ROY RALEY AND E. P. DODD WITH THE MT. HOOD PARTY.

Upheld the Reputation for Their Home Town and Broke the Trail to the Summit.

Roy Raley arrived home Monday Roy Raley arrived home Monday from the Mount Hood trip, having in company with E. P. Dodd represented Pendleton in a party of 119 who went to the top of the mountain on Friday last. Mr. Dodd was expected to return home this evening. He went to Olympia from Portland for a day or

Mr. Raley is very enthusiastic over the experience, which was his first in real mountain climbing. He thinks that, although there are elements of danger while wending one's way over the crevasses and glaciers there are enough of novelty and exhiberation to

As the party was at Camp Mazama, awaiting the day for the ascent, Raley and Dodd decided that they would go up before anyone else, and therefore started out to make the trip. The theory formulated by them was that Pendleton as a town never waits for other places to lead the way, but has always been accustomed to do the trail breaking. The young men were desirous that the town's reputation be sustained, hence they proceeded to sus-tain it. Without saying anything much to the remaining Mazaams, they set out for the extreme top of the earth.

As they went upward, a blizzard began. A blizzard on Mount Hood holds certain characteristics that will not be appreciated by people who have never been there. Something like nine been there. Something like nine million tons of snow swept past them tise the Saturday game and as a result million tons of snow swept past them a practice game of three innings was each second, the senses became scarcely a practice game of three innings was played to an empty grandstand.

Although the Sunday game was better advertised, the people seemed to nave a presentiment of what was going to happen on the field that day, and the grandstand was only half filled.

Their venture was successful in that Their venture was successful in that they went higher than the other preliminary parties.

Although the party did not get to the top of the mountain, nevertheless the Pendleton party upheld the repu-tation of the town, and thus did itheir climb, 119 went to the summit, not the largest number on record, but one of the largest. The year the Society of the Mazamas was organized nearly 200 ascended during the week. "The view from the mountain's summit," said Raley, "is something to pay one for the toil of the ascent. It is not a trivial thing to reach that summit. There is considerable danger, and one may at any time meet his death. But, regardless of all this, I am surprised when I think of it that so few Oregonians have been on Mount Hood. mountain is one of the wonderful attractions that makes Oregon famous in the east, yet it is true that almost more people from other states comprise the parties going up each year.''

SUPREME COURT FINDINGS.

Cases Decided Affecting Umatilla County Litigants. Copies of the supreme court de-cisions handed down in Salem on Monday were received by Deputy Clerk Lee Moorhouse this morning.

Lina H. Sturgis, appellant, vs. William Baer, respondent; appeal from Umatilla county; W. R. Ellis, judge. Raley & Carter for appellant; T. G. Hailey, for respondent. Opinion by health. The best means of obtaining Bean, C. J., lower court reversed and this is by the use of Hostetter's a new trial ordered. In substance, for $139.10 found case was one brought among the papers of the late S. P. Sturgis and payment of which was demanded by the executor, G. A. Hartman. Wiliam Baker, the maker, claimed it had been paid, and the lower court refused to admit the books of Mr. Sturgis to show on the part of the fever and ague. plaintiff that the note had not been paid. The higher court reverses the ircuit court and orders a new trial.

Peter West, appellant, vs. George and Andrew Eley, respondents; appeal from Umatilla county, W. R. Ellis, judge. Peter West for appellant, T. judge. Peter West for application by G. Hailey for respondent. Opinion by Wolverton, J. Lower court reversed. Plaintiff claimed that the defedants were indebted to him in the sum of $60 on account of services as attorney.

$25 WORTH OF CONTEMPT.

awyer Expresses His Scorn of an Unfair Judge.

A newspaper dispatch told the other day of "Golden Rule" Jones, formerly mayor of Toledo, Ohio, being fined $5 for contempt of court, for expressing that contempt for a decision of the municipal judge as he rendered an opinion during the trial of a prisoner.

Reading the dispatch, a Pendieton lawyer tells about being in a case several years ago in which the court was manifestly unfair to his opposing counsel. The court repeatedly decided points in a prejudiced manner, and finally the other lawyer became disgosted and expressed himself in somewhat out spoken terms. The court promptly exercised its prerogatives and fined the offending lawyer $10 for contempt. The lawyer stood looking at the judge for several moments, his face plainly telling what was in his mind, and his indignation gradually getting the better of him. At last the wrath mounted up to such a height that it flowed over its barriers, and wrath mounted up to such a height that it flowed over its barriers, and the angry lawyer exclaimed loud enough to enable his words to be heard court."

Neither fine was ever collected.

These reports show that more sober and painstaking inquiry has developed the fact that some of the Chipese officials supposed to have been connected with the Boxer outrages, whose capital punishment was demanded by the foreign ministers, have been proved to be entirely innocent of the charges made against them.

CANDY FOR 'VARSITY GIRLS.

Practical Joker Kept Confectioners Busy-Dr. Harper Refused Sweets.

"I want 500 one-pound boxes of candy, to be delivered to the young women of the Chicago University," said a well-dressed young man to one of the big Chicago confectioners today, "Who are you?" asked the surprised dispenser of sweets. "John D. Rockefeller, jr.," replied e well-dressed young man. "Send the well-dressed young man. "Send me the bill at the Auditorium Hotel." Then the confectioner got busy. But he was not the only busy confectioner. Nine others were just as busy as he, for he had called them to his aid. "It's for John D. Rockefeller, jr.," he told the confectioners.

When the candy began to arrive Dr. Harper was surprised to receive it. The candy was marked "For the girls." "Take it away!" cried the doctor.
"I'll take any donations of money and property, but I will not accept candy." The girls just had a glimpse of the sweets as they were tossed back to the dealers. There was no "Mr. Rocke-feller" at the Auditorium. The police are looking for the joker.

RAILROAD STATISTICS.

Abstracts From Interstate Commerce Commission's Report. The Interstate Commerce commission announced an abstract of statistics of railways in the United States for the year ended June 30, 1900. For thirteen years ended June 30, the total casualties comprised 86,277 killed and 46,027 injured.

Sixteen railroads went into receivership during the year ended June 30, 1900, while thirty-five were taken out of receivers' hands, leaving fifty-two in receivership on June 30, 1900. There was a decrease in capital stock represented by the roads in receivership as compared with the previous year of $112 113,833, and in funded debt of $199,003,718.

The aggregate railway mileage 259,788, including 193,346 of single track. The commissions' report includes 2023 railway corporations. The operated mileage of roads merged, reorganized or consolidated during the vear was 9547 against 5846 for 1899.

averaged 20 locomotives and 733 cars for each 100 miles of line. There were 1,017,653 railway em-ployes of all classes and $577,264,841 were paid in wages and salaries. There were $11,491,034,960 of rail way capital outstanding, of which 54,34 per cent paid no dividend. Athena, July 23.—Fred McDougall took out a header crew Saturday to Warren station, where he will cut and stack George Schroeder's wheat crop. William Booher's header crew commenced work in W. H. Reeder's barley Sunday. Marion Jack and Brown & Hodgen's header and thresher crews also started the season Sunday. It is expected that most of the crews will be at work by the middle of the week. The crop prospects in this locality are daily growing brighter, and it is now confidently expected that the yield will be above the average of last year.
