Lonely Homes

A home is never complete without children. Yet many homes are childless. Many wives are desolate for the lack of a child to love. Their lives are aimless—void of the high motives of motherhood. While barrenness is causing incalculable sadness and sorrow, it exists in most cases on account of some little female trouble, which Wine of Cardui would speedily set right. This pure Wine regulates the disordered female organs by building up the worn out nerves and regulating the menstrual flow. It restores the fallen womb to its proper place. By strengthening the generative organs, it makes pregnancy possible where barrenness exists. You can depend on

WINE OF CARDUI

Suffering women all over the land have been depending on it for seventy-five years. No more convincing proof can be given than the testimony of Mrs. Benson, who is only one of thousands of women to whom Wine of Cardui has brought a permanent cure. Many cases of miscarriage—that trouble which robs mothers of their hopes—have been avoided by timely use of the Wine. You are asked to try Wine of Cardui and Theford's Black-Draught, its companion medicine. Nine out of ten cases of female trouble, barrenness included, yield to them. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

Vanderhoort, Ark., April 2, 1906.

Last May I had a miscarriage, which was followed by flooding. I read your Almanac and my husband got me a bottle of Wine of Cardui and it stopped my flooding and restored my fallen womb to its place. Now I am cured after taking three bottles and have another to take which I got this morning. I am expecting to become a mother and Wine of Cardui will be my doctor.

OLD RIFLE DUG UP

AN ANCIENT FIREARM, POWDER HORN AND BOX OF CAPS.

Taken From the Sands Near Old Wallula, Recalling the Days of Indian Wars and Early Settlement of the Oregon Country.

Lee Moorehouse is in possession of a relic in the shape of a rifle. It was dug out of the ground by S. Bowman, master mechanic for the O. R. & N. railroad company at Wallula, one mile east of Old Wallula, on the immigrant road between that place and Walla Walla.

The gun is of an ancient make, in fact, so ancient that it is the only one of its kind ever seen by the younger generation of today. It is a regular old-fashioned cap and ball gun, of about a 38-calibre ball, but unlike all other cap and ball rifles, it has the hammer and tube on the guard, for the trigger is the main spring and instead of this spring being on the inside, as in other guns, it is a very large and clumsy-looking piece of steel which circles out large enough for the trigger to be under it and leaves room for the finger.

With the gun was found a powder horn and a box of percussion caps, which would lead to the conclusion that the owner was killed, either in an Indian fight or by some lone redskin, who took the life of the white man and left his body on the prairie for the wild beasts to feed upon, and his bones to bleach in the sun of the sand hills along the Columbia river.

Some advance the idea that the owner of this ancient firearm was killed as far back as during the trouble with the Indians, when Marcus Whitman and his faithful followers were massacred, while others do not think that it could have lain in the sands since 1847, when this massacre took place, and think that it was no further back than during the Yakima Indian war, which was in 1854. Whether or not either of these theories are true will never be known, but could this old gun go off and tell its own story it would no doubt alarm one and all.

The gun is in a perfect state of preservation and does not have the appearance of having lain in the sand but a short time. It has a silver bead and a peep sight and has been a very fine gun in its day. The stock is well preserved and except where it appears to have been in a fire at sometime—perhaps while laying in the place where found and a little of the side burned away, it bears no other marks. There are no figures or marks to indicate when or where it was made.

Where these reminders of hostile times with the redskins were found, is a great place for relics and is near the site of an old fort, established by the Hudson Bay Co., who were the first white people to invade this part of the country.

Mr. Moorehouse will send this gun to the Oregon Historical society at Portland.

Saved Many a Time.

A PRINCELY TEAM.

Towering Probecidians and Double-Humped Camels in Silk and Silver Harness.

Caesar made many triumphal entries into Rome, and taxed to the utmost the ingenuity of the gentlemen who got up his larger entrances to provide new ideas for him. He entered with kings hitched with golden chains, drawing him through the Via This or That to his palace, and was sometimes borne by chariots of glorious Roma; but never even in his triumphal entries did he or could he have been drawn by great teams of ponderous probecidians and huge double-humped camels, as are many of the golden chariots seen in The Great Pan-American Shows marvelous street parade, and not one, but many teams of elephants and camels drawing golden chariots, while caparisoned beyond comparison in silk and silver-mounted harness, and bearing in the chariots the exalted rulers of the arenic world—the world's champions and the big shows stars.

The Pan-American Shows will positively exhibit at Pendleton, on April 30, at 2 and 8 p. m.

Miss Ella Foster, of Whitney, Baker county, while handling a revolver Saturday, accidentally shot herself through the thigh. The wound is a dangerous one. She was taken to the hospital at Sumpter, and at last accounts was resting easy.

SMALLPOX IN WALLA WALLA

SEVERAL PATIENTS RELEASED FROM DETENTION HOSPITAL

A Mother Charged With Neglecting Her Children, They Will be Taken From Her and Cared for by the State.

Walla Walla, April 23.—Several smallpox patients were released from quarantine yesterday, and the disease is again disappearing from the city. The Wallace family was afflicted several days ago, the father, mother and several children all being stricken. The disease was in a light form and the family was released and returned home from the pest house.

Four children were taken charge of yesterday by Sheriff Kees, and sent to the poor house while the case is being investigated. Mrs. Smith, the mother of the children, was arrested and will be tried with the intention of taking her children from her. The little fellows have had poor care and their mother is charged with neglecting them sadly.

Jack Rich, a fellow who gained considerable notoriety a few weeks ago by his escape from the city jail in the attempted city jail delivery, and about that time was discovered to be the son of a wealthy Philadelphia family, was released from the county jail today. He has served a sentence of 60 days for assaulting the jailor. Rich announced his intention of going back to his old home.

The meetings being held by Col. C. J. Holt are attracting large crowds and interest is increasing every day. The local branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has charge and a number of new members have been received.

The recent wet weather has done much to brighten crop prospects and the grain fields are reported in much better condition than they were two weeks ago. Grain sown last fall is strong and growing rapidly, while the spring sowing is looking strong and gives a green tinge to the fields.

L. C. Stanley, of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and F. M. Soller, of Portland, filed a deed for record for the Globe, Nehalem & Pacific railway property in Columbia county. L. C. Stanley is the father of Fred Stanley of the Grande Ronde Lumber company, who is also interested in this enterprise.
