THIS THE FINALE

"ROMANCE OF THREE COUNTIES" ENDS HERE.

Young Wife Goes Back to Her Parents at Waitsburg, Having Dissipated Husband.

Only a week ago a story was printed in the East Oregonian headed "A Romance of Three Counties," which told a thrilling story of how one, Miss Jessie Stevenson (Mary Tweedy) had been wooed and won by a young man who appeared at the door of her step-father's home, in Whitman county, one hot sultry summer day four years ago; how the heart of Miss Stevenson, who was only 16 years of age, had warmed from friendship to love for the young man, whose name was S. O. Reed; how a few months later they went to Spokane to get married and the auditor would not issue the license until the bride got a written permit from her parents; how a newspaper man, who was acquainted with all parties, came to the rescue and relieved the anxious young people by getting the consent of the mother over the phone; how they then removed from Whitman county to Walla Walla county and how one day Reed disappeared.

He did not go any too soon, however, for the officers of the law were after him. It was found that he was a bigamist and had a wife No. 1 in Nebraska.

Before his departure from Waitsburg, a little flaxen-haired boy was born to them and Reed loved his wife and little one, as they loved him. He got wind that the officers were after him and knew that unless he left the country and his loved ones, he would be arrested and torn from them by the arms of the law. So he bid them goodbye, with tears in his eyes, and that is the last time he has been seen or heard of by the wife. That was about two years ago. Finding out later why her husband had so suddenly disappeared, she began to investigate and found that her marriage was not legal and that her name was yet Miss Jessie Stevenson. She did not sit down and fold her arms when she found this out, but began to look around for another helpmeet. She did not look long until she found a man by the name of Hezekiah Smith, a junk dealer in Walla Walla, and they soon became friends and within a few weeks were married. They remained in Walla Walla until recently and were happy. About a month ago they came to this city, where Mrs. Smith has two uncles living. Her husband gathered junk and sold it and made plenty of money to keep his wife at a hotel, and her and the little boy, who now is three years old, clothed in the best of style.

He Became Dissipated.

After coming here Smith got to drinking, and becoming jealous of his wife, threatened her life. She was heartbroken at this sudden turn of things, and the coldness with which her husband had been treating her. When he threatened to kill her she wired her mother, Mrs. Tweedy, at Waitsburg, to come down at once, as she was in trouble. In the meantime she had gone to another place to board and had refused to let her husband see her. He was somewhat taken back by her acts and threatened to kill himself unless his wife returned to him. This she was afraid to do and told him she would not live with him again. He then went to a saloon and ordered a glass of beer, called all his friends around him and told them that he was tired of life and was going to end it all. He said:

"I will see the sun rise in the morning, but I will never see it set."

That was Friday night, but he has not carried out his threats, and is still walking the streets bemoaning the loss of his wife. He now promises her if she will come back to him he will treat her right and has no intention of doing her harm. She fears him and refuses. Her mother arrived Saturday evening and Mrs. Smith is going to leave tomorrow with her to again seek protection under the parental roof in Waitsburg.

This ends the "Romance of Three

THE NINE PLAYERS

HERE'S THE FIRST LINE-UP FOR THURSDAY.

May Be Changed Before the Game is Called With Whitman.

Sunday afternoon the baseball boys got together on the Alta street diamond and did some practice work and are getting themselves in readiness for the game they are to play with the Whitman College ball team Thursday, the 27th.

The team is not yet complete for the season, but Manager Cohen and Captain Ziegler know quite surely who they will play, as they have all their men picked. Of course, there may be a change later on, and something may happen that some of the players now in view may not get here. In case of such a thing happening, other quarters will have to be looked to.

The line-up for the Thursday's game, as now mapped out is as follows: Willner, pitcher; Claud Penland, catcher; Clemens, short-stop; Hartman, first base; Clarence Penland, second base; Ziegler, third base; Barlow, right field; Knox, left field; Cornell, center. This is not given positively as the line-up, as there may be a change before the day of the game.

Two or three other players are expected here in a few days, and it is possible that Brown, who played through the season last year with Portland, will be here in time for Thursday, and he may do part of the catching.

Mrs. C. J. Ferguson is in Walla Walla on a visit to relatives. She will be absent a week.

Mrs. Eugene Tausick, of Walla Walla, is the guest of Mrs. M. F. Kelly at the Golden Rule hotel.

Miss Katherine Duncan, of Echo, was a guest of Miss Celestine Moorhouse in Pendleton on Sunday.

