THE ORCHARDISTS

SPOKANE NEXT MEETING PLACE FOR FRUIT MEN.

Dr. N. G. Blalock is President for the Tenth Time—Size of New Box Adopted.

Walla Walla, Jan. 30. Spokane is to be the meeting place for the tenth annual convention of the Fruitgrowers' Association of the Northwest which closed its session in this city last night. Unanimously the body decided to meet at Spokane next year, and in addition to the regular business, a collection of fruit is to be gathered by the members and taken to Spokane for exhibition purposes. It is proposed to make this exhibition strictly representative of all sections of the territory represented in the association.

About the last work done by the convention was the election of officers. Dr. N. G. Blalock was for the tenth time elected president, by unanimous vote of the association. Vice-presidents chosen were as follows: Washington, R. Burgunder, Colfax; Idaho, Edgar Wilson, Boise; British Columbia, Professor Anderson; Montana, S. M. Emery, Bozeman; Oregon, E. I. Smith, Hood River; secretary, H. Bolster, Spokane; treasurer, W. S. Offner, Walla Walla.

The association renewed its indorsement of the Washington standard apple box, with measurements as follows: 10 1/2 x 11 1/2 x 18 inches, inside; and the special or California box, 10 x 11 x 20 inches inside. An effort will be made to secure general use of these boxes in the markets of the Northwest.

The association named a committee on legislation, which with the fruit inspectors will endeavor to secure legislation favorable to the fruit industry. The committee consists of Professor A. V. Piper, of the Washington Agricultural College; E. I. Smith, of Hood River, Or.; C. A. Tomenson, Tacoma; Professor Henderson, of the University of Idaho; F. Waldron, Zillah, Wash.; W. L. Lafolette, Pullman, Wash.; Professor A. B. Cordley, Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis.

The association considered at length every pest which infests the Northwest, and in most cases remedial effective and sure had been tried and generally were understood to be used all over the territory. Methods of doing the work were discussed and much was gained by the interchange of ideas and plans. The planting and proper care of young orchards was given attention by C. L. Smith, of Minnesota, who was present at the request of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company. Packing, picking and marketing fruit was a subject of general importance, and a number of methods and plans were advanced. In Oregon the growers do all the picking and packing. In Washington the fruit is picked by the commission men in many cases and always packed by them. It was found that a most extraordinary market had been opened up and is being opened for Northwest fruit, strawberries having been shipped to Liverpool, Hong Kong and Dawson, arriving in fine condition. Prices generally had been and are high, and prospects for the future are bright.
