OPENS THE SEASON TUESDAY "Daughter of the Diamond King" by Whitecar and Laurette. James Welch, local manager of the Frazer opera house, announces "Daughter of the Diamond King" as the opening attraction for the 1901-02 season. An excellent company, headed by LaBelle Laurette, seconded by W. A. Whitecar, will present it on Tuesday night, September 3. The opera house has been rededicated and will be more comfortable than it has ever been. The present boxes have been entirely made over, and the arrangements are now such as to enable the heating of the house and the obviating of the disagreeable draughts heretofore moving through the auditorium when the curtain was raised. George L. Baker, the manager of the Frazer and of the Baker City house, goes to Portland on September 12 to order new scenery. Of the company to be here Tuesday night, the management thus announces: "The grand scenic production, "Daughter of the Diamond King" will be the opening attraction at the Frazer opera house next Tuesday, September 3. It is from the pen of that well known playwright, Chas. A. Taylor, author of other popular productions. The play is built about the life of a young New England lassie, both young and handsome, who is a daughter of one of New York City's most leading diamond merchants. Appropriate scenery and effects and a cast of twenty artists headed by the charming "LaBelle Laurette" are the features. It need not seem strange when stated on good authority that Mr. Taylor's new production has surpassed his vainest hopes.

A COLONY WANTS TO COME Arkansas People Seeking Information Regarding the Far West. A. N. Barnett, writing from Chickasaw, Arkansas, asking for information regarding Umatilla county and stating that a colony of people there desire to locate at some point in the far west. They would farm and raise stock, especially sheep, and desire to inform themselves thoroughly as to the resources of this region. Mr. Barnett will be glad to receive letters from persons having lands to sell or who are acting as agents for others who have farms or stock ranches to dispose of on reasonable terms. The letter came to W. D. Chamberlain, county clerk, at whose request the East Oregonian gives it publicity. Fiercest Fight. One of the fiercest fist fights ever seen in Wallula took place there yesterday morning in front of the post-office, between Jim Reed and Tom McNett, both residents of Wallula. The difficulty arose over a dispute as to which was the best man. They fought by rounds and the fight was so wicked that it was stopped in the third round by the outsiders, when it was seen that McNett was outclassed and that the fight would be serious with him.

DURHAM WENT GUNNING DREW DEAD LINE IN WALLULA AFTER SOME DRINKING. Sam Bowman, an O. R. & N. Employee. Nearly Shot Down by the Crazy Man. Over in Wallula Tuesday Judge Durham after imbibing quite freely of spirits frantically went home and took out his double-barreled shotgun and went gunning. He drew a dead line woman or child in the village or country roundabout to cross the aforesaid line. Sam Bowman, an employee of the O. R. & N., without intending to accept the challenge of Durham unwittingly crossed the line and barely escaped being shot down. Durham was arrested for assault with intent to kill and at last report a preliminary hearing was being held before a local justice of the peace. The affair caused not a little excitement in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Buchanan will return with her sister. C. K. Cranston, H. Kruger, S. B. Carnine and H. L. Hasbrouck have returned from their fishing and hunting trip to the Minum country. They had success in landing trout and bagging small game, and enjoyed the outing immensely. Lady Nellie Lambson, state commander, and Lady May Sherwin, state representative, of the Lady Maccabees, are in town on their way to Portland. They are returning from Fort Huron, Mich., where they have been attending the supreme review of the Ladies of the Maccabees. A party of Pendleton young people drove out last evening to the reservation where the engineers who are doing the grading on the railroad are uncoupled, and were welcomed with a huge bonfire and in other pleasant ways. The party comprised Miss Dea Hendley, Miss Emma Pawtelle, Miss Mabel Matthews, Miss Amy Matthews, Fred Earl, John Stevenson, Will Kellar and Clarence Penland. Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Garfield came home today from a summer camping trip to the Cascade mountains southwest from Prineville. They had a delightful outing. Dr. Garfield killed three deer and a bear, and shot no more only because his and other camping parties thereabout could not consume the meat. Small game and fish were abundant.
