ODD WAY OF MAKING MONEY.

A Minneapolis Woman Who Organizes Libraries and Earns a Good Living.

Among the singular means employed by women for earning a livelihood that of Mrs. Elizabeth Shuey Southward, of Minneapolis, Minn., is perhaps the oddest, says the Chicago Chronicle. She is what may be called an organizer of libraries. The work of planning and cataloguing collections of books appeared to Mrs. Southward peculiarly adapted to women, and so she determined to try her hand at it, and she has succeeded far beyond her expectations. Mrs. Southward is the first woman to constitute herself a traveling librarian. By several years of work she has won a high standing as an organizer. When a new library is to be started in a town or college the superintendent sends for her and says:

"We have so many thousand books here in a topsy-turvy state. We want them indexed, arranged on shelves and the whole library put into shipshape. What will you take to do the work?"

Mrs. Southward names a round sum, and usually her terms are accepted.

Mrs. Southward got her training in a library school at Armour institute, Chicago. After that she held the position of head cataloguer at the John Crerar library, Chicago. She had mapped out a career for herself, when suddenly she changed her mind and got married. She settled down to forget all about library science, when one day she got a letter from the executors of the estate of the late Bishop Perry, of Davenport, Ia. The bishop had left a valuable library which would sell for a lot of money if put into proper shape.

Mrs. Southward took the job. Since then she has worked at itinerant cataloguing and earns more pin money in a week than the average woman gets in a year. She always charges a lump sum for her services, and sometimes spends as much as five months on one book collection. During the summer she manages a training school for librarians in the University of Minnesota.

A woman who expects to be a successful library organizer, says Mrs. Southward, must be an accurate bookkeeper and accountant. [illegible] of figures are [illegible] matter how much of a [illegible] she is, she is not [illegible] managing libraries. She must be quick, have a college training if possible and read English, French and German.

Aside from summer schools, there are four regular library schools in the United States—the state school at Albany; Pratt institute, Brooklyn; Drexel institute, Philadelphia, and one at the University of Illinois, in Springfield.

SOME CURIOUS FACTS.

Pickled pigs' heads are sent from Denver to Ireland as the food of the poorer classes.

Twenty-eight different kinds of food are needed to feed the animals in the Berlin zoo.

The "life tree" of Jamaica continues to grow for years after it has been dug up and its roots exposed to the sun. Leaves severed from the limbs will remain green for weeks. The tree can only be destroyed by fire.

In a new automatic fire alarm an undue rise of temperature in the building closes the circuit of an electric battery, and this sets fire to a Bengal light conspicuously displayed on a cornice or other place on the outside.

The pig, as is well known, will destroy and eat rattlesnakes with impunity. It is said that the poison is not sufficiently introduced into the circulation to cause death, owing to the thick, adipose layer with which the domesticated pig is covered.

Women in Austria are never put in prison. A female criminal, no matter how terrible her record, instead of being sent to jail, is conveyed to one of the convents devoted to that purpose, and there she is kept until the expiration of the term for which she was sentenced.

Pleasure is often but a change of pain. A man who has had the gout feels first-rate when he gets down to ordinary rheumatism.—Chicago Daily News.
