HERO GARIBALDI

Stands Next to Victor Emmanuel in Italy.

With the exception of Victor Emmanuel, Garibaldi is still the greatest hero of Italy, but he is not so well known in Rome as the king. He was better known to the country people and was seen very little in the city. After the unification of the kingdom and the restoration of peace he was elected a member of the chamber of deputies and came to Rome. It was feared that, being an avowed republican he might refuse to support the new monarchy and incite a revolution, and when he appeared in the chamber on the opening day, a feeble, emaciated, crippled old man he had to almost be carried to his place. It was a matter of great curiosity where he would take his seat because the political parties in the Italian parliament are known by the location occupied by their members in the chamber.

Garibaldi, of course, was aware of this fact, and when he sat down opposite the table of the president in the center of the amphitheater among the moderate liberals who sustained the government he was greeted with applause from every side. When his name was called he rose slowly and painfully limped forward to the clerk where, with his crippled right hand uplifted, he swore fidelity to the king. All Italy breathed with greater freedom for it was a moment of national relief. Garibaldi was not a rebel, and while the entire parliament and the galleries filled with officials of the government, members of the diplomatic corps and reporters all joined in shouts of approval, the old veteran limped back to his bench and bowed his head.

MORGAN JOSHED THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

Paralyzed a Clerk Over Refusal to Indorse the Institutions' Paper.

J. Pierpont Morgan is the hero of an anecdote repeated at a recent meeting in the headquarters of the steel trust, and if not apocryphal, illustrates a bent of humor hitherto unsuspected in the banker.

While in London he visited the Bank of England with a large currency note, for which he wished to obtain gold. The teller examined the note and handed it back.

"You have not indorsed it," he said, glad of an opportunity to occupy an attitude.

"Is this not payable on demand?" asked Mr. Morgan, simulating surprise.

"Yes, if indorsed"—haughtily.

The magnate frowned. "I am very careful whose notes I indorse," he said, with mock severity.

"Do you challenge the Bank of England?" gasped the clerk, gazing at the visitor as upon a blasphemer.

"If you are solvent, why do you want my name on your paper?"

The glare of suspicion which accompanied the words was too much for the clerk; he stared speechlessly.

"Very well," continued the magnate, with vigor, "we will let it go to protest."

The petrified clerk looked alarmed about it, but could offer nothing in reply except a mumble and assurance that the bank was not in distress. Then Mr. Morgan smiled and indorsed the note.—Washington Post.

Japanese as Walkers.

A great walking competition in Tokyo, in which most of the competitors were jinrikisha men, resulted in a fiasco, none of the men completing the minimum of seventy miles. This excited some surprise, as the jinrikisha men have immensely developed legs. The result is attributed to their want of staying power.

TALK OF BASEBALL

CAPTAIN ZIEGLER WILL SOON TAKE CHARGE.

Yellow Kids and Whitmans Will Play the First Game of the Season at Athena on March 28-29.

There has been little doing the past few days in baseball circles, as Manager Cohen and the members of the board are waiting until the arrival of team captain and coach, Charles W. Ziegler, before they take any further steps toward securing players or making arrangements for the coming season. Mr. Ziegler is expected to arrive next Monday of Tuesday and then, all the preliminaries for securing and getting a team together will be arranged and active work commenced.

Secretary George Hartman Jr. and other members of the board of managers have received many letters from different players over the country, wanting to make an engagement with the Pendleton nine and there is no doubt but that good material can yet be secured for a team. As soon as Mr. Ziegler arrives players will be signed and the boys will commence to practice.

"Yellow Kids" vs. Whitmans.

Manager Wade of the Whitman college base ball team was in town on Tuesday and made arrangements with Manager Osborne to open the season with the "Yellow Kids" in Athena again this season, says the Press. They will play two games here, the same as last year, the dates being March 28-29, and preparations will be made for a good crowd and a big time. Extra cars will be arranged for on the trains from Walla Walla for the Saturday game, so that Whitman's students will have a chance to see one of the games.

Everyone who knows the two teams agrees that the game will be a hard fought one. Both teams have been strengthened over last year. Whitman being in far better trim. George Marquis adds great strength to their pitching staff, and the team has been in training for some time in the gymnasium and on the field.

Athena has not yet begun to practice, but the men will get together shortly before the middle of next month and daily team practice will at once begin. The grounds will be put in shape early in the month and it won't be long before the ball park will be a scene of activity.

Assessor George Buzan has returned from Baker City, where he went to consult with Assessor George J. Jett, of Baker County, and Assessor Ben Brown, of Union county, over the matter of raising the assessed valuation of all property. While no definite action was taken, Mr. Buzan said that the conclusion reached in this conference was that property values should be raised in order to cut down the rate of taxation, as tax payers seem to prefer high valuation and a low rate, to a lower valuation and a higher rate.

Reports of Damage to Wheat.

Walla Walla, March 1.—Reports of damage to grain by freezing out, continue to come to the city from all parts of the county, and first estimates of the loss have been found to be too small. The farmers are busy reseeded and land which a few days ago was considered safe for a crop, has been found to be badly damaged and much of it will have to be re-sown. In fact, all over the Eureka flat country the damage has been so general that most of the grain has been considered killed so far as a crop is concerned, and all of it will be reseeded that the farmers are able to handle. A strong demand for men and teams is being created.
