Marquis, the useball pitcher with the handle on the wrong side, in which he swears salty to his alma mater and says : "i have been amazed within the last et by newspaper articles and ingiring letters which state that I have with the University of Oregon. and further, to my astonishment, I and that I was on the way thitber and had passed through Portland, where my well known facial characterstim had pointed me out. I must conto some pleasure at this informates, so I never had been fortunate sigh to ever visit Portland before. Now, as to the truth in the stateso industriously circulated, I nost say that in the first place, the sirenity of Oregon never offered me inducements financially or otherthe to enter as a student at Eugene, are such as they do to all others as and in their catalogue. How any iny friends in Whitman could imaans for an instant that I would be may to desert the school that I love is the paltry consideration of a few its is beyond my conception. "I felt that high honors were berest on me at Whitman far trans-essing my merits, for I hold that errone owes it to his college to give withis best endeavors. At Whitman began my college course and there I meet to finish it. Having for the misse the deepest love and for its wil-ing stadents and worthy instructors he highest regard, it would be imposhe for me to bring myself to think kran instant of finishing my college tion in any other school.

All Mr. Mackay wants is permission have not been able to keep the trail, however, without putting their horses to their best speed, and their protec-tion to the president is about as valu-able as that of the patrolman on the best. The president pays no attention to land the cable, and an assurance that the government will give him its business, which is now very large. He proposes to give guaranties to lay the cable and maintain it without any cost to the government, the cable company agreeing to give the government busi-ness right of way, and in case of war or other public necessity, permit the line to be taken over by the government.

The company furthermore promises to reduce the far eastern rates from 40 to 60 per cent below those now charg-ed. Mr. Mackay said his company would bind itself to begin work early and complete the connection between San Francisco and Honolulu within nine months and the entire cable to Manila in two years.

It is everywhere conceded that a cable with the new connections of the and invigorator, and for sickly people country is a pressing necessity, and who need a tonic it is unequalled, as congress has for several years discussed the subject without result. Various plans have been proposed, most of them calling for large sums of public money, either through heavy subsidies or through the government building the cable itself. The estimated cost of the work is about $15,000,000.

It is stated that the consent of con-gress is unnecessary to the permit to lay the cable, and that the state department has full authority, through the direction of the president, to grant permission. In all probability the de-sired permission will be given by the president.
