NO OBSTACLE NOW

HOSPITAL GRANTED USE OF TRANSIT STREET.

Part of it Vacated as Asked by the Sisters of St. Francis.

On Wednesday night the city council passed the ordinance drawn up in accordance with the petition of the Sisters of St. Francis, asking that that portion of Transit street lying between Court and Turner streets, between blocks 139 and 140, in the reservation addition to the town of Pendleton, be vacated.

The ordinance reads: Section 1--That that portion of Transit street lying between Court street on the north and Turner street on the south in the city of Pendleton, be, and it is hereby declared and ordained to be vacated and vacant, and it shall not be in any manner considered, treated or used hereafter as a street or thoroughfare of this city.

Section 2. Inasmuch as it is proposed to use the above mentioned portion of Transit street for hospital purposes now needed by the inhabitants of the city, this ordinance shall be in force from its passage by the common council and approval by the mayor.

The ordinance now has the signature of the mayor and is in force.

THEATER OFFERINGS.

"Uncle Tom" on the 25th—"Eleventh Hour" on the 22d.

Stetson's big production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at the Frazer opera house for one night only on Tuesday, February 25th. It has been organized this season in a manner that will make it far superior to any previous production ever seen here. Special attention has been given to staging the piece and the scenery faithfully portrays several scenes of southern jubilee life during ante-bellum days in the far south. A large number of genuine colored people, who introduce funny scenes in the cotton fields, cakewalks, buck-dancing, southern jubilee singing etc., add materially to the production. Misses Kitty Morgan and Bertha Crossie are the two Topoles; Messrs. George Harris and Nick Glinn are the two Marks, and Stetson's original "Uncle Tom," Fred Bennett, will also be in the cast.

"Eleventh Hour." The management of the Frazer will offer on the 22d, Saturday evening, Lincoln J. Carter's latest success, "The Eleventh Hour," a comedy drama in five acts, dealing with types for character that we come in contact with in every day life. The first act is an old mill in DeKalb county, Ill., and is said to be very realistic. The third act is a block house tower of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKINS. Is Rivalled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpleide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Securing the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's derpleide.

SOME SONNETS IN SLANG BY WALLACE IRWIN.

"Love Sonnets of a Hoodlum" That Out-Ades Ade.

We had supposed George Ade was the climax—not to say the limit—in the history of slang, but a San Francisco poet seems to have gone him one better with "The Love Sonnets of a Hoodlum." In a "cycle" of 22 sonnets, with prologue and epilogue, Wallace Irwin has told his love for "Mitty Mame," the intervention of the "brick topped Murphy, fourteen dollar Jay," and the losing struggle against his rival to the tragic-day when

The pastor murmured, "Two and two make one," And slipped a sixteen K on Mame's grab.

It is a faithful picture of a luckless wooing. Showing how vanity is still on deck, And Humble Virtue gets it in the neck.

It is amazing to find the sedate English language capable of such gymnastics—antics, rather and not of the most refined order. Indeed, they are too frankly vulgar to be criticised on that score, and by their unexpectedness, their mixture of dignity and outrageousness, they startle the reader into laughter which they do not legitimately deserve, perhaps, but which nevertheless is theirs if they can win it.

The poems are not without a basis of human truth. When the lover punched his rival, Mame, instead of being dastled by the victor, like a true woman.

Massaged his lumps with fragrant drug store dope. And coughed up loops of kindergarten chi; She sprang a come back, piped for the patrol, Then threw a glance that tommy-bawked my soul.

We cannot say that the thing is a pardonable impertinence; but we should be inclined to let the author off with a light sentence if he would promise not to do it again.—Munsey's Magazine.

Pennsylvania Election.

In Philadelphia the candidates supported by the republican city and state leaders swept everything, electing all the candidates for the more important offices and nearly all the ward officers. On the other hand, Pittsburg was carried by those opposing the state and city administrations, the independent republicans having formed a coalition with the democrats and the head of the citizen's party. In the other cities local issues were fought. Scranton elected P. W. Costello, democrat, for mayor. Wilkesbarre elected a republican mayor, Charles H. Price. Reading gave 350 majority for Edward Yeager, democrat, for mayor. At Harrisburg, Vance McCormack, democratic candidate for mayor, is elected by 2000 majority.

What it is.

Advertising is the life blood of the business world today, and well directed advertising is like the powerful searchlight of a river steamer, thrown upon a distant cottage on the bank, cutting it out like a picture painted on a black canvas. The timid buyer and the prospective industry will follow the rays of the searchlight of publicity, just as surely as will the eyes of the steamer's passengers follow the light thrown from their vessel. They will not search the surrounding gloom for objects of interest when a beautiful picture is clearly shown before them. Prospective buyers will not search the surrounding gloom for your competitors if the searchlight of publicity is turned on your own place of business.—Canaotata (N. Y.) Bee.

To Name State Ticket.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 20.—Members of the Allied Party of Missouri, an organization made up of middle of the road populists and national ownership adherents, rounded up in this city today in response to a call of Chairman J. G. Cook. The purpose of the conference, which is to last two days, is to name a state ticket part in the next campaign.

The mills of the Gods grind slowly, But they grind exceedingly small; The mills of the court grind a slower grist. And the lawyers grab it all."

DIVING FOR SUNKEN RICHES OF CALIGULA.

The Mad Roman Emperor's Hoards of Gems and Gold and the Search for Them.

A company with a capitalization of $100,000 has been organized for the purpose of draining Lake Neunt, a small body of water occupying what was once the site of a volcano in the Alban hills, upon the estate of Prince Orsini, about thirty-two miles from Rome. The object of draining the lake is to recover two enormous floating gardens, or house boats of the most extraordinary character, which were built and used by the crazy emperor Caligula about forty years after Christ. The historian Suetonius tells us that Caligula squandered in fantastic schemes during a single year the sum of 2,700,000,000 sesterces (equivalent to about $100,000,000 of our money) that had been left him by Tiberius, and describes among other remarkable toys constructed for his amusement floating gardens of coral, wood adorned with jeweled praws, rich sculpture, vessels of gold and silver, sails of purple silk, bathrooms of alabaster and bronze and other equally novel and costly features. Upon these floating gardens were vineyards and fruit trees. They were not only places of amusement, but temples in which the emperor worshipped himself. The floors were paved with glass mosaic, the window and door frames were of bronze, many of the decorations were of almost priceless value and the ordinary equipments were of beautiful design and costly workmanship.

These floating palaces were attached to the shore by chains, and bridges were stretched across the water for the purpose of communication. Upon them occurred some of the most extraordinary crimes that a human being ever indulged in, in which cruelty, murder and the most revolting depravity was mingled with music and sport.

For some reason or other, probably during the wars that followed the reign of Caligula, these palaces were sunk, and now lie in the mud 200 yards distant from each other in five fathoms of water; one is 150 feet from the bank and the other about 250 feet. One measures 150 feet in length and 60 feet in width and the smaller is 175 feet long and 26 feet wide.—Mm. E. Curtis.
