RICH DRAWING ROOM.

Last Scene in "Eleventh Hour" Cost $5000.

Lincoln J. Carters' latest success, "The Eleventh Hour" will be the attraction at the Frazer on the 22d. In his latest effort Mr. Carter deals with life in and around Chicago. The theme is the old one of love, hatred and avarice as most plays are, but he has strayed from the beaten path of fiction and gives a story that we can see is profitable—a fact that does not seem to strike authors frequently. The play is mounted in a gorgeous manner, the last act costing $5000 to place upon the stage, which can be easily understood when it is explained that it is an exact counterpart of the drawing room of one of the richest men in Chicago. With his consent photographs were taken and skilled artists were given full liberty to make a careful study of the original, so the counterfeit might be as near perfect as possible.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Coming.

Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the title of a really big company, which, under the management of Mr. Leon Washburn, whose name has long been associated with up-to-date amusements, is to appear at the Frazer on Tuesday, February 25th, 1902. The company comprises fifty people, including a dozen specialty artists, two quartettes, a superb orchestra, and many colored comedians, who add to the big production not a little by their spontaneous wit and clever singing and dancing. Watch for the big parade.

In Paris, La Patrie published a letter received from its correspondent, M. Rouyer, a survivor of the massacre of a French scientific mission by cannibals at Sileraka, New Guinea, January 1. M. Rouyer relates that the yacht Salvati, with the mission on board, had anchored off the coast of New Guinea, and that several of the explorers landed. After an apparently friendly reception from the natives, the latter treacherously attacked them during the night, murdering 25 of the party.

ASKS DISCUSSION

POSITION OF MOODY ON LAND LEASING.

Favors No Bill That Would Not Protect the Small Settler.

Congressman M. A. Moody has made a statement of his position on the leasing of the public domain, in which he says:

The result of the enactment into law of section 7 of the bill would be compulsory fencing which would, for the small grower, be very expensive if not destructive. Fencing should be optional not compulsory, if permitted at all.

I am not in favor of any bill which would not unquestionably secure to the small settler the use of a reasonable proportion of the public range, nor which would in any way restrict the settlement of the country. This latter is a most important feature. Within the present range area of Oregon there are thousands of places suitable for homestead, and any law enacted should be so framed as to stimulate settlement.

Under my interpretation of this livestock measure, I can see no course open but to vigorously oppose it as I opposed similar measures last congress; but I would appreciate a full discussion of the leading questions from those most interested.

SEVENTEEN RAIL LINES CONFERRING IN PORTLAND

Their Representatives will Discuss Affairs of Transcontinental Freight Bureau for the West.

Portland, Feb. 18.—Representatives of the seventeen big railroads embraced in the Transcontinental Freight Bureau assembled here today for what promises to be a highly important conference. A long list of questions is scheduled for consideration. There is a strong probability that transcontinental rates as a whole will be discussed, and a possibility that the bureau may decide upon important reductions. Suggestions have been made from time to time indicating that some of the lines would be willing to reduce through rates, should it be possible to secure joint action. The attitude of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, however, is unfavorable.

TREMENDOUS BILK.

Mains Claimed to Have a Company of Four Billions.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—C. R. Mains, formerly an attorney of Battle Creek, Mich., was arrested yesterday, charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. He represented himself as the organizer of the "Rothchild Standard Oil Company," capital $4,000,000,000, and offered to sell the presidency with a salary of $5000 a year for $3000.

Montana Horticulturists.

Missoula, Mont., Feb. 18.—The Montana state horticultural society began a well attended meeting in Missoula today. The business of the convention to commence tomorrow morning, will continue through the remainder of the week, during which time papers and addresses will be presented covering a wide range of topics of interest to fruit growers. The reports of the officers show that the seventh year of the society's existence finds it in satisfactory condition.

GAGE GETS A JOB.

Former Secretary to Head United States Trust Company.

New York, Feb. 18.—Lyman Gage today was formally invited to enter the directorate of the United States Trust Company. He will be admitted to the directorate at the April meeting and then will be eligible for the presidency of the company.

