the subject in without a pain; two branches of elea light not unfavorable to the mission- mentary knowledge most necessary to
