"I have found that advertising in the East Oregonian pays," said R. E. Tarbet, of the firm of Bennett & Tarbet, proprietors of "The Fair," a representative of the East Oregonian. "The big advertisement we had in the daily a week ago was the means of our store having one of the biggest sales and largest crowds we have had since we have been in business here. The special sale where we gave special low prices, we advertised in the East Oregonian, and feel that it should be given due credit for bringing us the large business. I have not been a big advertiser, but am now convinced that money spent judiciously in advertising is a good investment, if placed in the right medium; those that the people depend upon for news."

OUR ENEMY WRITES A BOOK.

The esteemed Pendleton Tribune has again applied itself to the defeat of the republican ticket in this county, although its efforts are meant in behalf of the republican party. As a sample of the gentle Tribune's style, the East Oregonian reproduces the following from its editorial page: "A few of the candidates were missed in the previous article who should be given some attention. "W. F. Matlock, for joint representative is about as unfortunate a choice as could have been made. He was all right in the days of Hank Vaughn and no registration laws, to catch votes and run them in over the line, but he cannot play ace high now. His $40 to a jackknife that he cannot win. His day is past as a legislator in Oregon and the people of Umatilla and Morrow counties prefer to vote for a good, clean and able young man like G. W. Phelps. They want a man who will know how to prepare his own bills and a man who will vote straight for a republican United States senator."

The East Oregonian will leave it to G. W. Phelps himself, to decide upon Mr. Matlock's honesty and fitness as a representative from Morrow and Umatilla counties. Mr. Matlock has lived in Pendleton many years and there are few indeed, so unfair as to impugn his motives or to say that he would not be faithful to any trust imposed in him. Bill Matlock can be trusted any where; his integrity is beyond reproach. For twenty years the writer has known him and not one word has he ever heard against Mr. Matlock's honesty of purpose and trustworthiness, unless from some political peanut scribbler, who was trying to prove his own doubtful fidelity to the machine with which for the time being he was connected.

The esteemed Tribune then turns its attention to the democratic candidate for surveyor in these words: "J. A. Howard for surveyor is another misfit. He does not want the office for himself and if elected would leave it to other hands, possibly a man from out of the county, or neglect it altogether. Besides he has done very little surveying in many years and as a matter of fact, never was very good at it. His work might involve much litigation and expense to the county in correcting."

Jimmie Howard makes no professions. He is human, but he never shirks a duty. He has had much experience as a surveyor. Mr. Kimbrell, the republican candidate for surveyor, does not claim superior ability over Mr. Howard. Why does the newspaper Virgin damn Kimbrell with faint praise in trying to "heap coals of fire" upon the head of Mr. Howard? We rather suspect Mr. Howard as having engaged the Tribune to give him a lift. Some things go by contraries, and the Tribune's influence is one of them.

In closing its brilliant appeal in behalf of republican candidates, this republican advocate of all that is pure and good, says of the democratic candidate for county recorder:

"For the recordership the democrats are trying to run Charley Marsh, a youth of good parts, but whose estimation of himself has fallen 20 per cent since he became acquainted with and began invoking the aid of democratic methods to secure an election. He does not deserve the office and is too young to fill it well. His chief support, it is understood, is attributable to the young ladies who think him quite a remarkable boy, and encourage him in his ambitions."

The "young ladies consider him a remarkable boy." Good! If Charley Marsh has the young ladies on his side he is indeed fortunate, but we are inclined to think that only "that fool is at the phone again" in his desire to "whinny." Mr. Marsh is an excellent young man, capable as well as popular. He is a Umatilla boy and in every way fitted for the office. His opponent, William Folsom, of Pilot Rock, has no advantages over Charley Marsh, but with all due respect to Mr. Folsom, Mr. Marsh has many advantages as a candidate for recorder over Mr. Folsom.

The East Oregonian has no desire to be unfair or abusive in stating its political preferences, but simply wishes to so inform the people that they may vote for those best fitted for the offices to which they aspire. The entire democratic ticket this year measures up surprisingly well with the republican ticket. We have heard some republicans say this, and a truthful, honest, outspoken republican is to be respected and believed under all circumstances and conditions, but it is not complimentary to one's intelligence to include the Tribune in the same category with an honest republican.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

The popularity of George E. Chamberlain and the high respect in which he is held by the great body of voters throughout Oregon are significant in view of the fact that he has been much in the public eye and has served in several official capacities both state and county. That he has steadily grown into public favor is the best proof that the people recognize in him one in whom may be reposed a public trust in the confidence that he will meet every obligation and discharge his duties efficiently.