Collects no Commission.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—The supreme court today affirmed the judgment of the superior court in the case of the county assessor, Dodge, vs. the state of California, holding that the assessor is not entitled to commission on the poll tax collected. The commission sued for amounted to $16,000 annually.

There is a movement on foot to form an Idaho-Utah baseball league, with Ogden, Salt Lake City, Lagoona and Pocatello as members.

SOME LOCAL TOPICS.

J. Bane, who was a resident of Umatilla county for several years, engaged in the horse raising business, is a visitor in Pendleton today from his home in the Fishhook Bend region on the Snake river, 20 miles east of Pasco. Mr. Bane removed from here 12 years ago, and this is the first time he has been here since. He expressed surprise at the growth of the city, particularly with the number and style of the new business blocks and private residences that have been erected since he has been away.

The news published in the East Oregonian on Monday, in regard to the accident on the Thunder Mountain train, in which three men were killed, had a disquieting effect upon several residents of this city. The name of Jim Campbell was mentioned as one of those who lost his life, his residence being given as Weiser, Idaho. There was a young man residing at that place by the name of James Campbell, who is a nephew of Curley and William Campbell, and a cousin of Henry Harner, all well known here, and they fear from the account of the affair that the deceased is their relative.

Emil Oppenheimer, a traveling man from San Francisco, who visits Pendleton every month, expressed surprise and disgust at the condition of things here at the present time from his standpoint. He said: "If this marshal fight is kept up the town will be as dead as La Grande was when it closed down gambling a year ago. Look at the streets. Why don't they assess the gambling houses $50 a month each and make a good street with the money? That is what Spokane did, and it is what Boise did. If they want to gamble let them pay for the privilege. The gambling instinct is strong in man. Why, I have known of cases where gambling was prohibited in a city and some of the boys would get together and rent a room in a hotel for one night at a time. As the participants in the game were being chased from one room to another they would make bets as to whether or not they would succeed in eluding the officers of the law and thus escape arrest. Pendleton is the best town between San Francisco and Boise, Idaho, but she's a dead one at the present time. People who gamble are apparently going elsewhere to spend their money, judging from the condition of trade. This kick is not only from the saloon men, but I have talked with some of the leading business men of your town, and they register the same opinion."

"NEW WOMAN" AND DIVORCE.

Cardinal Gibbons Accuses Her of Being Largely Responsible for the Wrecks of Families.

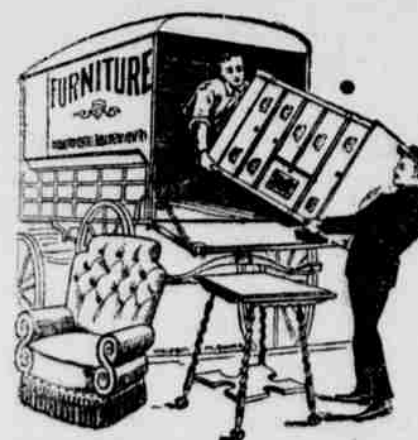

"As I have said before, I regard woman's right women and the leaders in the new school of female progress as the worst enemies of the female sex," writes his eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, in the Ladies' Home Journal for January. "They teach that which robs women of all that is amiable and gentle, tender and attractive, and which gives her nothing in return but masculine boldness and brazen effrontery. While professing to emancipate her from domestic servitude, they are making her the slave of her own caprices and passions. She never feels at home except when abroad. When she is at home home is irksome to her. She chafes and frets under the restraint and responsibility of domestic life. Her heart is abroad. It is exulting in imagination in some social triumph, or reveling in some scene of gaiety and dissipation. Her husband comes to his home to find it empty, or occupied by one whose heart is void of affection for him. Then arises disputes, quarrels, recriminations, estrangements, and the last act in the drama is often divorce. I speak the sober truth when I affirm that for the wrecks of families in our country, woman has a large share of its responsibility."
