NEWS NOTES OF ATHENA

Author and Selling Ship 850 Horses to Portland. Athens, June 23.—On Thursday G. O. Osburn and his "Yellow Kids" will leave for over the mountains. They will meet the La Grande team Friday and play at Baker Saturday.

ATHENA BEAT PENDLETON

DOC OSBURN'S YELLOW KIDS PUT UP A GOOD GAME.

Pendleton Had to Be Satisfied With a Defeat, the Game Being Won on Its Merits. One hundred people went from Pendleton on Sunday to Athena, and watched the yellow clothed boys from that place scamp around the diamond ten times, while the players from the county seat took things more leisurely and only trotted around three times.

The Big Game. Baseball players and spectators assembled at the grounds at 12:30, which they found already occupied by a large number of guests of cold air, which swept across the field in an unpleasant manner.

Baseball players and spectators assembled at the grounds at 12:30, which they found already occupied by a large number of guests of cold air, which swept across the field in an unpleasant manner.

Athena Made a Good Start. G. Brown opened up for Athena with a base hit and stole second; Willard singled; R. Brown knocked the ball to Cornell, who threw to Hartman, and was out; Cartano was hit with a pitched ball; Shea knocked a ball to Cornell, who threw home to catch R. Brown, but the ball went high, and that gentleman and Willard, his running mate, clattered across the home base; Saunders made a base hit and went to second on Ulrich's error; Murphy made a safe hit, scoring Cartano; Dell went out, Gilbert to Hartman, and the inning was over. Athena had made three. That number is not very large when counting cattle on the range, but it is a very good score when hung up as the sign of the number of runs made in one inning by your side, when a less number would have been sufficient.

Pendleton's Three Runs. Meach knocked the ball to G. Brown, who seemed to know that then was his time to make an error, and being of an obliging disposition, he made it. Meach reached first, Stearns knocked the ball to Saunders, who threw to third to catch Meach, but he was a brief fraction of a second late, and both runners were safe. Cox made into the game and contributed a base hit, whereas the Pendleton guard said "thank you" with an accent on the thank, and arising indignation. Meach scored. Hartman reached first on fielder's choice and Stearns landed on third, Cornell out to first on Cartano's error; Fletcher struck out; Barlow made a safe hit, third in succession; Hartman scored, Cornell going to third; with Cornell on second and two out, Barlow attempted to steal, but was caught in the act, Shea to Cartano. The score remained in that shape, 3 to 3, just long enough to make the Pendleton crowd feel that they were right the game, say about 10 seconds. Athena went right in and made three more runs in their half of the same inning. Cartano was hit with a pitched ball, Shea struck out and Saunders knocked a fly to Ulrich for the second out; Murphy reached first on Ulrich's error; Dell made a safe hit, Meach a wild pitch, Francis a safe hit and three runs came in; G. Brown made the third out, Gilbert to Hartman.

Athena made three more in the seventh and one in the eighth, making their total 10 while Pendleton couldn't coax another man around the circuit, so the game was over without Athena going to bat in the ninth inning. Shea, Athena's new catcher, is the best thrower to bases seen in this section this season. He has a sort of a self-acting movement like a Smith & Wesson revolver pattern of 1901 which pleases the friends of the club with which he is playing. In fact, taken all together, Athena has a ball team that is liable to take a scalp from almost any club that comes along.

Pendleton's three new players played a creditable game and made a favorable impression upon the friends of the team. Stearns, the catcher, is a good man, coming to Oregon from McMinnville, Mo. He has not played a great deal this year, and consequently is not in best of practice, but creates confidence in his ability. Gilbert gave a good exhibition at short, accepting six chances without an error. Cornell at third picked up some good grounders, hit the ball hard and can run bases and otherwise play the game. His one error was expensive, but as he has promised not to do it again he has been excused. Barlow and Cox thumped the ball around as though they thought they were playing "sock ball." At least they socked the copiously, which was very pleasing.

Seven Years in Bed. "Will wonders ever cease?" inquire the friends of Mrs. L. Pesse, of Le Ron, Kan. They knew she had been unable to leave her bed in seven years on account of kidney and liver trouble, nervous prostration and general debility; but, "Three bottles of Electric Bitters" enabled me to walk," she writes, "and in three months I felt like a new person." Women suffering from headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells will find it a priceless blessing. Try it. Satisfaction is guaranteed. Only 50c. CONNELLY TURNS ON THE AIR

He Stopped an O. R. & N. Express Train Sunday Morning. When the express train No. 6 pulled out of Pendleton Sunday morning Joe Connelly was aboard. There were others, but Joe was the principal. Conductor Anderson had charge of the train. The Sunday excursion rate of $1 for the round trip, Pendleton to Meacham, was in force, which was the cause of the train being crowded. Everything went along all right until between Cayuse and Missoua, Mr. Connelly in the owner of several thousand sheep and is a member of the Pendleton brass band. He is of an inquiring disposition and that phase of his makeup caused Conductor Anderson to swell up with righteous indignation. Mr. Connelly changed to glance at the signs near the end of the car which say "opened closed." Whether Joe thought that referred to a trapdoor in the roof of the car, or some other door, or any old door, will never be told. At any rate, he took a chance of seeing what would happen, and threw the lever from the "open" to the "closed" side of the sign. The effect was to apply the air brakes and bring the train to a stop in a manner to scare everyone aboard, trainmen as well as passengers. N. Berkeley, Charles H. Carter and Charles A. Eppinger, three passengers from Pendleton out for a Sunday's fishing, as well as many of the others, were practically stood on their heads like acrobats in a circus. Conductor Anderson came rushing to the scene and wanted to know what was the cause of the sudden stop. Mr. Connelly still had his eyes riveted on those two signs, and didn't seem to realize what he had done. He was picked out as the perpetrator of the offense, and while he was not the worst scared man in the affair, he had his curiosity thoroughly satisfied, and hereafter when he wants to get up on top of a car to view the landscape far and near, he will ask the train men for assistance, and not set the air brakes alone and unassisted.

A HOSPITAL FOR PENDLETON

It is Proposed to Raise a Fund of $8,000 to $10,000 for That Purpose. The Franciscan Sisters will build a hospital in Pendleton if they can obtain the necessary assistance. It is proposed to erect a hospital of 24 beds at a cost of from $8000 to $10,000. Of this amount the sisters will furnish one-half and the people of Pendleton and the tributary country will provide the balance.

The sisters already have a fine site in the vicinity of the St. Joseph's academy, so the amount named will provide a very comfortable brick building which could be added to as the needs and requirements arose. Pendleton needs a hospital. So does the country tributary to Pendleton. Here is a population of 35,000 without hospital facilities nearer than Portland, Walla Walla, or Baker City. These hospital business that now goes to these places should come to Pendleton. This has long been recognized by the people as well as by the physicians, and there is promise now of the want being supplied. With the support of the physicians and the people of Pendleton, the endowment of cots by the many lodges of Pendleton, the hospital can be made a success.

The work of construction of the hospital building will begin as soon as the money is in sight. The Franciscan sisters who would have charge of the hospital at Pendleton are in charge of the hospitals both at Baker City and Boise City and these institutions stand high among those of the coast.
