A DEADLY WEAPON ASSAULT

THOMAS CONRAD SWORE OUT WARRANT FOR PHILIP GEBHART.

There is ill-feeling between the Parties because of a Dividing Fence.

Athens, July 1.—On Saturday morning, Thomas Conrad came to this city and swore out a warrant in Justice Smith's court for the arrest of Philip Gebhart, who lives on an adjoining farm to him, 10 miles west of Athens, charging them with assault with a deadly weapon and attempt to commit murder. Constable J. L. Smith made the arrests and brought them to this city for trial. They waived examination and were held over to the grand jury, which convenes in October, in the sum of $20, which was given.

There seems to be a feud existing between the Gebhart and Conrad families, and the facts learned were something of this nature: Mr. Conrad four or five years ago had a survey of his land made by the county surveyor, and it was found that the line fence was too far over on his, Conrad's, side, and he built a new fence on the line established by this survey. This fence Mr. Gebhart caused to be moved to the former location, the new line being set off on the land in dispute. The accused lady admitted that she struck the hayrack, one piercing the head, one whistled past Mr. Conrad's head, he being on the load, and the fourth nearly struck Mr. Conrad. The accused lady admitted that on Friday afternoon her son had shot and killed a coyote upon the hillside, and that she had taken several shots at magpies, but had no intention of doing bodily harm to her neighbors. The weapon used for this shooting is supposed to have been a heavy Winchester repeater. Several throats have from time to time been made to do personal violence, and when those shots were fired, apparently at him, Mr. Conrad came to the conclusion that it was time for him to take a decisive step in the matter and gain the protection afforded by law.

Notes.

Grading on the new road leading north to the reservation from this city is nearly completed as far as this city can go. The bridge across Wild Horse was completed Wednesday and now all that remains to be done is for the county to grade from the bridge to where the road joins the old county road. When this road is completed Athens will have a fine road leading to its business center, and will do away with a road that has been a menace for years to both life and property. The grading and rock on Main street is almost through and this city now has a Main thoroughfare that speaks well for the enterprise of her citizens.

Manager L. A. Githens, on Saturday, took his 10-year-old baseball team, known as "The Tid-Bits," and played a team of Adams youngsters at that city. The game was a very pretty one considering the ages of the teams and resulted in a victory for the Athens boys by a score of 19 to 12.

On Saturday evening the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor gave an enjoyable entertainment and ice cream social at the opera house, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of our citizens.

Yesterday afternoon the Athens band gave one of its delightful open air concerts. The only thing about those concerts that our citizens don't like is that they are not held oftener. The band is practicing hard and is now able to render music that will certainly win loud praise for them at the Pendleton Fourth of July celebration.

LA GRANDE WON IT, 12 TO 10

PENDLETON LOST A HARD GAME IN THE EIGHTH.

A Crowd of Forty from Pendleton Visited La Grande on Sunday, June 30, and Saw the Finish.

It is as painful to write up the details of the game of baseball at La Grande as it would be to write the obituary notice of a dear friend. Duty calls, however, and it becomes necessary to state the facts. A party of 40 Pendleton people boarded the train at 6:15 on the morning of Sunday, June 30, and went to La Grande to witness the baseball game. The trip was pleasant but uneventful. Upon arrival there the party stopped at the Foley, and were nicely treated. Rhea, of Weiser, joined the Pendleton team there, and caught the game. Several hours were played the game. The Pendleton contingent in visiting with friends, until the hour of 3 o'clock, when the game was commenced.

Pendleton Looked Like Winners.

The first inning was enough to cause the hearts of the Pendletonians to thump with gladness. Ulrich, the first man to bat, reached first on an error by Eaton; Cornell reached first when Eaton threw to second and Mytenger failed to be on second to receive the ball; Rhea struck out; Barlow lined out a nice single; Ulrich and Cornell scoring; Hartman drew a base on balls and Cox singled, ringing in two more scores. That made four for the inning and a winning lead.

La Grande started lively. Van Buren knocked a high fly to left, which Cornell ran under and the ball went over his head; Waters singled; Casner was hit with a pitched ball; Ray got his base on balls, forcing in a run; Crawford was declared out on an infield fly; Eaton reached first on an error of O'Donnell, who played third for Pendleton one inning, Waters scoring. The next two were out and the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Pendleton.

Pendleton added another on Meach's single, Cornell's single and an error of Eaton. Pendleton failed to score again until the seventh inning, when two were added. Ulrich struck out and Cornell reached first on Mytenger's error; Rhea made a two-base hit along the left foul line, Cornell scoring; Barlow made a single and Rhea scored; Hartman made a single to short right field but was left at base; Mytenger stole to score on a half passed ball and was out at the home base.

La Grande made one in the fifth and one in the sixth so that when Pendleton went to bat in the eighth the score stood Pendleton 7, La Grande 4; Pendleton proceeded to clinch the victory by making three runs. Stover knocked a fly to Eaton and was out; Chapler and Meach singled, the latter being forced at second by Ulrich's hit to Mytenger; Cornell and Rhea singled, while Chapler, Ulrich and Cornell promenade in single file across the home base.

Series of Horrible Fatalities.

