Rev. W. E. Potwine Writes Regarding the Sunday Law Question.

To the Editor.-I should be more than glad to know that I had misunrecent editorials of your paper upon the "Question of Sunday Closing. The writer, however, has made his position clear, and your readers are forced to the conclusion that he has decommunity is now presented with the spectacle of the open, and, what seems to me, the shameless advocacy, on the part of its daily paper, of the with-drawal of all legal recognition of the tirst day of the week, commonly called Lord's Day, the observance of P. T. Thomas, Sumterville, Ala., "I was which by Christian people in the past has done much to elevate and refine society.

Because the restraints which have hitherto been in force, and which have indirectly shielded this day as a day of religious observance, have seemed to infringe upon the so-called "inherent rights" of the individual, it is now proposed, regardless of the effect upon the moral aspect of the question, to repeal all such restrictive legislation, and, so far as may be, to obliterate all distinctions which now exist in the eyes of the law between Sunday and the other days of the week. In other words, it is proposed to secularize a day which has hitherto been regarded with reverence by a very large class of people, and which the Christian church has held to be holy.

No one knows better than this bold advocate of unrestrained Sunday license that the present practices and habits of many people, by which, in the eyes of the church, the Lord's Day is profaned, but which he openly advocates and encourages, are subver-sive of the very principles for which Christianity stands. No one better knows society's need of every moral support that it can command, and it is this fact that amazes me, as I review the sentiments that underlie the articles referred to. Not chiefly as a minister of the Gos-pel, though I am well aware that my words will be judged from that stand-point, but as a Christian man, who for nineteen years has been identified with nineteen years has been identified with this community, humbly endeavoring to build up therein a sentiment of deeper reverence for holy things, I solemnly protest against this attempt to obliterate distinctions which have made for the welfare of the people to whom I am privileged to minister; and I call upon all Christian people who are like-minded to resist an influence which seeks to enthrone in our Code of Law the spirit of secularism, which breathes through the recent utterances of your paper on this cent utterances of your paper on this
