Henry Puts Off His Visit to Grant's Tomb.

LUNCHEAS AT SHERRY'S WITH J. PIERPONT, ET AL.

Billions of Capital, of Course, Was Paraded at the Table, Which Impressed Even a German Prince—The Millionaires Swarmed the Dining Room.

New York, Feb. 26.—Another gray damp day faced Prince Henry when he went upon the deck of Hohenzollern this morning. A drizzling rain fell. The prince remained aboard the yacht all the morning. The inclement weather decided him to temporarily abandon his visit to Grant's tomb, which he was to make today. At noon he left for the luncheon at Sherry's.

Doodles of Wealth. Billions of capital was represented at the luncheon to the prince. All the leaders of Wall street were there, besides moneyed men from Chicago and other cities. The banquet room was gorgeously decorated. Prince Henry and his party was assigned to a table at one side of the room, the other diners being ranged around it in crescent form. The prince was greatly impressed at the gathering of the money kings of free America.

BUSY IS PRINCE HENRY.

Spent Most of the day in Sight Seeing Under Escort of Entertainment Committee.

New York, Feb. 26.—This was another busy day for Prince Henry. The greater part of the time was taken up with sightseeing under escort of members of the local entertainment committee. Many places of interest in and about the city were visited, the mammoth office buildings, spacious parks, monuments and particularly the busy scenes witnessed on the streets eliciting many expressions of surprise from the prince and his suite. At noon the party rounded up at Sherry's where the prince was the guest of honor at a banquet arranged by leading business men and financiers, among the number being J. Pierpont Morgan, William Rockefeller, William K. Vanderbilt and Abram S. Hewitt. After the dinner the tour of sightseeing was continued until evening when the prince proceeded to Arlon Hall to review the parade of the German-American societies of Greater New York. The parade promises to be one of the greatest affairs of the kind ever seen in the metropolis. It will be a torchlight parade and the participants will include all the German singing, gymnastic, sharpshooters and bowling societies in New York and vicinity.

Press to Dine With Prince.

New York, Feb. 26.—Elaborate preparations for the dinner in honor of Prince Henry to be tendered to the press of the country by the New York Staats-Zeitung at the Waldorf-Astoria this evening have been perfected. Leading newspaper men are to be present from all parts of the country. The toasts for the dinner are arranged as follows: "Welcome to our Distinguished Guest," Herman Ridder of the Staats-Zeitung. Responded to by Prince Henry. "The Emperor of Germany and the President of the United States," by Whitelaw Reid of the New York Tribune. "The Press—the Tie that Binds," by St. Claire McKelway of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle. "Saxon Blood—What we owe to Germany in Literature, Art, Science and Music," by Charles Emory Smith of the Philadelphia Press. "International Amity," by Charles W. Knapp of the St. Louis Republic.

The Schooner Yacht Meteor.

The German emperor's new sailing yacht, successfully launched Tuesday at Shooter's Island, is to be a splendid example of the skill of the American yacht builder. While the emperor himself has given many suggestions regarding the fitting and outfit, the yacht was designed and is to be entirely constructed by Americans and from American materials. When completed the yacht will have cost $175,000. She is to be the largest schooner yacht afloat, her length over all being 161 feet; on the water line 120 feet; breadth of beam 27 feet; depth 18 feet 6 inches; draught 15 feet. Her masts, of Oregon pine, will be 105 feet in height, and the largest boom 85 feet long.

Her large breadth of beam gives her as much deck room as the finest steam yachts. The yacht will possess all the palatial and roomy conveniences of the most princely steam yachts, while at the same time having a real advantage in dispensing with the vast amount of machinery, boilers and coal bunkers.

To carry out the emperor's commands her finish throughout will be plain yet substantial. All her work such as the deckhouse, skylights and rail will be of selected teakwood and all capstans, winches, etc., of bronze. Situated aft is a deck house of steel cased with walnut. This deckhouse serves as the main companion leading below, and in addition will be used in dirty weather and will allow a view of what is going on on deck. The stairs from the deckhouse lead to a vestibule, here is found a chart case, shelves for chronometer, and nautical instruments and a locker for hanging oilskins. Aft, opening from the vestibule, is the ladies' cabin, containing two berths, sofas, a writing desk, and a large marble wash stand and mirror. The state-rooms are few in number, but of large size. The main saloon extends the whole width of the boat, and is 18 feet long.

She will be rigged as a fore-and-aft schooner craft, and will have the following sails: Mainsail and foresail, forestaysail, jib, main and aft and gaff topsail, main club and topsail, ordinary trysail, balloon trysail, balloon foretopsail, balloon jibtopsail, baby jibtopsail, spinnaker, fore and aft trysail. The keel is of tough type and the deck is of best white pine. In different parts of the boat have been placed leisters bearing the imperial coat of arms.

The yacht was designed by A. Cary Smith and Henry C. Harbo. The builders are the Townsend & Downey shipbuilding company.
