CRISIS FOR THE AMALGAMATED.

Next week will probably see the end of the great steel strike. Theodore Shaffer, the president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, appears to have failed to carry out his plans. Expecting 100,000 men to strike directly, in that industry, against the trust, and thousands of other workmen to sympathize and perhaps go out, too, he succeeded in carrying with him only 30,000 at first, and made only inconsequential additions later to the strikers' ranks. Even then, he lost men from the start, so that now the trust has more than a majority of its plants at work. It is likely that by one week from Monday the strike will have completely collapsed. Many friends of the workers will regret their failure.

FRIENDS UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

A bowl of mush and a hot cake met on the table of a Dutch brewer, in Bremen, one winter morning. The mush was steaming and the cake was sizzling and in the few seconds of life left them, while Herr Brewer was getting ready for breakfast, they struck up an acquaintance. "Your face looks familiar to me," said the mush. "We must have met before."

"Possibly we have," said the cake, mournfully. "I am a stranger here; where do you hail from?" "My story is a long one and I have not time to tell you all of it, for the old man is pulling on his last flipper, and will soon make short work of us both. I am from Oregon—Umattilla county. Oregon—from a ranch on the reservation."

"Oregon? Umattilla county, Oregon—a ranch on the reservation! You are mocking me! You detestable bowl of mush! You have learned my history and are taunting me with it! I hope that Dutchman swallows you by one bite, you scoundrel! That is my home, which I shall see no more and I am proud of it!" related the cake.

"Well, well," said the mush, "you must have been close to a hot stove, from the warmth of your speech. What do you know about Oregon? You Dutch-raised-rye! Talk about Umattilla county; no Umattilla pancake ever smelled like that steam rising off your face! I am from Oregon wheat, first grade. All been pulled and beared and pulled and beared, and whipped and stored in every market! I am a part of the commerce of the world! I wasn't raised on the side of a dyke, banished in an ox-cart and beat out of my sheaf with a club! I was one grain of a 1000-acre field; it looked bigger than a Gernsey, when it began to turn yellow, and old Bill McDougall drove in with three Harvest Kings and a look over his possessions!"

A tear oozed out of the hot cake, and it knew it was with a friend. While they were talking, a messenger came after the Brewer, and he went up town without eating his breakfast.

"My dear friend," said the hot cake, reproachfully, "You have said enough to convince me that you are my kins and kin. The names you mention have been in my heart for a year. Old Bill McDougall raised me, and my ancestors for years before."

"You don't say! God bless you! I apologize for my hasty speech! Before we go, let us understand each other, and die at peace," said the mush, cooling down. "It is a strange fate that throws us together again at last. I have been around the world, since last harvest. It seems an age," said the hot cake. "Since the sickle cut me down. Once I was lost at sea, once I went up to 99 cents and once was the cause of a suicide, during this past eventful year. Say, dear cake, whereabouts in the big field did you grow?"

"Down in the southeast corner, close to that old straw stack that caved in and smothered two calves last winter; I was in the tallest bunch of grain in that part of the field, right by a big sun flower that grew alone—replied the cake."

"The tallest bunch of grain in the field, eh? You are no taller than I am, now," said the mush tartly. "How much did it yield per acre down in that corner?" "45," said the cake.

"45? why I heard Old Bill say the best grain in the whole 1000 acres was on an old cow-cornal, up on the Smith 80, and that's right where I grew; up next Jack O'Connor's barn! I am old fashioned Fall sash; been in Umattilla county since '84, and 45 bushels is pretty tolerable good for a dry, knoll like the south east corner," said the mush, giving off another slight puff of steam.

CATARRH

A Constitutional Affection.

Sprays, washes, powders, salves, medicated tobacco and cigarettes, however long and persistently used, do not cure Catarrh. They relieve temporarily the inflammation in the throat and nose, and enable you to breathe more easily and freely, but the continual rush of impure blood to these parts keeps up the irritation and ultimately produces ulceration of the glands, when the breath becomes exceedingly offensive and the soft bones of the nose are frequently destroyed. The catarrhal inflammation extends over the entire surface of the mucous membrane, or inner skin; the stomach, kidneys and lungs are often involved; the whole system soon becomes affected by the rapid absorption of poisonous matter into the blood, and the disease that you had hoped to cure with simple local remedies, assumes a dangerous form.

I had Catarrh about 15 years, and tried during the time everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. At last I came to the conclusion that Catarrh must be a blood disease, and decided to give S. S. S. a trial. I could see a little improvement from the first course, it seemed to get at the seat of the disease, and after a few weeks' treatment I was entirely cured, and for more than seven years have had no sign of the disease.—MRS. JOSEPH L. LIPSON, Mich.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease—a blood disease which is frequently inherited, and only a blood medicine, such as S. S. S., can remove the hereditary taint, destroy the poisons that have been accumulating in the system for years, perhaps, and restore the blood to a healthy and pure condition. The inflamed membranes and diseased glands are healed by the rich, pure blood, which is carried to them, and the offensive discharges from the nose, and the terrible headache and neuralgic pains cease. Chronic cases of the most desperate character and apparently hopeless, have been cured completely and permanently by the use of S. S. S.

Write our physicians fully about your case and they will cheerfully assist you by their advice. We charge nothing whatever for this service. Book free application.
