GENERAL NEWS

Cholera has broken out among the pilgrims at Medina. One hundred and ten deaths from the disease have occurred.

Both sides of the isthmian canal question are now making every effort to secure testimony for their propositions, and against the other.

The Cunard liner, Ttruria arrived at Horta, Azores, Sunday, all on board well. She lost her propeller and rudder on February 26 and made port at a very slow pace.

Cornelius Shields, general manager of the Dominion Coal Company, states that borings made by the company near Butler's Lake had revealed the presence of coal deposit estimated to contain 1,000,000,000 tons of bituminous coal.

Joseph Hill, a gunner on the training ship Pensacola and a survivor of the Maine, has received official notification from Washington that he is ineligible for a commission in the navy. Hill meets the same fate as Gunnor Morgan.

At the cabinet meeting President Roosevelt requested the members not to talk to newspaper correspondents about matters under discussion at the semi-weekly meeting. The president himself will make public such matters as he deems proper to be given out.

The attention of Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, was called to reports that he contemplated soon resigning from the cabinet. The secretary treated the subject lightly, declaring that it was news to him and that he had no intention of resigning.

It is stated that J. Pierpont Morgan announced at the reception given to Prince Henry by the New York Yacht club that he will put Columbia, the America's cup defender of 1901, in commission and send her across the ocean to race against anything afloat, boat for boat.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST NEWS

A. McDonald, formerly a resident of Walla Walla, for years manager of the Schwabacher store in that city, died in San Francisco a few days ago, aged 66 years.

After completing the work of enlistment in Walla Walla, the two naval officers, Lieutenant J. P. Morton and Surgeon J. E. Page, will tour the Inland Empire on the same errand.

After suffering three days from the effects of a severe operation for hernia, E. G. Roberts, the pioneer marble dealer of Walla Walla, died at the Walla Walla hospital, aged 66 years.

There are 10,000 wage earners in Spokane and nearly $8,000,000 annually is paid out there for wages. This amount includes mechanics, laborers, clerks, public employes, women's trades and every conceivable occupation.

According to the last report issued by the Walla Walla land office, there were still 48,915 unappropriated surveyed acres of land in Walla Walla county. The reserved acreage was given as 303,530, while the appropriated land totaled 299,500, making the acreage of the county $11,500.

By twos and threes prospectors are gathering in Stites, Dixie, Elk City, Grangeville and other points preparing for the rush into Thunder Mountain. A few of the more venturesome spirits are already on the trails to the south, determined to get into the new district ahead of the rush.

Actor James Neill, whose action in refusing to submit to what he regarded as personal indignities at the hands of the degree team of the Spokane lodge of Elks, created a wide-spread sensation in Elksdom a few weeks ago, has acknowledged his error and has asked for the supreme clemency of the grand exalted ruler of the order with whom he has had a personal interview.

JUDGE LOWELL'S POSITION.

He Writes a Salem Newspaper Man Concerning Fees and Salaries.

The Salem Journal sent letters to all republican candidates for governor asking them to give expressions of the question of putting all state officials on a salary, covering all fees and perquisites into the treasury and inaugurating a thorough business administration. Mr. Lowell is one of the ablest lawyers in the state and he exactly coincides with the Journal's claims that the officers can be put on a salary without changing the constitution. This view is held by the ablest lawyers and occupants of the bench in this state and the clamor that no reform is possible without amending the constitution, or a constitutional convention, should no longer prevail. In fact making that argument any longer is clearly for the purpose of preventing reform. Here is one candidate for governor whose ability as a lawyer cannot be called in question, who declares over his signature that the constitution is not in the way. This is the overshadowing issue in which the people are interested. They have voted down all amendments to the constitution and the way is open to get this reform without. Will the republican party grant relief?

Judge Lowell's Letter.

Pendleton, Feb. 26, 1902.
To the Editor.—Replying to your request for my views upon the salary question as applicable to state offices, and upon the desirability of inaugurating a business program in our state affairs, permit me to say that, when my candidacy for governor was announced last September, I gave to the public a statement of my position upon both these subjects, saying, among other things, that as the chief executive of the state I should favor: "Such change in existing statutes as will place all state officials on reasonable salaries, and provide that all fees, emoluments and income from interest, shall be covered into the treasury—and such I deem to be the spirit of act XIII of the constitution. The salaries there named are clearly minimum, and the language of the article should no longer be permitted to excuse the continuance of a system which enriches a few men and deprives the state of revenues properly its own."
And also "Economy, integrity, efficiency and diligent attention to all the public institutions, and the use of the state administration, so far as its constitutional powers will permit, as a strenuous influence for the moral and material upbuilding of the commonwealth, the attraction to it of desirable settlers and active capital, the development of the resources of all its sections, the unifying of its somewhat divergent interests, and the forbearance of those things in all avenues of effort, which make for the prosperity, happiness and contentment of the people."
I have seen no reason to add to or in any manner modify the opinions upon public affairs which I then expressed.

VACCINATION AND DANDRUFF.

There is a Sure Prevention of Baldness as There is of Smallpox.

It is now accepted that vaccination renders the vaccinated person exempt from smallpox; or at worst, he never has anything but the lightest kind of a case. Now a sure preventative and cure for dandruff, which causes falling hair and baldness, has been discovered—Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the dandruff germ. C. H. Reed, Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair for several years. We tried remedies without effect until we used Newbro's Herpicide, two bottles of which cured us." Hundreds of similar testimonials.