G. W. Hunt, founder of the W. & C. R. railroad system, and W. T. Smith, of Echo, are at Hotel Pendleton.

Mrs. O. G. Myrick, of near Helix, is reported to be seriously ill and her life is despaired of by her friends.

Miss Frances Duncan, teacher in the Baker City public schools, spent Sunday in Pendleton with friends.

The child of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Withee, who has been exceedingly sick for many weeks, is improved today.

Charles Cameron returned Sunday evening from Walla Walla, where he spent the day with his sister, Mrs. N. A. Jones.

The Rev. S. B. L. Penrose, president of Whitman college, was in town today, en route home from Union to Walla Walla.

Senator George W. Proebstel, was the guest of the Golden Rule hotel yesterday on his way home from a business trip to Portland.

Miss Marguerite Leasure, who has spent several months with the family of Sheriff W. M. Blakeley, left Sunday morning for her home in Portland.

Judge W. R. Ellis left this morning for Heppner, where he goes to dispose of some cases before him in the court. He will return on Wednesday.

Louis Hunsiker left for Walla Walla Saturday to join his wife, who is in the hospital in that city, and will probably be away a week or longer.

A. Vinson, the marble dealer of Walla Walla, is in town in the interests of his business. Mr. Vinson is preparing to remove his marble works from Walla Walla to Lewiston.

Edward Stine, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stine, left on the delayed O. R. & N. train today for the hospital at Portland, where he goes to try and get relief from rheumatism from which he is suffering.

H. O. Koeppen started this morning with a force of carpenters and stone masons for Warren, where Koeppen Brothers, the contractors, are erecting a large and handsome residence near that place for Julius Hudeman, a prosperous farmer.

The report on Saturday that Mrs. Dean Shull and child had measles was not true. They were ill and the symptoms resembled those of that disease, but when Health Officer Cole examined them he found that it was not this disease. They are much improved at present.

Deputy Sheriff C. P. Davis returned Sunday evening from the hospital at Walla Walla, where Mrs. Davis was operated on for tumor a week ago. Mr. Davis reports her now out of danger and getting along as well as could be hoped for, although her life was despaired of for several days.

Frank Leatherman and wife leave on tomorrow morning's O. R. & N. train for Spokane, where they will make their home. They have been residents of Pendleton for a year past. Mrs. Leatherman says she hopes Spokane will prove as good a town as Pendleton and she will be satisfied with it as a home.

Carl, now engaged in the writing of life insurance, has signed with the Jules Grau Opera Company, for next season, and will sing a baritone part in the new opera now being finished for that company's presentation during the 1902-3 season. Mr. Carl is a singer of great promise, and his Pendleton friends expect to hear some excellent reports from him in the future, even more favorable than those that have been heard in the past.

A WRECK OF A FREIGHT.

Passengers Delayed by an Accident Near Meacham.

The westbound overland O. R. & N. train, due here at 8 o'clock this morning, did not arrive until 1:40 this afternoon. The cause of the delay was from the breaking of a wheel under a freight car, two miles beyond Meacham, which crippled the freight until it could not get out of the way of the passenger and it was compelled to wait until a wrecking train arrived and replaced the broken wheel with a new truck. With the exception of the breaking of the wheel no other damage was done other than the straining of the patience of the passengers on board the passenger train.

A Home Beyond the Grave.

Dan, a colored man, was employed as porter in a mercantile establishment in a town in Florida, and his duties required him to have the store swept by 7 o'clock in the morning. He had been late for many mornings, and on the sixteenth consecutive time his employer remonstrated with him thus:

"Dan, why can't you get here on time?"

"Well, Mr. L.," said Dan, "yer see, I live the other side of Mount Hermon cemetery and can't always get yer on time."

"Why in the world do you live so far from your work?" said his employer.

Without a moment's hesitation Dan responded:

"Yer see, it's dis yer way, Mr. L.—I'll be hones' wid yer—I wants a home beyond the grave."

Carlyle's View of Aprons.

Carlyle in his "Sartor Resartus" was able to find a deep philosophy in aprons. "Aprons are defenses against injury to cleanliness, to safety, to modesty, sometimes to roguery. From the thin slip of notched silk (as it were, the emblem and beattified ghost of an apron) which some highest bred housewife has gracefully fastened on to the thick tanned hide girt around him with thongs, wherein the builder bulks and at evening sticks his trowel, or to those jingling sheet iron aprons wherein your otherwise half-naked Vulcan's hammer and smelt in their smelt furnace, is there not range enough in the fashion and uses of this vestment?"
