RAILROAD PROFITS IN 1901

(Concluded.)

Freight earnings amounting to $5,809 per mile of line. It should be noted that some, if not all, of the per mile averages derived from the preliminary compilation are probably somewhat larger than those that will appear from the full returns for the year when compiled for an increased number of roads, owing to the inclusion of those having comparatively small earnings per mile of line.

Operating Expenses.

The operating expenses aggregated $1,025,156,281, which indicates an average outlay on this account of $5,223 per mile of line. Making a comparison between these preliminary figures for 1901 and the final figures for 1900, it appears that gross earnings increased $489 per mile of line, operating expenses $330, and net earnings $159.

Net Earnings.

The net earnings of the railways included in the present report were $555,007,324, and as the net earnings of the same railways for 1900, disregarding unimportant exceptions, were $519,430,706, there was an increase of $35,576,618 in this item.

Dividends Declared.

The railways to which this report relates received also an income from sources other than operation, as from investments of various kinds, amounting to $65,271,244. This income, in addition to the net earnings stated, made the net income of the railways for the last fiscal year $620,279,168. From this sum, to ascertain the surplus from the operations of the year, there must be deducted interest on bonds, rents of leased lines, betterments charged to income, taxes (which were $47,941,214), dividends and other miscellaneous expenditures. The total of these deductions from income, not including dividends, was $421,625,796. The dividends declared during the year aggregated $121,108,637. As it is shown that the dividends of corresponding roads for 1900 were $108,210,652, it appears that the pecuniary returns to their stockholders in 1901 were about $13,000,000 greater than in the year before. It should perhaps be explained that the dividends stated in the preliminary reports, which are compiled from the returns of operating roads only, do not represent the entire amount of dividends declared on the stocks of all the railway companies in the United States, because the dividends declared by those companies that lease their property to others for operation are paid from the rentals they receive, and such dividends are necessarily omitted from reports of this character. Returns for a series of years indicate, however, that the total amount of dividends paid by both classes of companies annually includes, roughly, about $30,000,000 paid on the part of leased lines.

Surpluses.

From the income statement of the operating companies included in the report under consideration, it appears that the surplus from their operations for the year ending June 30, 1901, was $77,544,735. The surplus for the previous year shown in the final report was $87,657,933. For 1897, instead of a surplus, there was a deficit of $6,120,483.

W. H. NEBERGALL MAY

LOSE INJURED LEG.

He is at Sisters' Hospital, Where Surgeons Are Treating Him.

The breaking of W. H. Nebergall's leg in a runaway accident Tuesday is considered much more serious by the attending physician than was at first thought. It was a very serious fracture of the bones below the knee and there is a possibility that Mr. Nebergall will have to lose the foot. Several pieces of the bone had to be removed which were splintered off. It is considered quite serious.

Mr. Nebergall and W. H. McCormach were driving along the road near Saxe Station, in the latter's buggy, when one of the horses shied at the train and then kicked the tongue of the buggy, breaking it, thus causing the rig to run onto the team and as Mr. McCormach, who was driving, had no control of the buggy and the team was fast becoming unmanageable, they both attempted to jump from the rig. Mr. McCormach escaped without injury, but Mr. Nebergall was not so lucky. His foot was caught in the wheel and he was dragged for several feet before he extricated himself. Mr. Nebergall has been taken to the Sisters' hospital, where he will receive the best attention possible in the effort to save the limb.

Dr. W. R. Campbell Comes to Town and Corrects a Statement About His Swine.

On apparently reliable information, the East Oregonian published a story to the effect that Dr. W. R. Campbell had lost all of his hogs but 19 out of a band of 70 from the plague that is prevalent in the country, and as the doctor was not in town and could not be seen to correct the statement, it was published as facts. Tuesday he was in town and positively denied the story, saying that he never gave out such information and that, as a matter of fact, he has lost only 10 hogs out of his whole band and that he did not anticipate the loss of any more. He says he is doctoring the sick ones and they are getting well and no more are taking the disease.

During the year 1901 the various car building works in the United States have built, altogether, 144,267 cars of all kinds, the largest output for any one year, says the Railroad Gazette. These figures, of course, do not include cars built by the railroads at their own shops.

Mr. Frank James is quite right. Plays glorifying outlawry, such as "The James Brothers in Missouri," are injurious to the youth of the country and should be censored from the stage. In the matter of elevating or holding up the stage, Mr. James is competent to criticize.

The Albatross, one of the steamers of the fish commission has spent the greater part of three years in the investigation of the fisheries along the coast of Alaska, and it seems probable from the information which it has brought home that eventually the fisheries will add as much to the wealth of the nation as even the gold mines of the Klondike.

The increased value of sealskins in 1900 induced the lessees of the Pribilof Islands, the breeding ground of the seal herds, to kill 13,000 2-year-old seals, whereas the rule has been not to kill any seals which had not reached the age of at least three years. If this killing of two-year-olds is allowed to continue it is certain that the seal herd will soon be exterminated.