Here is where the series of horrible fatalities occurred which caused the hearts of those from Pendleton to bleed as though chopped in two with a dull axe. Manager Kader thought for a few minutes he would have to telegraph for his new hearse to carry off the dead, but they all recovered. Even yet it seems like a frightful nightmare. Ross took his base, Stover stole second while Van Buren was striking out for the third time; Waters and Casner singled; Ray batted out a triple and three runs came home; Crawford singled and Ray scored; Eaton reached first on Ulrich's error of a ground hit; Mytenger singled and the bases were full; Waters singled to left field and Crawford scored; Cornell threw the ball home to catch Eaton, but the ball passed Rhea and Eaton scored. As the ball rolled toward the backstop Ed Dupuis reached out his hand as though to stop it, then changed his mind and attempted to draw his hand back, but too late. The ball struck the end of one of his fingers and the umpire declared a block ball; Mytenger ran home, where he was touched off home base by Rhea, but declared safe, as under the rules base runners are allowed to keep going until the pitcher has the ball standing in his position; Chapler and Gant to left field and Crawford scored; Cornell threw the ball home to catch Eaton, but the ball passed Rhea and Eaton scored. As the ball rolled toward the backstop Ed Dupuis reached out his hand as though to stop it, then changed his mind and attempted to draw his hand back, but too late. La Grande could do nothing in her half and the game was over.

The Summary.

By Innings.

Table with columns: Pendleton, La Grande, Struck out—by Chapler 6; by Casner 7; two base hit, Rhea; three-base hits, Cox, Cornell, Ray; bases on balls, by Chapler 4, by Casner 1; hit pitched by Chapler 3, by Casner 3; La Grande, A. C. Miller; for Pendleton, Charles A. Maskrey; Printers 22, Clerks 15.

The Sunday game of baseball between the Pendleton printers and clerks drew a large crowd, numbering many of the fair sex. In the first few innings the clerks found no trouble in hitting the ball for long drives, as did the barbers in the first innings of a previous game with the printers, but after that the manipulators of "thought" drew themselves together and lambasted the sphere in an unmerciful manner, and piled up run after run until the ninth inning, when the clerks put some ginger into their play and made four runs, the score standing 22 to 15 in favor of the printers.

Features of the Game.

The catching of fly balls by Simple was almost faultless, but his batting in the first few innings—well! Clint Brown again distinguished himself behind the bat. He has the material in him for a league player. That was a remarkable slide the ponderous first baseman of the printers made to second base. He landed safely, however, and just in time to make a soft seat for Claid Medley. At Pendleton the crowd went wild and there was an air-splitting scene in the grand stand. Leo Drake for the printers, and Chester Foster and Claid Medley, for the clerks, whirled the ball professionally at times. Ed Noll redeemed himself in the eighth inning by nearly making a double play.

LEASING PUBLIC DOMAIN

Two Sheepsman Express Disapproval of the Plan.

Charles Cunningham and Frank Pedro, who have been making a trip through Wallowa county looking for range, returned to Pendleton Sunday night. They state that the ranges of Wallowa county are not stocked up as heavily as are those of Grant and Emmet counties, but soon will be if things keep on as they are at present. They say they observed quite a number of bands being driven from this side into the Wallowa country, which they pronounce to be a great range. When it came to a discussion of leasing government lands to stockmen, both Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Pedro expressed themselves quite blank against the scheme. They said that such action would practically shut out the stockman with only a few head of horses, cattle or sheep, and would work a hardship on them. They stated how the plan would work if put into effect, and that it would result in the loss of the big stockman, who lease large sections of the public domain. The small stockman, with nothing but a few head of stock from which to make a living, would only be able to get 100 acres by the homestead law. He would then be at the expense of fencing it and keeping his stock, which he could not afford to do, and compete with the man with unlimited range. In other words, the leasing of the government domain is a scheme that would be of an advantage to the big stockgrowers and of a disadvantage to the little ones. Mr. Cunningham said he had always opposed it and would always continue to oppose, and Mr. Pedro acquiesced heartily in the expression of opinion.

THE GEER-PLUMBER NOTE

Senator Simon is Said to Have Returned the Paper to the Governor.

Portland, July 1.—Recent editorials in the East Oregonian relative to Governor Geer and the alleged $1000 note involving Plumber, ex-sheriff of Polk county, have stirred up the story of the penitentiary deal and it is being discussed from one end of the state to the other. As the story goes, Geer promised Plumber the position of superintendent of the penitentiary in consideration of $1000, providing Geer was elected governor. This note was written upon the back of a typewritten letter. At least one state senator from a Willamette valley county and an ex-governor have seen the document. The latter made a copy of it and as he has one of Geer's signatures he compared his original with the one attached to the document and declares that the one Plumber had is undoubtedly genuine. The same gentleman says that Governor Lord went with Plumber to the statehouse when the money was paid, but does not know whether Lord was present when the cash was transferred. According to the same informant, Plumber insisted on Geer paying $2000 for the note. The real history of this note is not positively known, but it is generally understood that Senator Simon had it until a few months ago, locked up in his safe. If one rumor being circulated is correct, Governor Geer was given the note when he vetoed the Portland charter after the legislature.

While this note story gained considerable publicity last year it practically disappeared until the East Oregonian asked a few pertinent queries about the matter. Within the past few weeks, however, the subject has again appeared and is being referred to among the country press. Governor Geer, it is said, is quoted as declaring that he will make a statement at the proper time. It is known that he prepared to say something last year, but reconsidered the matter.
