GRANDSON OF BRIGHAM YOUNG IN PENDLETON.

He Has Had a Checkered Career and Played for High Stakes.

Eric Canfield Young, is in the city. This simple announcement would not be of much interest were it not for the fact that something goes with it. This young man, aged 26, is the son of John W. Young, and the grandson of the famous Brigham Young, for years the head of the Mormon church. The grandmother of the young man who is now sojourning in Pendleton, is Anna Eliza Young, whose lectures throughout the United States a few years ago did as much as anything else to throw light upon the subject of Mormonism, and to bring its teachings of polygamy into disrepute. Libbie Canfield Young, the mother of this young man, left her husband because he practiced polygamy, secured a divorce, married another man and is now living happily with her husband in the sister state of Washington, but in what particular city the son does not state. John W. Young, like his illustrious father has had an eventful history.

Went Broke Big.

He went broke in Salt Lake City for $1,500,000 after having made several fortunes in railroad building. He built and owned the Salt Lake City & Park city railroad, also the railroad from Salt Lake City to Garfield Beach on Salt Lake, 12 miles away. Mr. Young was one of the principal constructors of the Oregon Short Line from Pocatello to Butte, Mont. Having gone broke in the United States he went to London and floated two big propositions, but sickness coming on he lost everything and set out for New York City, where he arrived in the winter of 1898-1899 without enough money to pay his cab fare from the steamer dock to the Baird hotel. He registered and commenced to work out the scheme which has since made him wealthy.

A Brilliant Scheme.

He conceived the brilliant idea of consolidating the ship-building companies of the United States, and the result may be seen in the combination of the Cramps company, the Newport News Company, the Union Iron Works of San Francisco and a number of other leading ship-building firms of the United States. He organized the combination and secured the capital to carry it to a successful issue. Within three years from the time he commenced upon the proposition he passed from the condition above stated to one in which he had $3,000,000 in cash in a New York bank.

Eric Canfield Young is a pleasing talker and will remain in Pendleton for a few days at least, plying his trade, which is that of upholstering. He is accompanied by a fellow-workman named Eugene Westwood.

BOY BURGLARS ENCOURAGED.

By Older Men Over in Walla Walla—Now in Jail.

Walla Walla, Jan. 14.—Charged with burglary, Clay Smith and Harold Kinney lie in the city jail. The latter is but eight years old, while the former is but 16, and is suffering from a broken arm. The boys are charged with taking $5 from the till of Green & Jackson, the druggists, last Sunday night. The entrance to the store was gained by climbing a telegraph pole in the rear of the store, gaining the roof of a warehouse. From there the main building was gained and the till tapped. Nothing except the till was disturbed. When arrested the boys confessed and told of robbing the pawn shop of C. N. Griffiths a few days ago, when a lot of jewelry was taken. The boys claim that older heads advised them and an investigation is being made into the facts today.

QUESTION OF GIVING RAILROAD PASSES UP

As Usual, One of the Companies Breaks Over the Rule, and Perhaps All Others will do the Same.

The annual promulgation of the rule against the giving of free passes by railroad companies has come up in the form of an agreement between the companies that no more shall be given out. And, as usual, before the year is a month old, one of the companies foremost in the reform movement breaks the rule, and starts the stampede that is almost sure to follow everywhere.

A railroad man tells a story that bears upon the subject. Several years ago, the eastern roads and those in the middle west agreed to give no passes, not even to officials of the other roads. This latter clause in the agreement was going a little too far, so most of the officials thought, and they did not like it. It happened that the superintendent of the Chicago & Northwestern road was riding upon a pass issued by the Milwaukee system, and was on the cars the night of December 31st.

The conductor had been notified that all free transportation would become null at midnight, and this general superintendent was in the sleeper when midnight came. As the watch indicated twelve o'clock, the conductor awakened the magnate, and demanded cash fare for the remainder of his journey home to Chicago, which was quite a distance to travel, as the train had only left St. Paul at nine in the evening. The superintendent was compelled to pay his way the remainder of the trip, and it was claimed that he went into the headquarters with such a "roar" that the new rule was abolished and withing the stone at the quarry owned by the company near Dixie, about ten miles from this city. A monster rock crusher has been brought in for use, and it is the intention of the company to use it for several months. A long stretch of roadbed will be ripped and in the low places rock will be used for ballasting and surfacing to prevent damage from the fall rains.

The transfer involved in gain and stock $112,500 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases. They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 13, 1899. is a well all officials were upon upon. This year, 1901, the fact that the pass eradication adhered to has been received by railroad officials of the west in the form of a compromise heralds the falling back of original and unworkable passes far the western roads have affected and it is claimed a difference will be made in as the western roads have adopted the letter of the law. The Erie road was the good. It has sent out that pass privileges will be employees of other roads the restrictions.
