MANUFACTURERS TO MEET AN IMPORTANT GATHERING OF BUSINESS MEN

To Develop American Industries and Widen the Scope of American Trade is the Object of Those Who Participate.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—No more important gathering of men of business has ever been held in America than that which will assemble in this city next week on the occasion of the annual convention of the national association of manufacturers. It promises to be not only the largest assembly of the kind ever held but the most practical. It will be composed of men representing every branch of industry as well as every section of the country. Its main purposes are to develop all American industries to the highest point and to widen the scope of American trade to other nations. The association was organized in Cincinnati in 1895, and its annual conventions have been held in Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Cincinnati, Boston and Detroit.

President Theodore C. Search announced at Detroit last year, when he consented to accept the presidency for the sixth time, that he could not serve the association in that capacity beyond the expiration of the present year. Mr. Search has recently made known his adherence to this determination, and one of the most interesting problems which the coming convention will have to consider is the selection of a new president. This matter has been discussed quietly among the members for several months, but at present there is nothing to indicate upon whom the choice of the association will fall.
