GENERAL NEWS.

The Chinese government has made its first payment of the indemnity pledged to the United States government.

Secretary Long says the report that he is to leave the cabinet is true. He has not as yet fixed upon the time of sending in his resignation.

Arthur Egan, the 17-year-old boy who saved 21 lives in Lake Michigan, was presented with a medal awarded by the Royal Humane Society, of London, England, Saturday night in Chicago.

The Western Sugar Refinery, at San Francisco, Saturday announced a further cut of 15 cents on the 100 pounds of sugar. Dealers in sugar were quick to meet the cut, but no great amount of it was sold at the lowered figure.

Of all the entertainments organized in honor of Prince Henry, there will be none more elaborate than the luncheon to be given for him at Sherry's, in New York, on Wednesday next, by the representatives of the finance, trade and industry. The moving spirit in the affair is J. Pierpont Morgan.

A world's record was made in Chicago last Saturday night at the three-cushion billiards, when H. J. Avary, an amateur, ran out the 50-point game in 51 innings. The previous record, both for professional and amateur, was held by the late Wyman C. McCreary, of St. Louis, who more than 10 years ago, in a match contest, ran 50 points in 53 innings.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST NEWS

The registration in Portland so far is a little above $6000, about one-third of the vote of Multnomah county.

A starch factory is soon to start up in Portland. Oregon wheat, it is said, is particularly favorable in the manufacture of the product.

There is a case of smallpox at the O. R. & N. construction camp near St. Johns, below Portland, and the camp has been quarantined.

Baker City has settled the difference between it and the contractors of the water system and the plant is now the property of the city.

A. M. Humphrey, who was found guilty of larceny by baillee at Salem, in the recent warehouse case, was sentenced to serve a term of two years in the penitentiary.

A three-story building of brick and stone will be built on Main street, in Walla Walla, by Davin Brothers, saloon men. It is referred to by the local papers as a "sky-scraper."

Mrs. T. A. Riggs, wife of County Surveyor Riggs, died at her home in Albany at the age of 70 years. She was a pioneer of 1846, coming across the plains in that year from Missouri.

Carl Steelhammer, aged 25 years, died at Silverton of typhoid fever. Deceased had resided there for years, and was recently employed as an attendant at the Insane Asylum at Salem. He was a man of rare ability as a musician.

There is trouble brewing for the Chinese cooks in Baker City. A branch of the Cooks' and Waiters' Union has been organized, and it is stated that one of the first moves will be to call upon the proprietors of hotels and restaurants to discharge their Chinese cooks and employ white men.

E. S. Anders, familiarly known as "Doc" Anders, was at work on the logway of the Booth-Kelly saw mill at Eugene, drawing logs up from the water. It seems the "dog" had not been driven into one of the logs securely, and, flying out, struck the man on the left temple with such force as to shatter the skull, scattering his brains in every direction. He lived only a few minutes after the accident.

GOTHAM LETTER

NEW YORK TOPICS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Politics and Business and All Sorts of Things.

New York, Feb. 24.—The members of the present boards of managers of the charitable and reformatory institutions are not entertaining the most cordial feelings towards Governor Odell because of his determination to carry out his program for the reorganization of the state board of charities. The bill which has been drafted for the purpose will be even more drastic than the governor's recommendation in his annual message, and that is saying a great deal. Instead of twelve members the bill provides for only five, each of whom will serve for four years, provision being made so that the entire board will not go out of office at the same time. All the present boards will be abolished, and the new state board of charities will have supreme power to regulate the affairs and appoint the superintendents and stewards of the different institutions.

It seems strange that in spite of all his protestations of sincerity and public generally seems to put little faith in the announcement that Richard Croker has retired permanently from politics, especially as they concern the management of Tammany hall. Because of the rather general belief that he has placed Mr. Nixon at the head of Tammany to do his bidding—a fact which has been of the greatest annoyance to Mr. Croker and the new leader, Mr. Nixon—and that he intended to return again to the helm as in 1897, it is reported that the ex-chief of Tammany has arrived at the determination to remain for a number of years in England, to show that his retirement was genuine and permanent.

There are only four of the fourteen Brooklyn republicans appointed to investigate the Sheriff Guden election scandal who have not refused to serve. Among those who declined to be associated with the matter is ex-Mayor Schieren, who is persistent and outspoken in his declaration that what the people of Brooklyn want is not merely the removal of Guden, but "that every one of the leaders charged with wrong-doing be put out of their positions of power in the party." Even Lieutenant-Governor Timothy Woodruff, who at first characterized the charges against Guden and Dady as ridiculous, now sees the matter in a different light, and says that "when the president of a bank at the instance of a director whom the stockholders have elected to the board assigns a position to one who defrauds the bank, both the president and all the directors should admit their responsibility and waste not a moment in argument on that score, but proceed with the greatest dispatch, without bluster or hypocrisy to right the wrong done to the institution, serving the interests of the depositors and stockholders as we propose to guard the interests of the republican party in the borough of Brooklyn." Politicians are watching the developments with interest and to Tammanyites the situation is especially interesting.

Not for a long time has the equanimity of Wall street been so disturbed as it is over the collateral tax decision of Commissioner Yerkes, of the internal revenue. The ruling of the department is that any memorandum evidencing the delivery of stock as security for a loan, calls for a stamp of two cents for each $100 of par value of the stock disclosed therein. A memorandum of pledged securities made on a promissory note calls for the tax. A memorandum of delivery made on a continuing agreement is to be taxed, and so is either "substitution" or stock withdrawn from one loan and to be placed in a new loan. Among brokers the opinion prevails that if this ruling is strictly enforced, the effect will be serious. It is believed, however, that the injustice can be made apparent at Washington to the degree that there will be a modification of the ruling, or possibly quick repeal of that clause of the law by congress.

The annual report of the American Museum of Natural History shows some very valuable and important acquisitions to that institution. It also gives an account of the various scientific expeditions maintained. The Morgan gem collection, Bement mineral collection and a collection of 800 coins from the Philadelphia mint, all the gift of J. Pierpont Morgan; the Briggs collection of Indian basketry, purchased by George Foster Peabody; a collection of Alno objects presented by A. C. James; a large collection of shells by Frederick A. Constable; addition to the Hoffman collection of butterflies number nearly half a million, by Dean Hoffman and the gift of the Senett collection of 8,000 birds—these were the most notable acquisitions. Morris K. Jesup, William C. Whitney and other prominent New Yorkers defrayed the cost of several valuable scientific expeditions.
