Hints About the Spring Hats.

Hats this spring promise to be more rolling in shape than they were in the winter-the flare of the brim being more pronounced. The trimming still remains flat and wide, and much of it is placed under the brim and well toward the back. The trimming being so placed naturally throws the hat more over the face, which is a good point for summer time. Toques and smaller hats have sharply flaring wide brims, ad on the stiffer hats a rosette or a single wide quill is quite sufficient trimming. The hat of black chiffon, for between season wearing, is very much the best and a hat of this kind may be worn quite as well the year round. Bonnets of black chiffon, with a touch of white or mauve, are more becoming than any other kind for the elderly lady. They are of feather-weight lightness and yet are serviceable.-March Ladies 'Home Journal.
