KEEP THEM CLEAN

HOGS SHOULD BE KEPT IN CLEANLY CONDITION.

In so far as it is possible to keep them in that condition.

Frank Rack, who is attending court from his home on Butter Creek, says the report that Cass Rogers introduced hog cholera in this country two years ago by shipping a carload from the valley, is incorrect. He says that the plague has been in Umatilla county since 1890, when J. H. Koontz, of Echo, lost from 100 to 150 head from some disease resembling cholera, and since that time the same disease has been in different places in the country and hogs have been dying more or less every year. Three years ago seven carloads of swine were shipped from Nebraska, the very hotbed of cholera, to this country, none of them, however, stopping here, but went to Walla Walla and other places in Washington. It is said that many out of this lot died and from them the disease was spread to other bands and has been getting a stronger hold every year.

Question of Cleanliness.

Mr. Rack attributes the cause of this disease to filth. He says that he has noticed hogs that have been fed swill from towns are much more subject to disease than those in the country where they do not get such stuff. He cites an instance at Umatilla, Mr. Condon bought a nice lot of 20 hogs a few years ago and he took the swill from the dining cars passing through Umatilla and fed it to them. It was only a short while until they were all dead. He got more and put them in the same way, but stopped feeding swill from the trains, and although they were on the same ground where the others died they remained healthy and Mr. Condon lost none of them.

Hog Must be Healthy.

As long as the sanitary conditions are right and he is properly fed he is healthy and there is little danger of disease, but as soon as he is surrounded with filth and does not eat proper food he becomes sluggish and if there is any disease prevalent in the country he is sure to be infected with it. This is the theory of not only Mr. Rack but many others. The hogs that are fed the swill from sour barrels that is the receptacle of all kinds of filth and stands from one year's end to another without being cleaned, with every kind of refuse imaginable thrown into it, are most subject to disease.

Think Its Not Cholera.

County Stock Inspector Benn believes there is no cholera in this region and that it is due largely to filth in the pens that deaths are occurring. Furthermore, Mr. Benn asserts that no more hogs are dying than have died for years past.

Blaze at Kemler Home.

Alarm at 12:45—No Damage Was Done.
 At 12:45 today, a fire alarm was turned in from the residence of D. F. Kemler, on Bluff street. It is no longer known how the fire started, but under the house in the sawdust, boxes incasing the drain pipe from the kitchen sink. Mrs. Kemler had been down cellar working around the pipe this forenoon and it is thought she might have dropped a match in the sawdust and it smoldered until the smoke was discovered and caused alarm. By tearing off a board or two the fire was soon extinguished without damage.

GREATEST OF ALL PHYSICIANS

Discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound to Whom Thousands Owe Life and Perfect Health.

"Excepting its handful of magnificent statesmen and its military heroes," says the most recent writer upon America, "the people owe more to Dartmouth's physician-teacher than to any one man."
 "In every walk of life, among the highest officeholders at Washington, in the homes of the best people in the large cities, among the every day folks of the country, families in comfortable circumstances, families that live from hand to mouth, and could not, if they wished, afford the services of any but an ordinary physician—everywhere I have met people to whom Paine's celery compound has been a blessing."
 The story of the life work of this giant among men has been often told and is familiar to most readers. The likeness above is probably the best portrait of him yet printed.
 It was the world famed discovery of Prof. Phelps of an infallible cure for those fearful ills that result from an impaired nervous system and impure blood which has endeared the great doctor of the world and made his life an era in the practice of medicine.

Prof. Phelps was born in Connecticut and graduated in medicine at Yale.
 His unusual talent soon brought him reputation and prominence among his professional brethren. First he was elected to a professorship of anatomy and surgery in the Vermont University. Next he was appointed lecturer on materia medica and medical botany in Dartmouth College. The next he was chosen professor of the chair then vacated by Prof. Robby, and occupied the chair, the most important one in the country, at the time when he first formulated his most remarkable prescription.
 In view of the overwhelming testimony to the value of Paine's celery compound that has recently appeared from men and women of national reputation, the picture of Prof. Phelps is particularly interesting.
 Paine's celery compound makes people well. It is the one true specific recognized and prescribed today by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from debilitated nervous system. Prof. Phelps gave to his profession a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For all such complaints Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

 No remedy was ever so highly recommended, because none ever accomplished so much.
 Today Paine's celery compound stands without competition for feeding exhausted nerves and building up the strength of the body. It cures radically and permanently. The nervous prostration and general debility from which thousands of women suffer so long that it finally gets to be a second nature with them—all this suffering and despondency can be very soon removed by properly feeding the nerves and replacing the unhealthy blood by a fresher, more healthful fluid. A healthy increase in appetite and a corresponding gain in weight and good spirits follow the use of Paine's celery compound.
 Paine's celery compound is the most remarkable medical achievement of this generation.
