Kirk, vice-president; E. L. Barnett, cashler; Mrs. E. L. Barnett, cashler; Mrs. E. L. Barnett, assistant cashler. The state of North Carolina requires a license to be obtained for marriages. In South Carolina there is no such restriction. Because of his location Bailes has found that fees for marriages constitute a large part of his income.

North Carolina couples who are unable or unwilling to pay for a license, or who are in an especial hurry, are invited into the South Carolina side of the house and there the service is performed.

Everything went amouthly until a few days ago. In the absence of the magistrate a young couple drove hastily up and demanded marriage is South Carolina. The squire's wife told them her husband was away. She said that she could perform the service, as she knew it by heart, and also knew the sliding scale of charges.

The young persons were satisfied; they were taken into the house and

A GORGEOUS AMBASSADOR.

Magnificent Costumes to Be Worn by the Stamese Minister at Washington.

He will be a particularly gorgeous minister. In Siam his collection of jewelry is no finer than that of many other men of high rank, but Siam has been amassing gems for many generations. He has emeralds, rubies, pearls and sapphires sewed into some of his ceremonial costumer. Besides these he has his more personal jewelry diamonds and pearls in rings, pins, belts and pendants. With all his decorations on, chief among them blazing the blue-white diamonds of the Order of the White Elephant and the prismatic gurgeousness of the Chinese crown, he is literally a dazzling center of radiance, says the New York Sun.

His favorite costume, and that you? which beat becomes him, is the native Siamese panung and embroidered jacket. This panung is the universal garment of Siam for both sexes, and is a long piece of cloth so arranged and wound about as to form a pair of baggy trousers. The ambassador's outfits are of silks that cannot be matched in this country, unless in the wardrobe of his excellency Wu Tingfang, and many of them are magnificently embroidered and jeweled. On his feet the ambassador wears sundals. He wears no hat doesn't own one, in fact. In his own country his head is sheltered by a parasol carried by a slave.

"Fifty years ago members of congress and of the senate would have been compelled by public opinion to wear crape on their arms for 30 days after the death of a president," remarked an ex-member who had served before the civil war, according to the New York Times.

"Up to about 1850, whenever a member of congress died the resolution of sympathy with his family invariably carried with it a provision that members should wear mourning.
