QUESTION OF SKILL

WILLY DUNN SAYS OREGON HORSEMEN CAN RIDE WELL.

states instance of How Newt Jones, of Heppner, Stumped the Boise "Broncho Busters."

Willy Dunn, one of the O. R. & N. inductors running between Pendleton and Portland, remarked upon a recent article appearing in this paper, in which the fact that Moncrieffe others have imported "broncho busters" into the Malheur country to work horses for the South African army service. Mr. Dunn formerly lived in Wyoming and has seen much of this western region in which horse-riding is a fine art, and it is commonly supposed that as good saddle-men live as are to be found anywhere in the world. Said he: "I believe that here in Umatilla county and over in Morrow are the best horsemen in the world. If there are any men anywhere who can ride things that wear hide, it is right here. I heard about an affair at one time, when Newt Jones, a son of James Jones, of Heppner, came to the 'bronchoing' contest, and cowboys who had gathered from all over the country were there from Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Utah and so on, and the crowd comprised as many as ever wore a pair of spurs.

Newt was blooded.

Mr. Jones looked over the program and decided that he wanted to be the fun himself, but he was used to see to it that no one said he had easier horses to ride than he. Hence, when he drew the chance to select his animal, he drew up the man who drew the chance, and traded with him, and all the other fellows the address, and allowing them to pick out the best horses, and he took what was left.

"News won the honors of the contest, and convinced the crowd that Oregon men could ride some. He stayed in the saddle while his horse plunged and reared and bucked, as only wild range horses will do, and not one of them was able to unseat him.

"He was brought up in the Heppner hills, and learned all he knows about horses from the experience in the country surrounding that little town. I believe he can ride any horse ever born.

Some Other Nervies.

"Up in Laramie, Wyoming, one day, a fellow named Sam Collins offered to do something that scared the major portion of the life from a company of cowboys that had assembled there. A band of horses were in a corral, and a dispute arose as to who was the best rider. Collins made a proposition to the most offensive one that caused him to crawl, and gained for Collins a name for nerve of an unusual nature. He laid a $20 gold piece on the ground, and said to the other one: 'Now, if you will agree, we will stand up here on this board that we will place over the opening of the corral. We will jump onto the back of the first horse that comes out, without saddle or bridle, and ride as he runs with all the other running with him.' The other fellow did not accept the offer.

"Another cowboy came through one time driving stock from Oregon into Wyoming, and gave an exhibition that made the horsemen of that region think they had never seen any one before who knew how to stick in a saddle.

"In fact, I guess that Oregon need not import horsemen, and that Malheur matter of bringing in riders was due to the temporary trouble between the local men, or to some other cause than inability of Oregonians to ride as well as those of other states in the west."

Most Healthful Place.

The most healthful place in the United States to live in is Marion, Ia., according to reports received by the marine hospital service from 1,190 cities and towns having a population of 1000 or over. Marion has a population of 4192 and there were only six deaths in 1900, making a death rate of the phenomenally low figure of 1.45 per 1000. The average of the death rate in all the cities and towns was 17.47. It appears from the compilation of the marine hospital service that the state having the best record for health last year was North Dakota, with a death rate of only 6.95 per 1000 population. By far the most healthful of the populous states, however, was Iowa, the death rate being 11.17.

A FREEWATER MAN

THINKS EAST END WANTS NO COUNTY DIVISION.

J. W. Arnold Believes People Are Satisfied With Present Status.

J. W. Arnold, a well-known merchant of Freewater, was in Pendleton Friday evening. He was asked concerning the matter of county division, and said:

"I believe the majority of people in the east end of the county are not in favor of the division of the county. It is my opinion that they are satisfied to allow things to remain as they are. There are many who honestly think the county should be divided, and that it is due to the people of that portion of the county that they be set off from the other part. But, were it put to a vote I believe, the majority would vote against it."

Freewater to Incorporate.

Mr. Arnold stated that the town of Freewater will be incorporated early next spring. It was the intention to present the question to the county court at the January session, but it was found that it was required by law that it must be advertised for three weeks before it could go before the court, and this will be done, the election being ordered by the court, probably, so that the matter will be submitted to the voters in a short time.

New Postmaster There.

Mr. Arnold has been postmaster of Freewater for some time. His business has grown so that he has resigned and H. C. Jones, editor of the Freewater Times, has been appointed. Mr. Jones sent on his bond to the department, but errors being found, it was sent back for correction, and the official will assume his new duties sometime soon after the first of the year.

No One Kicking.

"No, there has been no injury to fruit trees," said Mr. Arnold, "nor has the grain been hurt by the cold weather. So far as I can learn, and I see many people in my store, no one is kicking about anything, and everyone up there is satisfied with his present condition. We are busy developing the country, and are going to have the garden spot of the world, there, some day. In fact, it is as near to a garden spot now as any place in the west."

Negro Race Not Declining.

The statement has been made frequently that the negro race was on the decline, which as a matter of fact the figures of the decade prove that it has increased. The percentage of increase for all persons of color is 17.8 and out of that percentage the negroes may claim all but a very small part. There are now more than twice as many of them in the country as there were in the days of slavery, and they constitute almost one-eighth of the total population.

There are now thirty-nine sugar-beet factories in successful operation in this country. The state of Michigan leads with twelve.

SOME SOCIAL NOTES

PIONEERS OF THE PACIFIC HAVE 400 MEMBERS HERE.

They Enjoyed a Pleasant Social on Wednesday Evening at the Hall.

William Martin Encampment, Pioneers of the Pacific, held their annual banquet and ball in the Hendricks hall Wednesday evening. A short program, consisting of instrumental music by Kirkman's orchestra, a solo by Mrs. Borie, an address by L. B. Hoeder, and a paper on the reminiscences of the Pioneers of Umatilla county, was read by Len Sharon. The program and banquet over the hall was cleared and those who enjoy the keeping time to the dance music indulged themselves for several hours, while those who did not care to dance were enjoying a quiet game of cards.

The Pioneers, as an organization, was originated in Pendleton in December, 1887, and since that time has grown to be one of the strongest organizations in the city, it now having a membership of nearly 400, among them being some of the most influential and prominent citizens of the town.

Jolly Club's Party.

The Jolly Club gave its first invitation dancing party in La Dow Music Hall Friday evening, and they proved that the club is an assured success. Light refreshments were served and the hall was decorated very nicely. The aim of the club is to extend further among the young folks than any club hitherto organized, and is a worthy undertaking. The first party surpassed the utmost hopes of the members and of the 50 couples present all went away saying they had been entertained nicely, and many were the congratulations the members received. The club intends to give their parties twice a month during the winter.

Most Remarkable Family.

The most remarkable family discovered by the census enumerators was at a little village named Mary's Home, in Miller county, Missouri, about 20 miles from Jefferson City. The enumerator in that district reports that he found Mrs. Henry Smith, wife of a store-keeper, 32 years old, who during a brief marriage of seven years had presented her husband with 16 children. Only one of them was a "solitaire." There were two pairs of twins, two sets of triplets and one quintet, five sturdy boys at a birth, averaging six pounds in weight. They are all alive and hearty, their mother is as active and strong as any woman in the state.

At San Juan, Porto Rico a municipal judge has seized an edition of La Voz de la Patria, a newspaper published in the interest of the federal party, and which was launched last Saturday. The paper printed an article criticizing the municipal physician, who is a republican.

A well turned ankle proves nothing.
