CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR THE PENDLETON POOR.

Salvation Army Will Perform Work of Charity, According to Usual custom.

According to its annual custom, the local Salvation Army Corps is making arrangements to give the needy poor of the city a Christmas treat. Several days have been spent in locating those families most in need of help.
Members of the army will now be sent around to collect whatever generous ones feel inclined to give. Anything in the line of good clothing or money will be gladly received. All the money and articles contributed will be used exclusively for the benefit of Pendleton's poor.

HEPPNER PEOPLE THINK THEY HAVE FOUND GOOD COAL FIELDS

Company is Doing Development Work and Spending Some Money in Demonstrating What Their Claims Are.

Dr. William House returned from Heppner on the Thursday evening train. He heard some interesting things concerning the operations of the company of Heppner who are expecting to demonstrate that they have good deposits of coal on Ditch creek, about 26 miles from Heppner. The company is composed of George Con-sor, cashier of the First National Bank of Heppner; C. E. Redfield, a lawyer of that town, formerly living and practicing in Pendleton; Dave Herron and E. Lytle, the latter being the man who promoted and built the railroad from Bligg to Shaniko. The Columbia Southern.

The company has already spent considerable money, and feel justified in going on with the exploration work, until they have proved the value or otherwise of the properties.

The enterprise has been watched by many persons, especially by the railroad people, who would like to see uncovered extensive coal beds at some point in eastern Oregon. The location of these claims of the Heppnerites is such as to enable the construction of a road to them in the event the coal is proven to be of the kind to be used in locomotives, and in sufficient quantities.

It is believed that the owners of the coal claims there on Ditch creek will have discovered a good thing financially, if they prove one-half of the coal to be there that was estimated at the beginning of the operations now being carried on.

KRUTZER THINKS HE WILL BORE DOWN TO OIL.

Work on McKay Creek Well Temporarily Stopped—Begins Next Week.

P. L. Krutzer, who is an oil expert and manager for the Eastern Oregon Oil company, left this morning for his home at The Dalles. About the boring or oil now being done in the McKay country. Mr. Krutzer said:

"We began boring on the Sanford Strout place 10 miles south of here in June, and are now down 525 feet, with every indication of oil. We have a rotary drill on the ground, similar to the Standard Oil company's well drills and it is doing good work. We expect to strike oil in paying quantities by the time we have reached 1000 feet, but if we do not it is not the intention of the company to give up, but will go still deeper if necessary. The ground we have gone through has as good indications of oil as the most celebrated oil wells in the middle states when the first development work was started, and the smell of gas is very strong, indicating that there is both oil and gas in large quantities. The company has already expended $2000 for the development work that has been done, and propose to expend many thousands more, if necessary, to strike oil or satisfy ourselves that it is not there. We have 5000 acres of land under lease in the neighborhood of where our drill is now located, and can get more if we want it."

Owing to the fact that they ran out of gasoline, Mr. Krutzer said that active work had been shut down the past 10 days, but he expects to return the first of next week and start up again.

REPORTS FAVORABLY ON ORIENTAL PLACER MINES.

A. L. Moore Says Low Bars May Be Worked by Hydraulic Elevators.

A. L. Moore, of San Francisco, accompanied by County Surveyor C. E.
Macomber, returned late Thursday evening from the Oriental placers, where they made examination for the eastern company owning them, of Sidney, O. Mr. Moore is a mine expert, and he stated to the East Oregonian that he will report favorably to the company, as to the proposition of working the low bars with hydraulic elevators. This is a method of raising the gravel through a pipe, to obtain elevation necessary to sluice and he thinks the ground will be worked next summer. The placers are located on the north fork of the John Day river, 15 miles above the bridge, eight miles beyond Texas Bar.

They found 18 inches of snow on the mountains, with decidedly a winter appect.

FREE DELIVERY IS FAR IN FUTURE FOR PENDLETON.

Postoffice Department Earning the Title of the Circumlocution Office.

What has become of the free mail delivery? This is the question many Pendleton people are asking. The agitation for free delivery in the city limits was started over a year ago, when a petition was circulated and unanimously signed asking that the postal authorities favor the residents of the town by establishing the free delivery which is in vogue in every other town having the volume of postal business that is transacted in Pendleton in the northwest. After investigation and due consideration by the department, the system was promised and the houses ordered numbered.
This has been done and nothing remained but routes to be laid out and active work to be established. Some time ago, Postmaster Fell, in answer to the inquiry as to when he expected to have the free delivery started, said that he hoped to have it going by the first of the year, but when seen yesterday he informed the East Oregonian that there was no possibility of anything of the kind before the first of March, and that he was very doubtful if it was established before the first of June.

To many it seems that this is unnecessary delay on the part of the postal authorities, who led the people to believe that all the preliminary work necessary had been accomplished some several months ago, and that the delivery would be started right away. Considerable impatience is manifest over the delay.

Divorce Suit.

Kate Fugot vs. George R. Fugot, is the title of an action filed for divorce at the court house this morning. The plaintiff alleges cruel treatment and desertion. They were married in Pendleton in 1884 and have four children, two boys and two girls. She wants the custody of the two boys, aged 10 and 8, and wants other redress the court sees fit to give her.

The delivery of 50 tons of prunes from the drier of J. H. Barrett, of Gales Creek, was sold at 2 1/2, 3 1/2 and 4 cents per pound.
