AFFECTING SCENES AT THE DEATH BED.

President McKinley Passed Away at 2:15 O'clock This Morning at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—One of the most touching scenes around the bedside of the dying president occurred on Friday afternoon. After he himself had given up hope, according to one of the doctors, with his life ebbing slowly away, he summoned Dr. Rixey to call in the physicians. When they had assembled, he said: "My end is near. I wish to thank you for what you have done. The decree of a just Providence must be executed. Let us pray." and, closing his eyes, the president recited the Lord's Prayer. The physicians stood with bowed heads.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—President William McKinley died this morning at 2:15 o'clock. The sad end came after hours of the most intense anxiety that has yet marked the watchers at his bedside. Not even during the last moments of his life, when the shooting was the strain greater, the hope that had buoyed up the American people, and which took its incipient here, when the wounded man showed such apparent gains, had become almost a certainty, and the rejoicing was deep. The end came seven days after the assassin's pistol shots resounded around the world and heralded that anarchy had struck a blow at the strong, good man who stood at the head of this great nation.

Dr. Rixey stood by the president's side with his fingers on the pulse as he died. W. S. Brown announced the death to the cabinet members, who were lunching in another room. At 2:37 o'clock, Senator Hanna and Gov. Herrick started down town. When Senator Hanna pushed through the ropes, the newspaper men tried to interview him. He said: "I can't say anything, boys." He leaned heavily on his cane and on entering a carriage was driven away.

At 2:35 o'clock Helen McKinley and Mrs. Duncan, the president's sister, were driven to Charles Hunley's house where they will spend the remainder of the night. Col. Webb Hayes came with a carriage and took Mrs. Baer away. Soon after, Dr. McBurney arrived in an automobile. He was followed by Dr. Mynter. Those in the room at the time of the president's death were Mrs. Sarah Duncan, Helen McKinley, Lieut. James McKinley, Col. W. S. Brown and Dr. Rixey, the only physician present. The last coherent statement made by the president was between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. He was then informed by Mrs. Thorney, Stockton, Park, Mann, and Mynter that there was no hope of saving him and he was told to prepare for the worst. At that time the family was called into the room.

Mrs. McKinley swooned. Mrs. McKinley was brought in and for a moment sat on the edge of the bed, but swooned, and the doctors removed her. While she held Mr. McKinley's hand, he said "Goodbye, goodbye. 'Tis God's will. His will be done, not ours." During the last three hours the president mumbled words from the hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee." They were faintly audible. Between 11 and 12 o'clock, the members of the cabinet went to the president's room and one by one stepped in for a moment and clasped his hand, as did also Senator Burroughs of Michigan and Senator Fairbanks of Indiana. Senator C. M. Depew arrived.

San Francisco Observances. San Francisco, Sept. 14.—All the exchanges closed today. A majority of the business houses also closed, draped in mourning. No performances will be given at the theatres today. Mayor Phelan issued a proclamation requesting that the day of the funeral be made a holiday.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—There was an air of hushed solemnity about the Milburn house early this morning. Shutters were drawn and a few signs of life visible. Sentries paced up and down the stairs and a corps of weary newspaper men who had been noting every incident about the place since the president's assassination were still keeping up their ceaseless vigil. As the morning hours advanced, the crowds began to gather, but were kept in check at the rope by the police.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—Dr. Waddin says the immediate cause of death was toxemia of the abdominal cavity. At 2:15 it was stated the autopsy on the president had been performed, but the bullet had not been found.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—When the Kaiser heard of President McKinley's death he sent a message of condolence to Mrs. McKinley, and ordered all flags on government buildings at half mast. This is a distinguished mark of respect, as never before has the death of the president of a republic received such honorable notice in Germany.

MR. ROOSEVELT SWORN IN SUCCESSOR OF MAJOR MCKINLEY TOOK OATH OF OFFICE.

Month Before He Will Be Established in the White House. Roosevelt arrived at 1:30 o'clock. He was met by a detail of mounted police and a squadron of the signal service men and at once escorted to the residence of Ansley Wilcox, where he took the oath of office. Secretary Hay will have charge of the funeral arrangements. The body probably will lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol and the funeral services doubtless will be held under the great dome.

Washington, Sept. 14.—It will probably be a month before President and Mrs. Roosevelt are established at the White House. No preparations for the removal from New York state will be made until after the funeral. Mrs. McKinley will not return from Canton after her husband is laid to rest, so there will be no sad leave taking. While all the cabinet officers will resign, Secretary Root, many think, will be retained, perhaps eventually as secretary of state. Secretary Wilcox is almost certain to be retained, while political prophets predict Gage and Knox will also linger. Soon as the news of the president's death reached the United States embassies, legations and consulates abroad, flags above each will be draped to half mast and will remain so during the official mourning. On the day of the funeral guns will be fired at navyyards within the United States and on all ships of war flying the stars and stripes throughout the world.

Chicago Case Next Monday. Buffalo, Sept. 14.—The Colgoz case will be presented to the grand jury next Monday. It will be set down for trial on September 25 before Justice White of the supreme court.

Chicago Hearing Postponed. Chicago, Sept. 14.—Hearing of the habeas corpus case of the anarchists under arrest here was postponed until Monday at the request of the prisoners, out of respect for the memory of the president. Fearing there would be violence when the prisoners are taken into court, scores of additional deputies and policemen were stationed about the room and none but those who had business in court were admitted.

AWFUL RAGE OF THE ANGRY POPUL

The Mention of the Assassin's Name Causes Fierceness of Feeling.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—There was little sleep in Buffalo last night. A mourning, whispering populace suddenly was transformed into a frenzied mob. Hearts were torn by conflicting emotions of deepest sorrow and a thirst for vengeance on the hated Colgoz. Lowering in his cell, the assassin heard that his dastardly purpose was accomplished. The angry roar of the surging crowd outside broke into cries of "Hang him!" "Lynch him!" So soon as the president passed away, the crowd began to gather, increasing momentarily and there were prospects of a display of force. Men in the crowd were calling for volunteers to wreak vengeance. The police were alert to suppress the demonstrations. The exposition will remain closed for forty-eight hours.

Terrible Rage in Buffalo. Colgoz last night was removed from his cell in the police station 400 feet behind the strong walls of the penitentiary. At the first signs of mob violence the policemen dragged the assassin from his cell, pushed him into a cab, and hurriedly drove through the streets and drove to the penitentiary. Colgoz was deathly pale and stared about in pain of fear. He spoke no word, but shook back in the darkness of a corner of the cab. When the steel bolt clicked behind him at the penitentiary, he sighed in relief, and overcome by nervousness and fright, laid down on his bunk and trembled. The mention of the name Colgoz is indescribable when Colgoz is mentioned. Eyes blaze with hatred and almost beastlike cries of rage escape them. Governor Odell and Chief of Police Bull after consultation made arrangements for which reserves may be drawn within two hours, if needed. District Attorney Penney and Chief of Police Bull notified the newspapers not to post inflammatory bulletins. The mob was driven from police headquarters, Franklyn street and Terrace, Seneca and Swan streets are denied to public use. Mounted police are watching the crowds to suppress outbreaks. One man who started an excitement by yelling "We'll lynch the—" was clubbed so severely he had to be taken to a hospital.
