THE PRINCE OF JOSEPH.

Story of a Monarch Who Religned in Wallowa County.

Wallowa valley contains many other legends besides its sheep on a thousand hills. It may not be known to many of the readers of the East Oregonian that at one time a monarchy existed in that valley, with a king on the throne, who wielded a royal mace of office. His throne was of native fir wood. His crown was made of the Seven colors copper gems from the Seven continents. F. B. McCullough conceived in the inner recesses of his bright thought of setting up a monarchy in the valley. To carry out this unpractical idea he ran for the legislature in his second year. That was the first step toward his cherished hope. His next step was to legislate the Wallowa valley out of Union county. This he accomplished. He then set up a kingdom and made his court at Wallowa. Here he ruled supreme and with an iron hand. But like most all monarchs ruled by an unrelenting hand. There came a day when the people of Wallowa county wanted the seat of government changed. An election was held, and the town of Enterprise was successful. Then some rebels set over to Joseph, seized the throne, dragged the crown from the head of the king, dispossessed his throne, took his scepter, and, after using him into the river, returned Enterprise. This was the fate of the king of Joseph.

This piece of history is vouchered for by A. E. Flanders, who has been on a extended tour among the sheepmen of Wallowa county, investigating the habits of sheep, coyotes, greyhounds and bulldogs, and it is reasonable to suppose, from his long and intimate acquaintance with Opie Reid, that his story should be unassailable. When Mr. Flanders landed in Joseph he sought the office of the Herald, and it was printed by Leo C. Henderson. He found the editor very busy with his type, and asked the privilege of looking over the exchanges. While he was reading a man came in and asked if he had any blank contracts. He being answered in the negative

HEPPNER AND ATHENA WON

TWO WELL PLAYED BASEBALL GAMES ON FRIDAY.

The Morning Game Was 8 to 7—Eleven Innings Were Played Before Athena Could Make the Winning Run.

Two well-played games of baseball marked the second day of the tournament. The morning game was won by Heppner from Dayton, 8 to 7. The game was remarkable for the number of strikeouts, Dunbar having 17 to his credit and Phillips 16. The score follows:

ATHENA ELEVEN INNING GAME

Athena Won in the Afternoon After a Great Struggle.

The game in the afternoon between Athena and Pendleton was one of the prettiest and hardest ever seen on the local grounds. Everything went along pleasantly from a Pendleton standpoint until in the seventh inning, when Claude Penland got a hot pitched ball on the end of his right thumb, disabling him. That made a change in the lineup. Waters came from the rightfield to catch, Rhea going to right. The score at that time stood 5 to 3 in favor of Pendleton. When Athena went to bat in the ninth she knocked four runs to tie. Willard needed a slow toward first which Hartman picked up, but could not get to the bag before Willard, Shea bunted and by beating the ball to first turned it into a safe hit. R. Brown was safe at first on a hard hit which Patterson couldn't get. The bases were full when Mr. Cartano stepped to the base. He knocked a wicked grounder between left and center fields, clearing the bases and landing on third. Saunders struck out. Lieallien struck out. Dell knocked the ball to Marquis, who fumbled, Del going to first and Cartano home with the tying run. No more runs came until the 11th. Waters pitched the inning. Shea got his base on balls. R. Brown struck out. Cartano made another safe hit, bringing Shea to third. With Saunders at the bat a wild pitch came and Shea crossed home base with the winning run and the game was over.

The game was full of sensational plays, Cornell, Clarence Penland, Cartano, and Willard great fielding, while Waters, Cornell and Cartano carried off the batting honors.

Here is the score:

The Summary.
Pendleton	AB	R	B	PO	A
Pendleton	5	2	0	2	0

HOSE AND PEANUT RACES

First Event Won by Default—Raiph Bollerman Won the Second.

The wettest hose race last evening was taken by Protection company by default, the other companies which were to have contested did not have their teams on hand at the scheduled time. Protection company covered the course, making all connections properly and the judges gave the race to that company. The judges were C. E. Roosevelt, G. A. Hartman and C. A. Frazier, timekeepers, Thos. Milarsky, Joe Tallman and Thos. Thompson; starter, Horace Stillman. This gave the silver cup to Protection company, also the cash prize of $25.

Following the hose race was a very amusing race for the small boys, being a peanut race. The youngsters worked hard, the following being the contestants: Ralph Bollerman, Harry Dupuis, Niel Dupuis and George Baker. Ralph Bollerman succeeded in securing the most peanuts and was declared the winner.

BAKER CITY'S GREAT CIRCUS.

Police Are Kept Busy Keeping Peace in the Menagerie.

Police authorities are having so much trouble with the circus people that Deputy Sheriff Fleetwood's elephant seems like a poodle dog in comparison, says the Republican. But then Deputy Fleetwood's trouble is over. The elephant made strenuous objection, so the wits about town say, to having its trunk attached, and endeavored to prove that he was not responsible. Last night he took the law in his own hands and departed without a check on the trunk, together with the property and persons of the graters.

But there are people enough left to keep the police busy. Yesterday one of the graters came up to Jay Yost, who was talking to McDonald, and without warning knocked him down for his statements regarding them.

Later in the day two more of the outfit were brought before Chief Kilbourn for fighting. No complaint was made, but the chief informed them that another such action would place them on the street in ball and chain.

Later yesterday evening McDonald was arrested for striking George Caetello, the man who made the attachment. It seems that they were in some dispute and McDonald struck him, inflicting a bad wound over the eye with a diamond ring. A warrant was issued and officers Hemple, Merrill and Chief Kilbourn went to the depot to arrest him. His pals attempted to resist, and made dangerous threats, but three drawn pistols brought them to time.

