AT THE WHITE HOUSE

President Roosevelt's First New Year's Reception.

SCENE ONE OF EXTRA-

ORDINARY BEAUTY.

With His Official Family Around Him, the Chief Executive Does the Honors and Greets a Large Number of People.

Washington, Jan. 2 -President Roosevelt-held his first New Year's reception at he White House New Year's day, and surrounded by his cabinet circle, greeted officials as well as a great concourse of people from private life. The scene within the historic mansion was one of extraord? nary beauty and brilliancy. The day was ideal for the observance of the time-honored custom of making New Year calls. Shortly before 11 o'clock throngs of distinguished callers began to assemble. First came members of the diplomatic corps. Exactly at 11 o'clock the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, arm in arm descended the stair way while the marine band broke into bowed as he passed along. Mrs. Roosevelt held in her hand a support boquet of pink orchids. The presi-dential party took up its station in the blue partor with President and Mrs. Roosevelt immediately alongside the entrance ready to grass the hands

f callers as they were announced. President Roosevelt's manner of receiving callers was exceedingly graclous and happy. As each guest was announced by Colonel Bingham, the president grasped the hand of the rigitor and wished him a happy New Year, often accompanying this with a fallellous expression. Mrs. Roosevell proved a most charming New Year hostess. The cordiality of her greeting reminded many callers of the days when Mrs. Cleveland was mistress of the White House

Following the reception at the White House, the principal events of the day were the receptions by cabinet officers. Secretary Hay enter mined the entire diplomatic body.
