IS THE SENTIMENT OF THE TOWN TODAY.

Warring Factions of City Council Anxious to Get Together—Now no Doubt That There Will Be Some Sort of a Compromise Arranged, Whereby the Machinery of Municipal Government Will Soon Be in Operation Again.

That a compromise will be effected between the two factions of the city government, and the troubles of the past few days will be ended very soon, is assured. There is a feeling of less hostility, and a disposition on the part of all to compromise. The East Oregonian was thus assured today. The assurance came from representatives of both factions, who are not slow to take up the suggestion of the compromise.

It is the general opinion that, under the circumstances, a compromise is honorable for all concerned. Usually, such a suggestion would be spurned, and "fight to the last ditch" would be the slogan. But, it is argued that the present troubles arose from misunderstanding; that good men were holding different opinions as to right; that there was sincerity on both sides; that the misunderstanding caused temporary ill feeling; that continuance of the ill feeling would work irreparable injury to Pendleton; that it was the duty of the officials to settle the dispute in some manner by each side yielding; and, as the crux of the whole question, the yielding is practically agreed to by both parties to the controversy.

On what terms the compromise would be, there was no decision at first. But, expressions of confidence in the desire of all to do what is for the best are heard from many who have been so bitterly arrayed during the past few days, and these presaged the coming settlement.

No Meeting Good Thing.

It was conceded that the fact that no meeting was held was a good thing. If the session expected on Wednesday evening had been held, there would inevitably have been some sharp passages, and the situation would have been more strained. Some of the members, indeed, on both sides of the dispute, thought it might have been better had the word been sent officially, but unofficial word came, and it was quite generally known that the big fight looked for would not transpire.

All in all, the situation today favors an early ending of the troubles. Some plan will be arranged, and soon the city council will be doing business at the old stand as of yore, with no red banners of war waving above the chairs of the local legislators.

THE COUNCIL MEETING THAT WAS NOT HELD.

Box Office Receipts Very Heavy for the Promised Session, But Money Was Given Back at the Door—Only Three Councilmen Appeared, With Mayor and Five Absent.

"Boys, you may get your money back at the door," jocularly remarked Councilman Hartman to the crowd that had waited for half an hour last evening expecting to witness dramatic scenes when the city dads assembled to consider the business of the municipality. The "standing room only" sign had been hanging out since 7:30 o'clock, for many persons desired to see what would come from the mix-up between the fighting members of the common council and the mayor.

G. A. Hartman, E. J. Summerville and Edwin Switzer, of the council, were present. City Attorney C. H. Carter was present. A. D. Stillman was present, as one of Heathman's counsel. John W. Heathman was present. John E. Beam was present. But the mayor and H. F. Johnson, F. B. Clouton, T. B. Wells, J. R. Dickson and C. A. Frazier were absent. The Heathman people said that Mr. Frazier was accounted for, and would appear in the event the meeting were called to order.

The tip had gone in the afternoon that there would be no meeting, and yet the three councilmen who came to the chamber waited apparently expecting that the others would put in an appearance.

The waiting was occasion for some natured chaffing by those who stood by, and wondered why the recreant city dads had remained away when their absence disappointed the spectators who had come with the expectation of witnessing something resembling a thunder storm and a lightning display and a naval battle and a San Juan charge all in one grand encounter.

Various were the comments. There was the man who always sees a "job" in everything he cannot understand. There was the man who thought someone had got scared. There was the man who wondered if the four anti-Heathman men had kidnaped the absent Heathman supporter, but at this joke, Stillman only smiled and said that he would be forthcoming the moment he was needed.

But human nature could not stand the strain, and soon the tension was relieved by the crowd rushing out into the open air and scattering to their various homes, while the three councilmen who had appeared ready for any fray that might occur also departed without the scars of battle to show that they had attended a meeting of the Pendleton common council, which has gained a name for belligerency of late throughout the Pacific Northwest.

THROWN FROM CARRIAGE.

Two Ladies Sustain Injuries From an Accident.

When coming from the cemetery Thursday, where they had driven to attend the burial of Willis Thompson, Mrs. T. J. Morris and Mrs. M. A. Thompson were thrown from their buggy and sustained a very severe shaking up, besides some slight bruises. They were driving along in a lively gait and ran over a stake, which had been set in the ground and was just high enough to catch the front axle of the vehicle. They did not see the stake and when the axle struck it the horse broke loose and the sudden stopping of the buggy threw the occupants out on the ground with the above result.

FOR TAKING A GUN.

Alleged Thief in Jail—Ben Martin Missed His Weapon.

A man was arrested by Marshal to a telegram from Ben Marlin, of Meacham, saying that a Winchester shot gun had been stolen from him and the thief had come this way. As soon as he received the message, Heathman went to Joe Basler's furniture store and found that only a few moments before a man answering the description of the fellow taking the gun at Meacham, had sold a shot gun to Mr. Basler. He then went to the "Last Chance" saloon and found the fellow who was arrested and placed in jail to await developments.

Statistics by Paris medical authorities show that since the first application of Pasteur's anti-rabies treatment, 26,165 persons bitten by mad dogs have been treated at the Pasteur Institute and out of these all but 107 recovered. Thus in sixteen years in Paris alone more than 26,000 have been saved by Pasteur's discovery. A monument to Pasteur is to be erected in a few months on the Square de la Sorbonne.
