RAGE OF PLAGUE

NEARLY 300 HOGS HAVE DIED FROM CHOLERA.

Has Raged for Several Months Badly, and Been in the County for the Past Two Years.

Nearly 300 hogs have died in Umatilla county during the past few months.

This is the startling fact that has come to light since the article in the East Oregonian a few days ago conveyed the first news of hog cholera in the country.

It is impossible to get the exact number of hogs lost from this disease, but the figures will run from 250 to 300, and possibly more. That hog cholera has been raging for several months has been known only by those losing from the disease, and a few others who have been sworn to secrecy because the owner of infected herds wanted to get rid of them before the people became aware of the facts.

Perry Houser is said to have lost 70 head, Pat Kline, 70, Frank B. Clifton, Sam Lowe, Charles Wilkins and many others have lost smaller numbers. Some of them deny that there is any such thing as hog cholera, but Dr. Christie, who has had years of experience in dealing with this disease, says it is cholera and in the worst form. He has dissected several hogs that have died, and some that were found sick and killed for this purpose.

Strenuous Efforts Needed.

The plague has a good start and it will take some time with the most strenuous efforts to stamp it out. People living along McKay creek have thrown the carcasses of those dying into the creek and they have washed down and perhaps injected every ranch below them. Dr. Christie says the only way to stamp out the disease is to quarantine and kill every diseased or exposed hog and then it is a hard matter to get rid of the germs entirely, as they will live in the soil where a diseased hog has been for three years and possibly longer.

Of course, it will seem hard to condemn and kill apparently healthy hogs, but if this is the only means of stamping out the disease it should be done. Dr. Christie says there is no cure for the hog after he once becomes infected and there is little chance to prevent the spread of the disease when it once gets hold in a community.

Been Here Two Years.

There are very few people in Umatilla county that know this disease has been here for two years. It has been kept so quiet that people have lost hogs and not known the cause. The first introduction of the cholera in the county was about two years ago. Cass Rogers, a farmer and stock man living then in the Butter creek country, but who is now dead, introduced the disease on his place by shipping a car of hogs from the Willamette valley. He then had over 700 head and 400 of them died in a few weeks. The rest he loaded into cars and shipped to Tacoma for market. Since that time, the plague has gradually been getting deeper hold and spreading over the country.

TWO NEW BOILERS.

Planing Mills and Steam Laundry install them—Each Fifty Horse Power.

Robert Forster, for his Pendleton Planing Mill, and John F. Robinson, for his Pendleton Steam Laundry, have each bought a new 50-horse power boiler and the purchases have arrived. They will at once be installed in the two institutions. These were demanded by the growth of business, rendering the old boilers too small to do the work. They were bought in Erie, Pa., and are said to be first-class pieces of machinery.

SAYS WAS THREATENED.

Ed Brisbo Claims Will Murray Said Would Kill Him.

Ed Brisbo and William Murray are airing their troubles in court again. This afternoon Brisbo and Murray, who is his brother-in-law, up before Judge Fitzgerald, asking the court to bind him over to keep the peace, charging that Murray had threatened the life of Brisbo and he was afraid would do him bodily harm.

NEW ACADEMY TERM.

Pupils Begin Latter Half of the Year's Work.

At the Pendleton Academy, the pupils began this week their second term of school for the year. The former plan of having three terms in the year has been succeeded by that of having two, and the students were accordingly assigned to duties consistent therewith. The attendance is excellent, and the growth of the academy is a source of satisfaction to the friends of that institution.

Editors and Doctors Compared.

The doctors are all friends of ours, says the Medical Journal. We expect them to stay with us until death, yet at the risk of incurring their displeasure, we reproduce the following from the Litchfield, (Conn.) Engineer. The author of the article modestly withholds his name, but that has nothing to do with the case. The facts are plainly stated in a mixture of truth and fun. Read it.
 The doctor from Alonga said that newspapers were run for revenue only. What in thunder do the doctors run for, anyway? Do they run for glory?

"An editor works a half a day for $3 with an investment of $3000; a doctor looks wise and works ten minutes for $200, with an investment of 3 cents for catnip and a pill box that cost $1.37.

"A doctor goes to college for two or three years and gets a diploma and a string of words Satan himself cannot pronounce, cultivates a look of gravity that he palms off for wisdom, gets a box of pills, a cayuse and a meat saw and sticks his shingle out, a full fledged doctor. He will then doctor you until you die at a stipulated price per visit and puts them in as thick as your pocketbook will permit.

"An editor never gets his education finished. He learns as long as he lives and studies all his life. He eats bran mash and hay; he takes his pay in turnips and liver and keeps the doctor in town by refraining from printing the truth about him."

WANTS TO STOP FLIRTING

Assemblyman Bennett, of New York, has a bill that provides punishment for men who make "Go Go" eyes at the girls. Young women oppose the measure throughout the state.

Water Tank Exploded.

B. F. Coon, living at the foot of Jackson street, north of the river, had a peculiar experience with his cook stove Saturday morning. Mrs. Coon was away and Mr. Coon was doing up the breakfast dishes, when all of a sudden and without any warning, the large water tank on the stove burst with a loud report, letting all the water out on the floor. The cause of the explosion is a mystery. The water was warm and it cannot be laid to freezing.

Santos Dumont's Sailing.

Nice, Jan. 28.—Santos Dumont made a highly successful ascension in his new dirigible balloon today. He sailed over the harbor, having complete control of the airship.

This was the first attempt ever made over the sea in a navigable balloon. It moved along at a rate of 15 miles per hour and sailed about the bay twice. The trial took place at Monte Carlo.
