RESPECT FOR THE FAIR

Buyers Will be Here on Market Day.

Outlook for the first monthly market fair to take place in Pendleton Tuesday, grows brighter as the time approaches. K. T. Cox, who has the management of the fair, has been placed, has been the farmers in this neighborhood have promised to bring their best milk cows, hogs and all of farm produce. The grocers agreed to bring the produce offered and the other merchants are making a special effort to bring the best of their goods.

Buyers from out of town will be here on that day. N. H. Pinkerton, who buys cavalry horses for the British government, has promised to bring his stock of horses to Pendleton. Thomas Thompson of Pendleton has received signed checks from Holcomb of Seattle with intention to purchase horses. J. C. of Seattle and also other out of town buyers have signified their intention of being here on market day.

J. Jackson, industrial agent for the U. S. and all the Harriman has been working all along and the result of his efforts is that the fair will be a success. Farmers who could not promise anything for sale, have said they will aid the experiment by presence.

It is expected that some buyers will be here to look at road-rollers. C. H. Goddard, manager of the road-roller, was here yesterday and that several men in Walla Walla desired to purchase well bred animals, and were willing to pay what such horses are worth if they get what they want. Mr. Goddard says there is a demand for horses that can draw a buggy in a minute and a cart faster. They are able to stand at the end of a pedigree, and have some style. He himself will be here to see what is offered, perhaps others will come with local horses man experience difficulty in adjusting their harness to the supply. The fair is here, but in many instances

MOURNING IN MANY A FAMILY

Precious Livis That Might Have Been Saved

If Paine's Celery Compound Had Early Been Used.

Instead of Putting Faith in Worthless Cure-Alls.

There should be new legislation against the exercise of criminal ignorance in times of sickness. Many a good family is in mourning today for the loss of a relative who, when first the symptoms of serious sickness appeared, made the fatal mistake of simply taking the wrong medicine.

An soon think of stopping the sun with a wave of the hand or stopping the onward course of disease in the human system with any of the various patent concoctions under patent names so numerous in the market today. There is but one remedy known to medicine that can bring new life and vigor to worn-out nerves, restore their normal condition the functions that depend upon nerves and brain, properly nourished and fed, that cure sleeplessness, always indigestion, sends healthy blood coursing through the veins, tones up the system, and makes the weak strong again, and that is Paine's celery compound—the discovery of the greatest of America's many great physicians.

Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine. It is the one prepared remedy that has the unqualified endorsement of those physicians whose

THE OCTOBER BOOKINGS

Something About the Famous Founder of Haverly's Minstrels.

James Welch, local manager of the Fraser theatre, has these bookings for the present month:

Oct. 14, Under Two Flags.
Oct. 15, The postponed graduating exercises of St. Joseph's academy.
Oct. 18, Wilbur Kerwin Opera company.
It is not known what opera the bill will sing.
Oct. 25, Haverly's minstrels.
Oct. 28, "Common Sinner."

The "Honolulu Coon" was produced again on Friday night at the Fraser. The house was full. It was an attempt to play a two-night stand here and was an experiment. Repertoire companies have usually done good business in Pendleton, but it has never yet been found profitable to play the same route twice in a season. The two houses of Thursday and Friday could almost have been accommodated at one time. The management of the company failed to fill the promise of giving new songs and specialties on the second night. The Friday night production was exactly the same as that of the previous evening.

The coming of Haverly's minstrels on the 25th brings to mind the recent death in Salt Lake of the famous founder of the organization, Jack Haverly, as stated in the East Oregonian's telegram on September 25.

The career of "Jack" Haverly was unique. He was born about 1843 at Bellefont, Ohio, and had to fight his way from the start. His father was an American and his mother an English woman, and they died when he was little more than an infant. He had inherited the best traits of both, but this was all that was left him.

At 15 he began to sell newspapers and soon got a railroad route. This took him to Toledo, where he opened a news depot, and everything he touched turned to money. By the time he was 18 he had conceived the idea of starting a show, and he had the money with which to do it.

The first attempt was a minstrel show and was a success. He made a number of brilliant plunges, and then was brought up with such a round turn that he made a voluntary assignment for the benefit of his creditors. His liabilities were in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. He was sold out for $1,100,000 and was left $400,000 in debt.

Undismayed by the failure he at once organized Haverly's Mastodon minstrels, of a hundred members and talent, and started out to conquer the world anew.

He lost his money through his fierce determination to beat the "game" in Wall street and on the Chicago Board of Trade. By his own admission he had been seven times rich and had lost seven goodly fortunes. He was a man of medium height, gray hair and twinkling gray eyes.

He had an inveterate passion for games of chance, and when far from the scene of giant speculation would seek out the biggest game of poker in the vicinity. Traveling in Texas one time he met a high-roller, who admitted that he was fond of poker. Haverly blushing confessed a similar predilection. But the haughty stranger said that he did not think Haverly's game was up to his standard in the matter of stakes.

"If I tell you what we'll do," said Haverly, "I'll take $5000 apiece and buy twenty chips. Then we can play just one game of freeze out for the whole sum."

The southerner was "game," and in twenty-three minutes Haverly had the whole stakes in his inside pocket. Haverly was always furiously active and he soon put out "Michael Strogoff," "Widow Hedott" and "The Silver King." Then he organized the Church Choir Opera company, "Haverly's Madrigal Boys," the Juvenile Opera company and the American-European minstrels.

About this time Eugene Field wrote a poem about Haverly, from which the following stanza is taken:
How grand you looked, Jack Haverly,
A marching down the street—
A diamond on your bosom, patent leathers on your feet!
Your sturdy, curly mustache, a warm
and hilarious shoop,
Seemed to advertise the circumstance
that there are no flies on you;
First came the band, and then you came, and next your famous troupe,
And last of all we youngsters, with a
wild hilarious shoop,
For it couldn't be expected that we younksits should be dumb
in the rapture of the trumpets and the big bass drum!

VIM VIGOR VITALITY FOR MEN

Dr. J. C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People

Dr. J. C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is a medicine that has the unqualified endorsement of those physicians whose knowledge and ability have made their names known not only among their immediate neighbors, but throughout the country.

No other prepared remedy was ever recommended publicly or privately by the head of the medical department of a great university. No other remedy ever had the hearty, bona fide endorsement of the wives and households of the wealthiest as well as the poorer citizens of the most famous cities.

A single bottle, to be had of any reputable druggist, will prove its unequalled merit to any family where to-day some member suffers from the much-to-be-avoided beginnings of what before the winter is past, unless attended to promptly, may prove to be the final breakdown.

"Paine's celery compound," says Hon. R. L. McKee of Jefferson City, one of the soundest men in public life in Missouri, "Paine's celery compound is so well known that I feel that a recommendation from me can add very little weight, but I do wish to gratefully recommend it to those who have never been so fortunate as to try it."

There is no reason so favorable as this for taking advantage of the wonderfully renovating virtues of this remedy. Don't begin the winter in poor health. Nature does little at this season to rejuvenate the fagged-out brain or to restore to health the diseased nerves. Paine's celery compound nourishes perfectly the bodily system. It cures diseases of the important organs of digestion, circulation, and excretion. It regulates the entire nervous system and supplies the body with strength to combat disease.
