MRS. CROSS' FUNERAL.

Died in Elgin January 31—Buried in Weston February 2.

Weston, Feb. 4.—The funeral services of Mrs. Ellen M. Cross, who died at Elgin on January 31, were held here on Sunday morning. The deceased was formerly a resident of this place for many years. The interment took place at the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Mrs. H. W. Fletcher, of Linkton Mountain, and Miss Nannie Cross, of Elgin, were in Weston yesterday attending the funeral of their mother. Charles Taylor, of the firm of Taylor & Jarman, returned yesterday morning from a three weeks' visit at Portland and Salem.

Rev. W. S. Paine, pastor of the U. B. church, left this morning for a two weeks' visit at Oaksdale, Wash., where he is to conduct a revival meeting for the U. B. people of that place.

H. B. Nelson and Clark Wood are attending the K. of P. convention at The Dalles.

SHOULDER BROKEN.

Tom Sanford, O. R. & N. Brakeman, injured at Meacham.

Tom Sanford, brakeman on a freight train, was climbing down the side of a moving car at Meacham Monday afternoon, when he was struck by a cattle chute by the side of the track and his left shoulder broken. He was brought to Pendleton and placed under the care of Dr. Cole in the Sisters' hospital. Although he is suffering from a very bad fracture of the shoulder, he is reported this morning to be getting along very well.

The Good Ad.

A good ad is an announcement in brief terms, straight from the shoulder, concise and to the point, telling something in a clear and intelligent manner and stating a few prices as an indicator of the way you sell goods or do work.—Brookline (Mass.) Chronicle.

DEMAND IS GOOD NOT FOR HOME USE

MILLS RUNNING FULL CAPACITY, 24 HOURS

No Prospect Here That They Will Temporarily Close on Account of High Wheat Values.

The Walla Walla Union says in a recent issue:

"With choice milling wheat held at what are said to be prohibitive figures, with flour markets closing and the demand less than has been true for some time, and with holders unwilling to sell at the prices offered, indications are that many of the milling plants will have to close down unless there comes a radical change within the next few weeks. Conditions as they now are lead to but a temporary closing of the mills."

According to Pendleton dealers and mill men, the facts here do not bear out the prophecy. However, this is not saying that the Union is not right in regard to some places, but this is only speaking of conditions in Pendleton.

The Byers flouring mill, with a capacity of 800 barrels daily capacity, is running night and day, and not stopping for Sunday, trying to fill the orders for flour that are piling in on them every day. For the first time in many years this mill is piling no flour. Every sack that comes from the mill is taken direct to the car, where it is loaded for shipment, and orders are in which will keep it running at the same rate for the next three or four months. Most of this flour is being loaded for the Utah market, while some is going to Colorado and some orders are in for export flour. This mill has had no trouble so far to get wheat, and is paying 52½ and 53 cents for No. 1 milling wheat. The farmers are hoping for bigger prices, but it is thought that if conditions do not change very soon they will be willing to sell at the present prevailing price and not hold longer on an uncertainty.

It is declared by those who are in a position to know that there is nothing to lead one who has studied the conditions and the markets to believe that it will go higher. The demand is not great enough to warrant a hope for much rise as there is no shortage in the amount of this cereal now in the country.

Country's Export.

The official returns of the treasury department show that during the first six months of the present crop year, ending December 31, America exported 26,414,000 bushels less of the three leading cereals—wheat and flour as wheat, corn and oats—than in the last six months of 1901, or about 20 per cent less. Of wheat and flour she exported 59,220,000 bushels more; of corn, 75,405,000 bushels less; of oats, 11,224,000 bushels less. The loss in corn and oats combined aggregates 86,634,000 bushels. This month the wheat and flour shipments have been a little in excess of last year, the corn some 12,000,000 bushels less, oats, say, 3,000,000 less. In other words, the loss to date aggregates very close to 100,000,000, yet the amount of corn afloat on the ocean is only some 6,500,000 bushels less than last year at this time. Of 35,329,000 bushels of corn put afloat for Europe in the last 12 weeks, 31,356,000 bushels went from Russia, the Danubian section and Argentina, not quite 4,000,000 from America. The total put afloat like 12 weeks a year ago was 63,317,000 bushels, of which America furnished 49,757,000 bushels. These corn figures are interesting as showing Europe is using much less than last year and that other surplus countries are reaping a rich harvest at the expense of America.

ICE FROM BELOW SEWER IS FOR COLD STORAGE.

Domestic Demand Will Be Supplied From Other Sources, Where Water Is Pure.

In justice to those who are putting up ice for domestic use, it should be said that the ice that is being taken out of the Umatilla river just below the sewers of the city, is being put up for cold storage purposes. The cold storage ice house at the brewery saloon, on Court street, is getting their ice from below town and there may be some others that are getting their cold storage ice from the same place, but those who are arranging to supply the ice for domestic purposes next summer are getting it either from Meacham or from ponds and different places where it does not come in contact with the filth from the sewers.

THEY EAT DIRT.

Peculiar Cult in St. Louis Takes a New Diet.

Of all the queer cults under the sun that are springing up in mushroom growth over the face of the earth, St. Louis has the queerest and strangest and newest.

They are earth-eaters, the members of this new cult! They actually eat earth—a teaspoonful a day, as an aid to digestion, just as a bird eats gravel.

The new cult has been flourishing in St. Louis for six months, and now numbers 75 people. The founder and leader is William Windsor, a lawyer, who came from Wisconsin. He calls his teaching vitosophy, meaning, the science of life. He has been eating earth for four years. He was led to it by observing that animals weren't troubled, like men, with stomach disturbances. He saw that animals ate dirt with their meals. Men didn't. "Therefore," he reasoned, "the absence of dirt in the human stomach is the cause of disease."

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

Articles of Utility and Ornamentation for the Home That Are Now Popular.

Interest in tapestry has been revived and couch cushions with tapestry covers are included in the season's collection, and are something of a relief from the silk and satin and embroidered linens that have held sway for some time. The Gibson sofa pillows in etching tints are as popular as ever, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

In the new silverware designs familiar flowers are conspicuous, carnation pinks and poppies appearing on spoons and forks. In a spoon showing the poppy design the bowl is of gold, while the handle is enameled in the red and green tints of the natural blossom and leaves.

The fall souvenir spoons are ornamented with carefully sculptured representations of the buffalo, bear, wolf, fox, moose and rabbit.

Odd jardiniere are preferred by fastidious women to the regulation types found in the shops. Japanese jars in dull red coloring decorated with figures in relief are favorite plant holders, and Indian baskets have been cleverly utilized for the same purpose.

Cracker crumbs are suggested as a cleansing agent for tan suede kid gloves. Put on the gloves and manipulate the cracker crumbs as though washing the hands.

Orange peel allowed to smolder on a red-hot shovel or iron will destroy odors of cooking.

A mixture for polishing steel surfaces is made from emery powder blended with equal parts of sweet oil and turpentine. The article to be polished should be covered with this mixture, rubbed vigorously and afterward dusted slightly with dry emery powder.

Among the new serving trays are basswood designs beautifully polished and inlaid with fine woods in floral designs tinted in imitation of the natural flower.

Zinc may be kept burnished like silver by rubbing it hard with a mixture of soft soap and fine sand, afterward polishing it with a little oil on a soft rag, adding sometimes a drop or two of methylated spirit to the oil. The secret of keeping this metal bright is regular and daily hard rubbing.
