He was visiting at the Asa Thompson place, where Bert Benedict and another boy were cutting wood. Bert thought he ought to, and, in fun he made a reach for him, to pull him out of the way. At that, Earl started to run, and stumbling, fell against the other workman, running the knife blade into his breast for about au inch, about three inches below the collar bone. From the loss of blood and the shock, the boy fainted three times. At this writing he is resting
