Three Gypsy Women Arrested. A gypsy camp appeared on the outskirts of town this morning, near the Lee street bridge, and all day long Marshall Heathman has had his hands full trying to keep the dusky wanderers out of town. Three of the women insisted on going about from place to place begging, and the chief soon became so exasperated that he captured all three and placed them in the city jail. The procedure was decidedly to their distaste, and on the way to the jail and even after they were inside they told the marshal what they thought of him.
