"Such is Fame."

General Shafter lost in Cuba what reputation he previously had, says the New York World. General Lawton was killed in the Philippines. Admiral Dewey parted with his popularity overnight by doing what he thought was a gallant and generous act. President McKinley was assassinated. Sampson is dying, his mind and body wrecked. Schley is deprived of the recognition which his friends and a large portion of the people think should be his. Ex-Secretary Alger will be haunted by "embalmed beef" until he dies. General Miles has been bitterly and publicly reprimanded for expressing an opinion that most of his fellow-citizens applauded. Captain Hobson's sight has been so injured that he asks to be retired.

What It Is.

Advertising is the life blood of the business world today, and well-directed advertising is like the powerful searchlight of a river steamer, thrown upon a distant cottage on the bank, cutting it out like a picture painted on a black canvas. The timid buyer and the prospective industry will follow the rays of the searchlight of publicity. Just as surely as will the eyes of the steamer's passengers follow the light thrown from their vessel. They will not search the surrounding gloom for objects of interest when a beautiful picture is clearly shown before them. Prospective buyers will not search the surrounding gloom for your competitors if the searchlight of publicity is turned on your own place of business.—Canastota (N. Y.) Bee.
