WANTED A CURLING IRON

AND PETER SMITH, WHO IS BALD HEADED WAS AMAZED

When He Called Attention to His Billiard Ball Head, She Indulged in Hysterics.

Pete Smith is one of the men whom everyone in Pendleton knows and whom everyone in Pendleton knows has but little hair. It is something like twenty years since Pete has used a comb and brush, and this is not to say that Pete Smith is untidy in appearance, for Pete Smith is one of the neatest men in town.

But, Pete does not keep curling irons, and all this introductory talk is only to lead up to the relating of a story of how even the serene mein of Pete Smith may at times be ruffled.

Pete Smith is one of the staff at the Hotel St. George, where it is related, the other day a guest remained in bed for 48 hours, because the bed was so soft and he simply could not wake up.

Pete Smith on Watch. Pete Smith was on watch the other night, and the night had almost disappeared. It was close to morning, and the east bound train was due in an hour.

Pete sometimes answers calls from the rooms by the new enunciator system that Mr. Darveau has put in, and that enables the night clerk to call guests in their rooms without tramping along the halls and knocking on the doors and awakening everyone within two hundred feet of the spot where the thick headed slumberer is asleep.

This time, Pete Smith answered the call, and found it was a lady who had rung from one of the elegantly furnished rooms, in which the mattresses cost $28 at wholesale, and there are tasty toilet sets and stationary washstands with hot and cold water and steam heat, and, in fact, everything that anyone would want but a sheepherder, who prefers to rough it in the open.

Pete Smith, as was stated, answered a call and found it was a lady.

She Wanted a Curling Iron. Pete Smith is nothing if not polite. He is gentlemanly towards everyone, and, when a lady is concerned in the matter, he puts to shame Lord Chesterfield, himself, and adopts a manner that would have graced the courts of a French Louis, in the days when courts were graced.

"Sir," said the lady, "I must take the east bound train, within an hour, and I have lost some of my paraphernalia, leaving the remainder at home with my Lares and Penates. Have you a curling iron?"

"Have I a curling iron?" yelled Pete Smith so that all the contiguous guests complained in the morning to the proprietor, "Do I look like a man with a curling iron?"

The lady took one glance at Pete Smith's head, and then threw herself upon the bed, regardless of the awfully bay appearance of her act, and laughed and laughed and laughed, and when Pete Smith left she was laughing, and as far as anyone knows, is laughing still.

DANDRUFF CAUSED BY A GERM.

A New Discovery That Kills the Germ and Prevents Baldness. Pretty nearly all the hair preparations for dandruff, have some merit in ridding itching of the scalp, and in being a fairly good dressing for the hair, but there is only one that recognizes what causes dandruff, falling hair, and baldness, and that destroys the cause—a little germ—and that is Newbro's Herpicide. This germ eats its way into the scalp, down to the hair roots, where it saps that vitality causing dandruff as it digs up the scalp into little white scales. Unless it is destroyed there is no permanent stopping of falling hair and cure of dandruff and baldness. Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause and you remove the effect."

TALKED OF MOVING PICTURES

THEY'RE FROM THE FAMOUS RILEY'S FIGHTING REGIMENT

Two Soldiers Here From Walla Walla on Hunting Pass—Were in China With the American Troops in the War.

William Barmore and Rubie Tawney, of the 30th battery, field artillery, Capt. McLaughlin, have spent two days here upon leave of absence obtained "for hunting," as say the passes they carry. They returned last night, in order to be at the barracks sharply at 8 o'clock in the morning, when their passes expire.

Both were with the famous "Riley's Fighting Regiment," and saw service in China during the recent war. They say they are glad to be again in the states, and that China while holding much of interest is not the place in which the common soldier would like to remain.

Over at Fort Walla Walla now are 200 men, with three commissioned officers, Capt. Ridgway commanding the post.

Fame From Moving Pictures. "It used to be that only by the newspapers could the soldier get to be famous," said one of them, "but now it can be done without you fellows, by means of the biograph or moving pictures. When we were in Pekin, we were photographed by the moving picture men, and taken as though in action, just as though we were actually engaged, and the pictures really look as though the picture men were on the battle field, and meeting the dangers of getting shot into several million pieces. Whereas, as a matter of fact, we were doing it to accommodate him. Why these moving picture men were everywhere, and I would not be surprised to see them in heaven, were I to die and go there the next minute, that is if soldiers and moving picture men both go there.

