Economical Expense.

You cannot make an advertisement too plain, and the right sort of illustrations will help. Sometimes their expensiveness precludes their use, but quite often the most expensive expense is the one that is not incurred. Sometimes it is really extravagant not to spend money. If you have a ten-dollar space in the paper, you had better spend five dollars more, if necessary, to make it attractive and effective.—Goood dvertising.

TO JUDGE AN OPAL.

Desirable Qualities That Lend Value to the Now Popular Unlucky Stone.

An expert on opal mining has recently explained how the opal is judged as to quality and desirability. First, he says, color is of the greatest importance. Red fire, or red in combination with yellow, blue and green, are the best. Blue by itself is quite valueless, and the green opal is not of great value unless the color is very vivid and the pattern very good. The color must be true; that is to say, it must not run in streaks or patches, alternating with a colorless or inferior quality. Patern is described as being an important factor, the several varieties being known as "pinfire," when the grain is very small; "harlequin," when the color is all in small squares, the more regular the better, and the "flashfire," or "flashopal," when the color shows as a single flash, or in very large pattern. Harelquin is the most common, and is also popularly considered the most beautiful. When the squares of color are regular and show as distinct, minute checks of red, yellow, blue and green, it is considered magnificent. Some stones show better on edge than on top.