The circus people have been in the habit of running towns and policemen, but they found their match in the local force.

Athena Items.

Athena Press: Mrs. Aaron Kees, of Pendleton, was the guest of Mrs. Edwin R. Cox this week.

Third street, back to the alleys from Main, have been graded and crushed rock put on this week.

Saturday evening W. R. Taylor accompanied by W. S. Flynn, left over the W. & C. R. with a band of horses, which he will dispose of in the eastern markets.

The entertainment and ice cream social given by the members of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor, was a success in every particular. It was well attended and everybody had a good time.

Athena will have a good road leading south from town. The new bridge across Wild Horse is completed. The county will soon do its portion of the work on the portion of the road leading south from the bridge, and the new roadway from Main street to the bridge will soon be completed.

Tried the Gold-Brick Racket.

Andrew J. Goves is the name of a man who thinks that Baker City people are so green that green grass looks pink by comparison, says the Baker City Herald. He came in from Heer-ford today with some specimens of rock heavily covered with gold. He offered a one-half interest in his claims to a man named Neumeyer, for $35. But Neumeyer was wise. He took the rock to an assayer and as soon as the assayer looked at it, he said: "Why, that gold has been pasted in the rock."

Investigation showed that it had been pasted in with mullage. It is just this class of sharks who would belittle Eastern Oregon's mining interests. It is just this class of fakirs who prey upon honest people, and the Herald takes pleasure in exposing this man Groves, believing that it will be a warning to others of his ilk.

An Earthquake's Energy.

In the great Gila quake of 1891 the earth, besides dropping twenty feet in sections of forty to sixty miles at a time, shook to-and-fro with frightful rapidity in quivering waves about a foot in width, says Ludlow Brownell in Everybody's Magazine. There was an upward impetus to the earth particles also, despite the fact that the surface fell twenty feet. This had a rate of about four hundred feet a second. One effect of it was that houses weighted by heavy roofs sank up to the eaves, and another, that gateposts without top weights, and therefore free to act, jumped about as though playing leapfrog. A shock of the fifth of the force of the Gila quake would demolish London in thirty seconds. Wooden houses in the suburbs might remain standing, however, for their construction affords some play.

The Charleston earthquake in 1886 was a severe one, and scientists have estimated something of its energy. Professor Milne says, speaking roughly, 240,000,000,000 foot-pounds for an area ten miles square. To produce a shock of such force, let any one drop a 24,000-ton ball from a height of 190 miles.

Speed on Railroads.

Railroading has already been a prolific source of profit to the inventor, but before speed materially higher than those now used can be generally adopted, he must be called upon to again improve the railroad in its every member. The rail joint must either be abolished altogether, making the lines continuous by welded joints, as is done in the best street railway practices, or a mechanical joint better than any yet made must be invented. But more important than all will be the methods of preventing collisions while despatching trains at short intervals. Since electricity will be the motive power, it is possible that this may be so applied, as to make it impossible for two trains to be run into each other even by intent.—Everybody's Magazine.

WOMEN and especially mothers are most competent to appreciate the purity, sweetness, and delicacy of the cream, and to use it for their daily. Its remarkable emollient, cleansing, and purifying properties derived from the cream, the great skin cure and purifier of cosmetics, warrant its use in preserving, purifying, and beautifying the complexion, hair, and skin, and in the form of face cream, lotion for alleviating weakness, annoying irritations and chafing, too free or excessive perspiration, and for many sensitive purposes which readily suggest themselves.

In many of the above conditions, gentle and safe with CHILDREN, will prove of astounding benefit.

OREGON NATIONAL GUARD

Off for An Outing in the Wilds of Clackamas County.

Portland, July 6.—The Third regiment of the Oregon National Guard started off Friday morning bright and early, headed by its band, and with waving flags and standards, on its practice march. The regiment took the steamers Altona and Latona for Oregon City, whence the march started without delay for the wilds of Clackamas county and the Sandy river. Company A, of Oregon City, fell in with the Portland boys at that place. The freight train consists of ten wagons and 40 horses. The men are fully equipped as if bent on a march to meet an enemy. Privates carry guns, tents and blankets. Commissioned officers are each allowed 40 pounds of baggage, and this is shipped on the pack train. Members of Company B, who nearly to a man saw service in the Philippines, were fairly in it, and it was evident from their action that they felt right at home when the march started and the bugles began to play. The regiment will be absent about a week.

PORTLAND WOOLEN MILL.

Contract Let and Construction Will Be Commenced Soon.

Portland, Or., July 6.—The contract for the Portland woolen mill has been let, and construction will be begun within a month. The mill is to be erected at Sellwood, an East Side suburb. Excavation for the wheel pit and tail race is about half completed, and as soon as that is finished, construction of a dam and waterway from Johnson creek will be taken up. That project includes the building of a dam near the headwaters of Johnson creek, which is to furnish motive power for the mill. The mill is to be modern and perfect in every particular. The latest machinery will be installed. The building will cover 200x180 feet of ground.

Six-Legged Sheep.

The Heppner Gazette is responsible for the following: A freak that was shipped from this city Saturday was a lamb with six legs. In front it looked like any other sheep, but behind it was provided with an extra pair of well developed legs and feet. The lamb was apparently in good health and attracted considerable attention as it moved around munching hay and making six tracks with as much ease as an ordinary sheep makes four. The lamb was sent to Portland, where it will be placed on exhibition.
