Thompson, one of the Butter Creek men, who, with Robert Stanfield and others, is figuring on shipping a train load consisting of 250 beef cattle, to Chicago during this month, says that they have concluded to abandon the project for the present, at least. This is because local and Sound buyers have come up on prices and are offering as much as could be secured in Chicago after the expense of shipping was taken out. The price offered now by local dealers is $4.20 per 100, and raisers are holding for $4.25, which they expect to get before buyers will see these cattle shipped out of the country.

THE STATE TREASURY

SEMI-ANNUAL STATEMENT OF THE STATE'S FINANCES.

Scalp Bounties Payments Exhausts the Bounty Fund Provided by the Legislature.

State Treasurer Charles S. Moore has just made public his semi-annual statement of condition of the public funds. The statement shows that there is now in the treasury $828,297.25, of which $561,123.54 is in the common school fund. The amount of money lying idle in the common school fund is $25,000 less than it was last year, though the fund has, of course, been increasing. The increase is out on loans. The statement shows two other facts of general interest: That the general fund will probably be exhausted before next year's taxes begin to come in and that the scalp bounty fund is in the same condition. Last year at this time there was in the general fund about $152,000, or nearly twice as much as remains unexpended at this date. The fund was barely sufficient to last until taxes began coming in last year, so it may be predicted that the state will be obliged to pay interest on warrants for two or three months in the spring. As interest-bearing state warrants are desirable property, it will occasion no surprise to state that some who now hold warrants are not presenting them. They prefer to wait until the fund is exhausted, and then by presenting the warrants they secure the indorsement, "Not paid for want of funds," after which the warrants draw interest. The shortage in the general fund is due to the heavy appropriations made by the last legislature.

Scalp Bounty Fund.

The amount of money drawn from the treasury on account of scalp bounties during the last six months was $54,548.94. There is now but $16,654 left in the fund, and this is covered by outstanding warrants already called in. This fund was the product of the one-mill tax levy by the last legislature. The levy produced or will produce, when all the counties have paid their bounty tax, some $117,000. But warrants and certificates are out to the amount of about $122,000. It is therefore apparent that $15,000 of the warrants will have to await the pleasure of another legislature. Besides this fund, the last legislature appropriated $25,000 to reimburse counties to the extent of two-thirds of the amount they may pay out on scalp bounties under the new law. When the secretary of state has issued warrants on that account to the amount of $25,000 he will refuse to issue any more, so no interest-bearing warrants will be out on that account. The scalp bounty warrants, aggregating $13,000 for the payment of which there are no funds available, will draw interest until the legislature sees fit to provide a means of paying them. These warrants were issued under the old law, prior to its repeal. The legislature intended to provide enough money to pay all of them, but $117,000 proved not to be enough.
