LIEUTENANT FARROW HERE

TELLS OF FIGHT WITH INDIANS NEAR PENDLETON IN 1878.

Since his resignation from the Army he has followed mining and railroad building.

Edward S. Farrow, formerly an Indian fighter and lieutenant in the United States army, arrived in Pendleton this morning from Baker City. Lieutenant Farrow is well known to the pioneers of eastern Oregon and especially to the old residents of Pendleton as having taken a prominent part of the Indian fighting during the troublous times of 1878 and '79. He led the attack on the Snake and Pitou Indians who were seeking to form a junction with the Umatillas about a mile from town. The battle began on the morning of August 11, 1878, and lasted all day. With 110 mounted infantry at his back, Lieut. Farrow finally drove the Indians across the Grande Ronde valley, over into Idaho and across the Seven Devils range and in 70 days he captured remnants of the band at the middle fork of the Salmon river.

The lieutenant is responsible for the name of "Seven Devils" given to seven high peaks in the copper mining district of Idaho. He says that he and his men captured seven Indians in the mountains and hung them there. Hence the name "Seven Devils."

Many Pendleton people remember the spirited fight outside the town here and the courageous action of Lieut. Farrow.

In an interview, he spoke of an incident which occurred in the trouble with the Nez Perce Indians at Yellowstone park. Chief Joseph, who was at the head of the band, is often charged with great cruelty in his mode of warfare. The lieutenant speaks of him as being remarkably humane to his captives, including Mrs. Trumbull and Sarah A. Allen of Boston, were taken by the Nez Perces. Chief Joseph protected the party for two days, waiting for an opportunity to send them on their way.

Among the Indians at the reservation are some of Lieut. Farrow's old friends, who went with him many times on scouting expeditions in the early days. He mentions among others, Chief Peo, Watis-Kow-Kow and Ya-tin-i-ow-tis.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

Grading on Webb Street Will Commence Soon.

At the meeting of the council last night little business was done except the approval of a few bills and the passing of a street grading ordinance. The bills, including sidewalk liens, amounted to more than $1800.

An ordinance providing for the grading of Webb street between Clay and Oak streets was passed. The meeting adjourned after some argument on the sidewalk question.

Geo. F. Schorr has arrived with his rock crusher which will be set up about a mile east from town, where he will fulfill his contract with the W. & C. R. Co. to crush 2000 yards of rock to be placed on the property owned by the company in Pendleton. The result of the experiments if successful will be to cause the improvement of other localities.

Notice of Proposed Improvement of Webb Street.

Notice is hereby given that, at the meeting of the common council of the city of Pendleton, Or., held on the 24 day of October, 1901, it was ordered that Webb street, between the east line of Clay street and the west line of Oak street, be improved by grading the same with gravel or crushed rock, the cost of such improvement to be assessed against the abutting property. Remonstrance against the said proposed improvement may be filed with the city recorder within ten days from the date of this notice.

By Order of the Common Council.
Attest: J. E. B. E. M. Recorder.
Dated this 31 day of October, 1901.

Registration Books Closed.

The city registration books closed last night and only 448 Pendleton citizens have indicated their desire to vote at the city election. The registration for the election two years ago was 823 names and this year it has fallen down to a little more than half as many.

The enforcement of the poll tax clause is ascribed to be the cause of the decrease. Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock City Recorder Beam said that he expected about twenty-five more names before the books closed. More registered than were expected and more than fifty names were entered during the evening.

J. A. Schiller Wants Damages.

J. A. Schiller has filed a complaint in a damage suit at the county clerk's office against John Seibert. It appears in the complaint that in May, 1899, Mr. Schiller purchased Mr. Seibert's tailoring business, paying him $800 for the same and at the same time Mr. Seibert agreed not to engage in tailoring in Pendleton for five years. On or about September 1, 1901, the defendant with A. Schwartz started a tailor shop and now the plaintiff wants $4800 for the damage done to his business through the breach of contract.

Railroad Men in Town.

Four railroad representatives are registered at the Pendleton today. They went from Portland to Huntington yesterday with a party of forty persons who are bound for the Buffalo exposition. TO TAKE UP TRUST ISSUE

Attorney General Knox said to be preparing an opinion.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The question of trusts will be again brought up in the next congress. The Sherman anti-trust law is not broad enough to deal with the gigantic combinations of capital which have recently been formed. President McKinley recommended this subject as one for careful consideration by congress, and the house passed an amendment to the Sherman act. On the last day of the senate this amendment, which had been the subject of much debate, was recommitted to the committee on judiciary. That ended the effort in regard to trust legislation by the Fifty-sixth congress.

President Roosevelt is on record as saying in his speech at St. Paul on Sept. 2:

THE MAYOR'S FINAL DECISION

Dr. Vincent Says He Will Not Accept Re-nomination.

A petition was started last night among the friends of Dr. F. W. Vincent, praying him to accept the nomination for another term as mayor of the city. He was urged strongly to reconsider his determination to prohibit the use of his name. After urgent entreaty by his friends, he said:

"My decision is final. I am not and will not be a candidate. I have given much of my time to the city, and have sacrificed my private business interests. Having accomplished the objects which I set before me when elected, I feel that someone else should be charged at no small expense to me. You may announce finally and unequivocally that I am not a candidate for re-election.

General regret is felt and expressed that the mayor arrived at the decision, although the reasons given are known to be solid.

Jap Bank Panic Substiated.

London, Oct. 3.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Times says the recent bank panic at Osaka and Kioto has entirely subsided and the deposits withdrawn have been returned. The public has learned that there is danger in too many small and mismanaged banks. The promotion of new banks has ceased and the small institutions are closing.

The government will introduce at the next session of parliament an amendment to the law governing private savings banks.
