CLASSIFIED ADS.

An Interesting Page in the Daily East Oregonian.

The East Oregonian solicits classified ads, little ads stating the wants of the people.

You may want to hire a man or woman. A want ad will hit the spot.

You may want to buy something. Try a want ad.

You may wish to sell something. A "For Sale" ad will fill the bill.

You may want to trade a wheelbarrow for a grindstone. The wheelbarrow you have no need for; the grindstone the other fellow has no need for.

Have you a house to rent? A room to rent? Do you want to rent a house or a room? A want ad will be effective.

There is no more effective way of advertising, and the price is within the reach of all.

Look over the "classified ad" columns and use them when you want to sell or buy something; when you want to make a trade; when you want to give employment; when you want employment; when you want to lend or borrow money; when you want to let or rent a house or room or store.

CHAPLER AND COX

PENDLETON LOSES TWO GOOD PLAYERS.

Athena Signs the Crack Pitcher of This Town's Team and It's Center Fielder—Personnel of the Athena Aggregation.

Edwin F. Chapler and Jim Cox, pitcher and center fielder, respectively, of the Pendleton baseball team, season of 1931, went to Athena Sunday morning, attached their signatures to the contracts offered by "Doc" Osborn, manager of the Athena "Yellow Kids," and returned to Pendleton on the evening train. The addition of these two players completes the Athena team, the personnel and positions being given as follows: Danny Shea, catcher; Chapler, Saunders and Rod Brown, pitchers; Vaughan, first base; Cartano, second base; Willard, third base; George Brown, shortstop; L. Leallen, left field; Cox, center field; Chapler and Rod Brown, alternating in right field when not pitching.

William Wells, one of the directors of the Athena Baseball Association, when in Pendleton recently, stated that Athena was anxious to arrange games with other clubs in this section on the basis that the winning team take 60 per cent and the losers 40 per cent of the receipts, whether the games are played at home or abroad. This would make a team hustle to win. It also shows that the Athena management has faith in its ability to put a winning team in the field. Athena being comparatively smaller than the other cities of the proposed league, could not hope to have as large an attendance at home as abroad. The percentage system would put a new element in the game. The proposition will be laid officially before the other clubs.

The action of Chapler and Cox in signing with Athena will be received with regret by many of the baseball fans of Pendleton, where both are popular, both on and off the ball ground. Their best friends think they should have given the Pendleton management an option on their services before they tied themselves up for the season.

Mr. Heath, who played last year with the Vancouver, B. C., and Everett, Wash., is at present in Pendleton, having come over Sunday from Walla Walla. He has played professionally in the Western League and has aspirations to become a member of this year's Pendleton team.

Frank Heath is a baseman and his stronghold is on first, but he has worked in the box considerably. Last year he played with the Vancouver team, which was the first and only team to beat Thornton and his aggregation of players at Everett last year. They played every team in the country and won on every turn except when they "went against" Vancouver. He also belonged to the Western Association, which included several prominent towns in Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri and others of the Middle States, for several seasons, and it was there that he was in the box. He has not yet been signed with the local association but will probably be engaged. Pendleton has done very little yet toward securing her players, but the secretary is getting letters every day from men from all over the country who want to engage with the home team.

QUESTION OF PAYING THIS YEAR'S PLAYERS.

Necessity for All Members Understanding Each Other Upon This Point.

It is proposed for the management of baseball in the towns of this region, and no end of misunderstanding, unless it be at once agreed, or made public, what is to be the rule as to remuneration of the players. The facts appear to be as follows:

This company is composed of representative business men, who, for the pure love of the sport, have agreed to head the baseball management for this town. This stock has not yet been sold, but it will be taken by the lovers of the game here, in as large quantities as the managers desire. At least one-half of the total must, under the law, be subscribed, before the corporation be legal. No permanent arrangements have been made other than to correspond with a number of men for the various positions, and to assure themselves that the local men who can play the game will be available. As to the paying of men, it is absolutely false that there have been signed any salary contracts, and the entire plan under which the business is handled is yet to be formed. The impression has gone abroad that Pendleton is forming a semi-professional team, and contracting to pay men regular salaries. It is felt here that Pendleton will be compelled, however, to adopt such a course, in order to assure the successful formation and handling of a team, because the other towns are doing this, according to the information obtained here.

The impression here also is that Athena and Walla Walla already have placed their teams upon a basis of practical semi-professionalism in this manner: Guaranteeing a given amount for the season, and promising more if the season prove to be profitable. This is semi-professionalism, and this is what Walla Walla is now doing. Indeed, one of the players secured by Walla Walla was signed here in Pendleton, and was guaranteed a salary, with such a contingent increase as was mentioned above. There is no objection to this plan, so long as it be understood, and one town do not accuse the other of following the course itself is following. If semi-professionalism is to be the plan, then let it be openly known, and let it not be done in secret under the guise of maintaining strict amateurism, say Pendleton men. No amateur can receive pay, whether contingent or otherwise, and that the various towns hereabouts are likely to sign their men upon this basis cannot be doubted.

GENERAL ORGANIZER IS TO REMAIN HERE. Has Taken Quarters in A. D. Stillman's Office, and Says Woodmen Are Out to Win.

George K. Rogers, general Northwest deputy, Woodmen of the World, has opened offices with A. D. Stillman, chairman of the board of head managers, in Pendleton, and will from now on until the close of the great Eastern Oregon campaign, give his undivided attention to the success of the movement now under way.

Details of committee work have already commenced, and every feature pertaining to the great celebration will be carefully worked out. Mr. Rogers has had many years experience in the carrying on of great fraternal celebrations, and he takes his reputation on the statement that the Pendleton affair will eclipse any he has yet undertaken.

"I have never," he said, "seen such a liberal spirit displayed as is being shown by the Pendleton camps. It has appropriated several hundred dollars, and the boys say no expense will be spared in defeating Baker City and Walla Walla, both of which towns have in mind big events for the near future."

Compound Fracture of E. L. Wood.

E. L. Wood, a farmer and sheep man living near Pilot Rock, had the misfortune to receive a compound fracture of the right leg below the knee Friday. Mr. Wood was hauling hay and the wagon tipped over with him, which was the cause of the break. Drs. Cole and McFaul were summoned to the scene and dressed the fracture, after which he was brought to Pendleton and placed in the Sisters' hospital.

W. E. BOND RELEASED ON OWN RECOGNIZANCE.

He Will Appear Whenever He is Wanted By the District Attorney in Court.

The case of W. E. Bond, accused by C. H. Brown of misappropriating grain belonging to him that was stored in the Athena Flouring Mill Company's warehouses, and whose trial was set for 10 o'clock this morning, was continued on motion of the district attorney for further investigation. Mr. Bond, who had been under $250 bonds since last Tuesday evening, was released on his own recognizance, to appear when the district attorney wants him.

The Good Ad.

A good ad is an announcement in brief terms, straight from the shoulder, concise and to the point, telling something in a clear and intelligent manner and stating a few prices as an indicator of the way you sell goods or do work.—Brookline (Mass.) Chronicle.

Ten $50 Subscriptions.

The baseball committee this afternoon secured ten $50 subscriptions towards the fund for the team's support. The prospects are bright, indeed.