Attention is called to the fact that Mr. Chamberlain has one distinct object before him and that object has been good government economically administered. His enthusiastic supporters feel certain that his elevation to the distinguished honor for which they have named him, will mean to carry into the office of the chief executive the qualities of heart and mind that have heretofore made him invaluable as a public servant.

George E. Chamberlain was born near Natchez, Miss., January 1, 1854. His early education was obtained in the public schools of Natchez, which he attended until 1870. In 1870 he left school and began work as a clerk in a general merchandise store until June, 1872, when he went for a course at college at Lexington, Va. Here he attended the famous Washington and Lee University, from which he graduated in the law and academic departments in July, 1876, having received the degree of B. L., and in the latter that of A. B. Shortly after graduating Mr. Chamberlain returned to his home in Natchez, where he remained until after the presidential election of that year. The prospects for success in the South at that time were far from encouraging to a young man possessed of the energy and ambition to succeed that dominated Mr. Chamberlain's struggles. He therefore decided to emigrate to Oregon. He reached this state on December 5, 1876, and since that time he has continued to make Oregon his permanent home. During the early part of 1877 Mr. Chamberlain taught a country school, and in the latter part of that year he was appointed deputy clerk of Linn county, which position he held until the summer of 1897. In 1880 he was elected to the lower branch of the state legislature, and in 1884 was elected district attorney for the third judicial district of Oregon. In the discharge of the duties of the several offices filled by Mr. Chamberlain, both appointive and elective, he has given the utmost satisfaction, and as a legislator and prosecuting attorney he gave evidence of the possession of unusual talent and knowledge of the law. As a consequence, when the duty devolved upon Governor Penoyer of appointing the first attorney-general of Oregon, he recognized in Mr. Chamberlain a gentleman eminently qualified in every particular to fill this important position, with honor to himself and with a great degree of credit to the state. Governor Penoyer tendered this appointment to Mr. Chamberlain May 21, 1891, and under this appointment he held the position until the general election in 1892. At the democratic state convention for that year he was unanimously renominated for the place, and in the election which followed although the republican majority in this state ranged from 9000 to 10,000, he received a majority of about 500 over his competitor. At the expiration of his term he removed to Portland, Or., where he has since engaged in the practice of his profession.

In the election of 1900 Mr. Chamberlain, a candidate for the office of district attorney of Multnomah county, overcame the heavy majority which nominally would have been his opponent's and was elected by a safe majority of 1162 votes. It is only to record a fact familiar to all people of this county and state to say that his conduct of this important office has heightened the admiration of the common people for a man who has made public office a public trust. It needs no addition of words here to assure the voters a continuance of such a policy by the candidate for governor, because his whole official life is the best interest that he would realize those high ideals of an American citizen in office that were contemplated when the patriot fathers laid the foundation for this representative government.

HERPICIDE HAIR LIKE THIS. It is easily obtainable through the use of Newbro's Herpicide, the only preparation on the market that reaches and annihilates the germ or microbe that is responsible for all scalp diseases. It thus makes dandruff and falling hair impossible, and causes a thick, luxuriant growth to replace the former thin, brittle hair. The gentlemen will also find it an inestimable boon to them, as it works like a charm on bald heads, bringing forth a growth of soft, thick hair that anyone might be proud of. Even druggists proclaim its virtues, as per the following: OFFICE OF W. H. MURGITROYD, PHARMACEUTICAL DRUGGIST, MARTYSVILLE, MONT., 12-19, '90. Dear Sir: Herpicide is certainly a good article, and will do the work as advertised; that is why we sell it. I guarantee every bottle, and nothing has been returned. Please send me another dozen, and oblige, Yours respectfully, W. H. MURGITROYD. For Sale at all First-Class Drug Stores.

It Pays to Trade at the Peoples Warehouse. OUT OF THE ORDINARY is the selling we are now doing and many are the flattering remarks that exceptionally good dressers are making about our superior lines of tailor-made SKELETON CLOTHING. There are facts about the making of Skeleton Clothing for mid-summer wear that are not fully appreciated by many buyers: It's the most difficult to make. It's the most stylish and comfortable for hot days—if properly made. No garments are worn under more severe conditions—conditions that make them like rags in a day or two—unless they are made to withstand these hardships. This kind of clothing is our greatest specialty in summer. Our success this year and past years are our proofs that our SKELETON CLOTHING is superior to any others. We've studied it for years and have mastered the art. PRICES ARE RIGHT. Agents for Butterick Patterns. The Peoples Warehouse. PENDLETON, OREGON. Mail Orders Filled Promptly. Send for Samples.
