Cris Breeding's Team Ran Away.

About one of the liveliest runaways which has been witnessed in Pendleton occurred this forenoon. Chris Breeding stopped his team and buggy in front of R. .dartin's grocery and got out of the rig, leaving them untied. They became frightened and ran up Main street, past the O. R. & N. depot, and over the hill by the public school until they reached College street. There they turned north and when near the junction of Railroad and College the neck yoke broke and let the tongue of the buggy down. and it struck the railroad track and Chas. Wisdom, of Baker City, is in was broken. The team then hung up on a fence and was caught. The City fro mUnion county, says the Her-

There are potent man Catholic clergyman who was the forces which promise to molest Church again this year, and administer the same sort of a drubbing that he received when he was up for joint senator a few years ago. Furnish's star in Union county is steadily in the ascendant. Geer's treachery rankles deep in that secmer affair and his innumerable breaks since he has occupied the executive chair, stamps him as by no means a logical or welcome candidate for renomination. A desperate effort will be made by the clean wing of the republican party in the county to wipe the names of Geer and Moody off the slate for all time.

The county seat fight is lost sight of for the present. Church vs. Scriber and Simon vs. Mitchell are the two paramount issues. The consensus of opinion seems to be that should Simon go under next week in Multnomah county, it will be adlos to Moody and Geer.

No matter what Church does in Union county with Baker thrown in, Moody will be as dead a duck as Simon, and Simon as dead as a door nail.

WALLA WALLA NOTES.

Died of Consumption-William G. Ewing, of Chicago, Lectures.

Walla Walla, March 11.-Edward Mallagan, aged 40 years, married, died in this city of tuberculosis, after a lingering illness. A wife and one child survive him. Mr. Mallagan was a member of the Fourth Cavalry when he came to this city many years ago. In 1895 he was discharged for disability. Since that time his health has been failing. Funeral services were conducted this afternoon from the family residence, on North Sixth street, by the local aerie of Eagles. William C. Ewing, of Chicago, addressed a fair sized audience at the opera house last night upon the doctrines of Christian Science. The meeting was under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientists, of this city.

Three recruits for the United States navy were secured in this city-yesterday by Recruiting Officer J. P. Morton. Two were enlisted as apprentices and one as seaman. The office was closed last night.

As late as their lives. "Machine" Church, in his May, 1864, this Harvard-bred, bluecalamity where he is." blooded Boston lawyer expressed the same opinion of Lincoln as the man who excited compassion when he did not provoke contempt. Poor Dana, who wrote "Two Years Before the Mast," held this opinion in May, 1864, of Lincoln, who was already known as the author of the emancipation proclamation, and of the "Gettysburg speech," and whose first inaugural had become an American classic.
