FROM M'DANNALD

HOW THE RAINS GLADDEN HEARTS OF CALIFORNIANS.

Famous and Long Sought Mother Lode Discovered on San Antonio.

Santa Ana, Cal., March 29.—Up to the 24th of February we had had but four inches of rainfall and people in all the various industries in this wonderful country of diversified interests began to take on a color as nearly resembling a dark blue, as you could put your finger in your eye. Four successive dry seasons is quite too many for a country with as many inches of "developed" water even as this has. But since the last above mentioned date there have been divers and numerous rains, and the record for the season now stands at about 10 inches, which is quite ample to insure as good crops as the country has any record of.

Grain which a month ago was dying, absolutely burning up for want of moisture, is now waving in the rippling breeze as green and vigorous as a newly fledged political leader. Rainfall in this state has a slight variation. For instance, we have 10 inches here, four inches at San Diego and 80 inches at Mariposa. The Mariposa record will seem quite large to some people, and yet the amount is quite insignificant compared with the fall at Yaquina Bay, Oregon, where 120 inches would hardly be sufficient to excite passing comment. Most of the grain farming here is done on a large scale. The San Joaquin ranch of 110,000 acres is reaped out in one and two thousand acre tracts, and the poor devils who do all the work and take all the chances are compelled to give young Irvine one-fourth of everything they grow, even down to the stubble.

This year he is compelling them to plant one-eighth of the acreage to beans. "By grab," as Umatilla county's candidate for governor would say, won't those eight or nine thousand acres produce a vast quantity of the luscious, melting bachelor strawberries.

Found Rich Mother Lode.

For more than forty years men have been scouring the gulches, ridges and ravines around Mount San Antonio, or "Old Baldy," for the mother lode that has supplied the San Gabriel river with the thousands of dollars of placer gold that has been washed from the bed of that stream each year, but the secret was so securely locked in the rugged and almost inaccessible mountains that it seemed the treasure must forever remain undiscovered. Last fall, two prospectors accidentally stumbled on the ledge where it had been laid bare by a recent freshet. The ledge is said to be 30 feet wide and of almost phenomenal richness.

A large crew of men are now at work on a grade over which they will haul the necessary machinery for a 40-stamp mill. Another ledge, or perhaps an extension of the same ledge, has been discovered several miles to the east, and a mill is being erected on it. Thus you see we have a little mining excitement right at our very door, without having to go trudging off to the snow-capped peaks of Thunder Mountain, or the ice locked shores of Northern Alaska.

1500 Cars of Celery.

The trains this week finished moving the last of this season's celery crop. A recapitulation of the figures shows there were 1500 carloads, and the net profits to the grower was in the immediate vicinity of 12 cents a dozen bunches. This, they claim, leaves a very nice margin for the grower.

This year several thousand acres of the celery lands will be planted to beets on contract with the refinery at Chino. Last year the Chino factory shipped beets from as far north as Ventura county, and even then the refinery was run at full capacity for only a few months. There is considerable talk of putting up a sugar factory at Imperial or Calexico. These are new towns on the Colorado delta near the Mexican boundary line. It is claimed there is a fine body of land there with unlimited quantities of water for irrigating purposes. The canal company have sold water stock for 400,000 acres, and the rush for land seems to not abate a fraction. The place evidently holds in store great fortunes for somebody but I fear it will redound more to the profit of the wily land speculator than to the actual occupant.

"Well, By Grab."

Through reading the East Oregonian I get the impression that Mr. Furnish enjoys a very fair prospect of carrying off the top plum on the tree. Well, "by grab," I would not be sorry to hear it, for while he has left, dug out, or absconded from the good old democratic party, he is undoubtedly the same old frank, whole-souled, open-hearted Bill Furnish that he used to be. Besides, in these rushing times when men shift their religion, politics and habitations with the velocity of the rapid transit, it is no wonder we wake up some morning and find a good man on the other side of the fence. Although I have tried to be a consistent follower of the good old Jeffersonian doctrine for 20 years or more, if some one should ask me what ticket or party organization I was going to affiliate with tomorrow, I would be compelled to say in all candor, "Damfino."

A Rummage Sale.

The young ladies of the St. Agnes Guild will hold a "Rummage Sale" Monday afternoon and evening, April 1st, at the Parish House, next door to Episcopal church. This is the place to find bargains in clothing, household articles, books, magazines, etc. In addition to the rummage sale there will be fancy articles, cut flowers, aprons, etc., for sale. Light refreshments will be served and a pleasant time is assured all of those who attend.

Cistern Statistics.

A cistern 10 feet deep and 10 feet in diameter will hold, approximately, 150 barrels of water. The most common size is 12 feet diameter by 10 feet in depth, which makes a capacity of a little over 200 barrels. One of 13 feet diameter and about 15 feet depth will hold 14,480 measured gallons, or 372 barrels, counting forty gallons to the barrel.

Salted Popcorn.

Economical, easy to prepare and wholesome for a party is salted popcorn. Prepare after the corn is well popped exactly as you would salted almonds or peanuts and heap in low glass dishes. It will not hurt the children, no matter how heartily they eat, and makes a pretty addition to the table.

Mourful.

Toward the end of the mince pie stage Willie put down his spoon and pushed away his unfinished trifle. "Why, Willie," said his father, "what's the matter? You look quite mournful!" "Yes," replied Willie, "that's just it. I'm more'n full." And the innocent child wondered why everybody laughed.—London Globe.