"Somewhere in the United States now, those moving picture men are exhibiting their photographs of 'Riley's' and making folks think they took the pictures in a battle. However, I will say that they are the best imitation of a battle that ever were taken, for we did our best to go through the evolutions as though we were in action."

LODGES IN WESTON.

Plan to Use Opera House for Meeting Place.

A proposition is on foot to convert the Weston Opera House into a lodge hall. As an opera house it has never proved a paying investment, and it would undoubtedly make an ideal lodge hall, and one of which the societies making their fraternal home therein could well feel proud. Moreover, the Weston Leader is informed that should the change be made the town will not suffer for lack of an opera house; that a building suitable for theaters and dancing would follow that could be conducted at a profit for such purposes. The plans as outlined, and subject to modification, embrace a reception room and banquet hall about 18x50 feet in size, a main lodge room 50x30 feet, and at the rear a roomy kitchen, the necessary ante rooms, paraphernalia lockers, and a small storage room for fuel and oil.

Where is the best place to buy furniture? At Rader's, of course.

A RATHER HIGH VALUATION

$87 PER ACRE FOR LAND LOCATED NEAR WESTON.

W. P. Hopson and R. E. Frazier Paid That Price to Benjamin Osborn.

Eight thousand dollars is a big price to be paid for 92 acres of land. Yet this is the price paid by W. P. Hopson and Robert E. Frazier to Benjamin Osborn for 92 acres near Weston. Of course, this was well improved land, having on it good buildings and an orchard, but this is nothing out of the ordinary for improved places in this part of the country and only goes to show the value at which Eastern Oregon land is held at at the present time.

CONGRESS WILL APPROPRIATE $2,000,000,000 THIS WINTER.

Brief Forecast of the Main Features of the Legislation to Be Enacted.

Washington, Nov. 30.—For at least two reasons, the fifty-seventh congress, the first session of which begins on Monday at noon, will be notable. Appropriations, if the projected program be adopted, will be greatly in excess of any preceding congress' record, and will be near $2,000,000,000, so vast has been the growth of the country and its needs. The start of construction of the inter-oceanic canal will be an epoch-maker in legislation. A forecast of the winter's work of congress includes adoption of the Hay-Pannosofote treaty, appropriation of money to begin work on the canal, reduction of internal revenue taxes, increase of the navy by four new battleships, etc., river and harbor improvements $78,000,000, establishment of a department of commerce, Philippine legislation, opening lands to settlers, extending the act prohib-

ing immigration of Chinese, passing a law concerning attempts on a president's life, eulogies of the late McKinley, to provide for the widow with a pension of $5000 yearly, and to pay bills of the doctors. It is also possible there will be an echo of the Schley inquiry, and that the whole controversy may be fought over again.

FRED DRAKE'S CARTOON.

Appeared in the Portland Evening Telegram of Nov. 28.

Fred Drake, a Pendleton boy who is now in Portland employed on the newspapers there and a cartoon in the Portland Evening Telegram of Thanksgiving day. It represents Uncle Sam with a standing upon his benign countenance, smiling with hand gesturing towards a bulletin board with figures exhibiting the greatness of this country's commerce, and giving thanks for the manner in which Dame Fortune has smiled upon him. The cartoon manifests considerable artistic skill, and is proof that the young man has not failed to improve his time and opportunities since going to live in the state's metropolis. Pendleton friends expect to hear further from Drake, and to see his signatures attached to many cartoons as the years advance. They believe that, if he pursues his studies faithfully he will yet attain high success in his chosen line of art.

WILKINS IS NOT APPOINTED

UMATILLA INDIAN AGENT NOT APPOINTED

President's Amended Civil Service Rules Will Not Apply Here

The president has amended the civil service rules to provide that never the position of an agent of an Indian agency is discontinued until the duties devolve upon the successor of the Indian training school located at the agency, the same to be made a classified employment agency. The agent will be subject to tests of fitness prescribed by the secretary of the interior and the Indian commission. The amendment has been in effect since the present time. The intention is to retain in the classified service agents as prove their efficiency.

This decision, according to those who ought to be in a position to know, will not affect the Umatilla agent, and there is no likelihood of his being removed and the duties of the office falling upon the superintendent of the Indian training school as a result of the operation of the amended civil service rules.

At bedtime I take a pleasant drink, the next morning I feel and my complexion is better. Doctor says it acts gently on stomach, liver and kidneys, a pleasant laxative. It is made of herbs, and is prepared as a tea. It is called Lane's Family Medicine. Bowels each day. Price 25c. For sale by Tallman & Co. agents.
