Ablest of All Physicians Freely Give Advice.

It is truer today than ever before that one man is no better than another unless he does more than another. When, recently, in the most learned medical review in London, the organ of the great English college of physicians and surgeons, it was proved by exhaustive statistics that, despite the drain upon nerves and blood incident to the modern, strenuous life—despite the fact that diseases of the nervous system appear earlier and oftener among working people than formerly, nevertheless, within the past five or six years the average life of Americans was materially longer than it was a decade ago—the editors of the review pronounced it as their firm opinion that this undoubtedly resulted in no small degree from the discovery a few years ago by an eminent American physician of a positive cure for diseases of the nervous system, which had promptly been put within the reach of the public in that country.

and was being used more and more generally as a family remedy. One of the physicians, a member then and now of the royal staff, is forwarding a copy of the article to the proprietors of Paine's celery compound, enclosed a long and somewhat technical letter, in which he said: "We are thoroughly convinced that no remedy yet known affords so certain relief from that class of disorders which modern conditions of working and living now breed, as your Paine's celery compound."

Certainly one remedy is no better than another unless it accomplishes more than another. And Paine's celery compound is preeminently the best remedy known to medicine for the cure of ailments that result from impaired nerves and consequent impure blood. The rheumatism neuralgia, sleeplessness indigestion lack of strength that a battle of Paine's celery compound so rapidly dispels are but temporary conditions if the relief that this remedy affords is properly given.

Mr. F. G. Crowell a regent of the state University of Kansas a typical example of the strenuous life of today a college graduate with a later master's degree from Columbia, who resigned from the prosecuting attorneyship of Atchison county after four years to engage in the grain business with the famous Greenleaf-Baker Grain company, is one of the thousands of such young men who owe a debt of gratitude to Paine's celery compound, and to use his own direct words "found it all that it is represented to be."

When everything else has failed, Paine's celery compound makes the sick well. It needs but a single trial to convince!

The English secretary of war, Mr. Broderick, replying to Sir Charles Howard Vincent's offer to raise fresh troops or do anything else to assist the government, declines the proposal and in doing so reviews the British position in South Africa obviously in answer to the persistent and searching criticism of the ministerial journals and members of parliament, that the government is languidly content to let the war drag on.

RAYNOR AND LEMLEY HAVE HOT DEBATE

Latter Intimates Schley's Law- yer is Inaccurate.

AND THEN HE MAKES RETRACTION

After Raynor Brings Up the Matter Before the Court Prior to the Day's Adjournment.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Captain Chadwick resumed testimony before the Schley court this morning. Raynor read the latter part of Chadwick's testimony of yesterday, and said Chadwick's statement that he protested against Sampson's congratulatory message to Schley was certainly gratuitous and left the records in bad shape. Chadwick in answer to a question said he had the Cienfuegos blockade in mind when he made the protest, but protest was particularly directed against congratulating Schley for saying he "would endeavor to coal from the Merrimac and hold the position off Santiago."

Commander Stanton, assistant chief of staff to Sampson, was the next witness. He said he received information from the operator in the Havana office to the effect that Cervera was in Santiago harbor May 20. He admitted the information was not transmitted to Schley until the evening of the next day.

The Heated Debate. During a colloquy between Raynor and Hanna, the former admitted Schley had received a message on June 10 or two weeks after the information had been received at Key West. This message from Sampson told Schley of the arrival of the Spanish squadron at Santiago and instructed him to pursue the enemy if he found they had left the harbor. Raynor and Lemley engaged in heated argument over Raynor's attempt to introduce a coal chart, to which Lemley objected. Lemley accused Raynor of intentionally interrupting the development of the government's testimony and said Raynor was very inaccurate. Raynor's face flushed with anger. He declared Lemley would not make such a statement again. Just before adjournment, which was taken a few moments later, because of lack of witnesses, Raynor called the court's attention to Lemley's conduct and demanded an explanation. Lemley said he had no desire to be offensive, but spoke in the earnestness of debate.
