HOBO AND CHICKEN

TWO WEARY WILLIES AND A LUNCH PAIL.

One of Them Tells His Story After Coming Here to Jail.

Constable John Dykes, of Milton, brought two men to the county jail Monday evening who were sentenced by Justice J. L. Miller, to 12 days in the county jail in default of paying fines of $25 each for stealing two dinner pails. They are of the genial hobo type and their names are Ed Pollock and Ray Shafer. They claim to be from the East, are men of about 30 years of age, typical Rovng Willies, for their hair is long and matted, and their clothes fit too soon and show that they were not made especially for their occupants. The story of one of the men is:

"We live in the East and were going to Walla Walla. When we were tramping along the road the other side of Milton, we found two dinner pails sitting near the road, and we stopped to look into them. There was a nice lunch, such as we had not seen since we quit eating our mother's cooking, and after we got a whiff of the chicken leg, it was all off with us. We forgot all about everything else but our hunger, and the temptation was too great to resist. No one was in sight just then and we took the pails away and sat down to do something for the inner man. About that time the owners of the buckets hove in sight, and were too close for us to get away before we saw them. We were taken to town and pleaded guilty to larceny, and the judge, he did the rest. It seems hard for a man to be sent to jail for 12 days just because he is hungry, but the judge was the doctor and we have to take our medicine."

Greek Husband Housekeepers.

In Greece it is the custom for the man of the house to go out early in the morning and not only to order the day's food, but to send along with the boy who delivers it explicit orders how he wishes to have it cooked. In this connection it should be remarked that any man of Greece can cook any Greek dish. Grecian women seldom go to market and often do not know how to cook as well as their husbands. These people eat very lightly in the morning, the meal consisting of fruit. At noon comes the first real meal, the breakfast. From noon until 4 o'clock they sleep. This is the mid-day siesta. To call upon a Greek at this time were quite as rude as to call upon an American at a corresponding hour in the morning. At 4 o'clock another light luncheon is eaten. The dinner, or hearty meal, is not eaten until late in the evening, sometimes as late as 9 or 10 o'clock.—Good Housekeeping.

The Gummied Flower.

You may buy upon the street flowers which to the eye are of a bloom as fine and a growth as fresh as any which could be procured at the most costly establishment. You buy them for a song and bring them home, when, lo! to your astonishment and dismay they fall to pieces at a breath like a cardboard house. They have been subjected to one of the "tricks of the trade." It is known as the "gumming process." A single drop of gum is inserted with a sharp pointed instrument into the center of each calyx, and by this means the conformity of the bloom is preserved until the flowers are sold. The composition of the gum is such as to dry up and set immediately, becoming invisible even to the closest scrutiny.—Everybody's Magazine.

The Way of the World.

Funny world we live in. A man who has six horses standing idle in a stable walked two miles out in the country on a little matter of business a day or two ago, while another man who had no horses and very little money hired a team to go the same distance. This was an actual occurrence and shows the perversity of human nature. He who has the facilities for driving prefers to walk, while he who could much better prefer to walk and has no team goes and hires one. Men are crazy to own a team, and it soon becomes a bore to give the horse necessary exercise. It has always been thus and, we presume, always will be.

Effect of Gravitation.

If a man weighing twelve stone were to be transferred to the moon, the weight of his body, measured at least by the attraction which the moon would exercise upon it, would be reduced to about two stone. If his muscles and his frame remained the same, it would seem as if he would be able to jump over a wall twelve feet high on the small globe without any greater exertion than would be required to clear a wall two feet high on the earth.

An Anticipated Pleasure.

A congressman of Mississippi, after making a speech in opposition to the expensive funerals of congressmen, says he received a letter from a constituent saying: "When you die, John, we won't ask congress to pay the expense of your funeral. You've got enough friends down here, John, to give you a respectable burial, and we would take pleasure in doing it."

SLOPPING HOGS.

An Experienced Breeder Tells Just How He Does It.

A writer wishes that some one would invent a cheap way to mix slop, and John M. Jamison discusses the question as follows in National Stockman: He speaks of having 175 hogs on his farm to care for this winter when feed is high. Now, if he puts slop for these through a barrel or tank, mixing it in that way before he gives it to them, I do not wonder that he wishes for a cheap mixer. He also finds a V trough a wasteful one. The use of this trough I have in the main discarded on account of the waste from it. I find after many years' experience in handling slop that the pig is the best and cheapest mixer. But the mixing by the pig cannot be done in a V shaped trough without too much waste. The right kind of a trough for this is one with a flat bottom. Ten inches wide is about right, with the sides four inches above the bottom of the trough, making them any desired length. I have them from 3 to 12 feet long; 6 to 8 is long enough, as they are easier to handle. For ease and convenience in doing the work the pigs or hogs should be fastened out of the lot while the feed is being prepared in the troughs. The troughs should be as nearly level as possible before the feed is put in. Put in the amount of dry feed required and then pour over it about an equal amount of water or kitchen and dairy wastes. Then open the gates and let the pigs to the troughs. If hearty and properly fed, they will make no quarrel with their owner because he has not mixed more labor with the slop. They do the mixing in an earnest and rapid manner and waste little, if any, feed. With the feed in a V trough very much of it will be worked over the sides of the trough and lost.

I do not know any way that the labor of preparing slop can be reduced below this, nor do I know any way to prepare it that will make it more acceptable to them.

If the troughs are placed on a clean space—a floor or clean straw or cornstalks under them—and with the feed lots well covered with straw and stalks, there is no need or reason why the slop troughs should become filthy. During winter or doubtful weather the troughs should be turned upside down after feeding; then they will not have to be emptied of water or snow.

Taken all together, it is a safe estimate to make that no protection against the changing weather adds 25 per cent to the cost of feed. Protection cuts down the cost of feed. How to keep up growth and shorten the feed expense should be the leading point this winter. At the same time it is well to remember that just sustaining the animal without gain is a throwing away of the feed given.

Next Sunday at "The Temple."

The Reverend Levi Johnson will conduct divine services next Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m., April 6, the subject to be: "What is a Christian?" He cordially invites everyone to attend.
