

PRINCE'S VALET

Who Tried to Board Prince Henry's Train.

IN OFF BY SECRET SERVICE MEN.

To Be an Old Servant of the Prince Who Gave Him an Audience and Sent Him Away Happy, After an Exciting Scene.

Pa., March 5.—At Cleveland, considerable excitement was caused by the frantic efforts of a middle-aged man to board Prince Henry's train. Secret service men threw the man off, but the prince caught sight of him and said: "Please let that man up." The man was ushered into the prince's presence and the two talked for several minutes. The man was identified as Peter Kapp, who was Prince's valet 20 years ago. He had been in a particularly happy frame of mind, but his unexplained presence was the cause of considerable excitement in the crowd drawn together by curiosity. Of course, Kapp's efforts were mistaken for those of an anarchist, bent upon murdering the secret service men jumping to this conclusion so quickly that the man, an old acquaintance of the prince, had not time to make his name known before he was thrown from the train into the crowd. It was the quickness and alertness of the prince that put an end to the matter and prevented what might have been a tragedy, as Kapp might have been killed by the guards for his persistence in boarding the train and desiring to see the prince in such an excited condition.

Passed Through Cleveland.

Cleveland, March 5.—Prince Henry's special train passed through here at 10 o'clock this morning. It made a minute stop, during which the prince left the breakfast table to go to the rear platform, where he acknowledged the cheers of the crowd from the depot.

Prince Visits Niagara.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—The special train bearing Prince Henry and his party reached Buffalo shortly before two o'clock this afternoon. The prince and his party were greeted at the station by Mayor Knight and a citizens' reception committee. The formalities were brief, occupying not more than ten minutes, and at their conclusion the royal party left at once for Niagara Falls, where the remainder of the afternoon was spent in sight-seeing. At 6 o'clock the party resumed its journey to Boston, being scheduled to make but two stops—at Rochester and Syracuse—before reaching the Hub City.

Boston Ready to Greet Prince.

Boston, Mass., March 5.—Everything is in readiness for the reception and entertainment of Prince Henry who is due to arrive here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. His royal highness will be met at the Huntington avenue station by the mayor and the German consul, and conducted under military escort to the Hotel Somerset, where the governor, commander of the navy yard, resident Elliot, of Harvard, and other men of distinction will be presented. The prince will then pay his return visits and incidentally visit the Public Library and other places of interest. A call will be made on Mrs. J. Gardner, after which the party will proceed to Cambridge, where the remainder of the day is to be spent in investigating Harvard university, in which his royal highness, as well as the emperor, has expressed much interest. Returning to Boston in the evening the prince will be the guest of honor at an elaborate banquet at the Hotel Somerset. At an early hour the following morning the party will leave for Albany.

Arrangements at Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 5.—Prince Henry will be greeted on his arrival here this evening by Mayor Kilne and a committee of business men. The Liederkranz Singing Society will sing. The train, after engines are changed, will be drawn to Vanderbilt square, where the ceremonies will take place. The Forty-first Separate company will act as guard. The square will be brilliantly illuminated with electric lights so that all may have an opportunity of seeing the distinguished visitor.

PRINCE HENRY AND FAMILY.

Here is the latest photograph of Prince Henry's family. In the midst of all that is being said about the prince's high social standing and skill as a sailor, it is interesting to be confronted with his royal highness in a less familiar role—that of the head of a family.

ESTERHAZY IN NEW YORK.

The Man Made Notorious in the Famous Dreyfus Case.

New York, March 5.—Major Ferdinand Esterhazy, who confessed that he forged the Dreyfus bordereau, has, according to the Herald, been seen in this city. He is said to have spent two hours in a Broadway restaurant in animated conversation with a young man and woman. He was shabbily dressed and his features were extremely thin.

Esterhazy declined to be a witness in the Dreyfus trial in 1899 and later fled to England, where he confessed to being the author of the bordereau. Since his flight from France he has lived in obscurity in England.

Cooperage Wants Combine.

Detroit, Mich., March 5.—A cooperage trust embracing three-quarters of the stave and hoop manufacturers of the country is to be launched at a meeting to be held in Detroit today. The initial steps looking to the formation of a combination were taken at a conference held two weeks ago. The company will be called the Central Cooperage Sales company and its headquarters will be in Buffalo. Its capital will be $500,000. Leading manufacturers of Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Canada are the promoters of the movement. The announced purpose of the company is to advance prices, reduce freight rates, prevent unjust claims, and stop ruinous price fluctuations.

Sportsmen's Show Opens.

New York, March 5.—The eighth annual sportsman's show, under the auspices of the national Sportsmen's Association, opened auspiciously today in Madison Square Garden and will continue during the next two weeks. Those in charge of the affair have outdone themselves in preparing attractive features. The huge arena has been converted into a veritable sportsman's paradise with all the attractions and picturesque features afforded by wood and stream. During the exhibition there will be carried out an attractive program of aquatic sports, shooting contests, fly and bait casting competitions and other contests of sport.

Cincinnati is 100 Years Old.

Cincinnati, O., March 5.—The city of Cincinnati is 100 years old today and it is celebrating the event in various ways. ## THE PRINCE OF WALES.

Receives a Great Welcome Upon Reaching Bristol.

London, March 5.—The Prince of Wales, heir apparent to the throne, received a great welcome at Bristol today on the occasion of his visit to cut the first sod of the new dock at Avonmouth. It was the first visit of the Prince of Wales to Bristol, and the ancient city gave him a truly royal welcome. Business was generally suspended, the decorations of flags and bunting were profuse and several triumphal arches spanned the streets. A special train conveyed the royal visitor over the Clifton extension railway from Bristol to Avonmouth, nine miles distant.

The new docks at the mouth of the Avon river are designed to be among the largest in England and are expected to result in a great increase in the trade of the city of Bristol. The cost of the construction will amount to $10,000,000.
