STREET SPRINKLING TAX SHOULD BE LEVIED.

It would be a wise move on the part of the city council to levy a tax for the who 'lives up to his income' and saves maintenance of the street sprinkling nothing is at least as large a factor in for the coming year. This summer en- the accumulation of capital as the man terprising citizens contributed suffi-cient money to carry on the work dur-that we would all start in tomorrow ing 1901. This was done under a tacit and narrow down our expenses to the understanding that if the experiment proved the desirability of continuing it, the expense was to be borne hereafter by the collection of money through the usual taxation methods.

As to the street sprinkling, all citisens now realize that it is of prime importance. It has made Pendleton a better place in which to live, more comfortable and more cleanly. No one will be willing to dispense with it bereafter. This is an undisputed fact.

But, it is fair that in the future this expense shall be borne by al: alike. Some citizens enjoying the benefits of the sprinkling have refused to contribute their share towards the expense. By the levying of a tax for this purpose, the burden will be carried by all, perforce, and the council will be supported in their action if they levy the needed tax.

oatmeal gruel, and make it thin at that," with the idea of saving our-selves rich, how long would it be before we should find that instead of being on the bighroad to greater wealth and higher civilization, we should be on the back track to poverty and barparism? There would be no demand for anything except oatment, and as no one could sell anything else that be bappened to possess, he could not acquire the wherewith to buy oatmeal and would have to produce it himself or steal it or starve. There would be no trade, no use for all our fine business blocks, nor for the railroads, nor steamboats, nor factories, nor any of the arts of civilization. The labor saving principle of the "division of labor" could not be utilized except on the smallest scale in cooperative oatmeal production. Altogether, we should be in a very bad way—a good deal worse off than the Indians were, for they had elbow-room and a game preserve at their back. PROGRESS IN ORIO.

It is well that women are more patient than men. Few men could bear the bitter panels, the agony and distress that women endure. Thousands of women have come to look upon suffering as a duty of their sex. But there are many instances of this heroic fortitude which now renders unnecessary. Women need no longer suffer for modesty's nake. Wine of Cardul brings relief to modest women in the privacy of their homes. Many of the hest homes in this city are never without this great medicine. It cures whites and falling of the womb and completely eradi-cates these dragging periodical pains. Mrs. Davis' cure shows you conclustrely what you may expect if you follow her example and take wine of Cardui. Thedford's Black Draught aids Wine of Cardui by regulating the stomsch and howels. When you ask your druggist for these medicines, he sure you get them. It was Wine of Cardul and Thedford's Black Draught that saved Mrs. Davis' life. Never take a substitute.
