AN ABUSED INDIAN.

Wants a Divorce From His Wife Because She is a Shrew.

Ti-ko-na, an Indian, filed suit this morning in the district court, for a divorce from his wife, Ka-lu-la-son-mi, sometimes called Mrs. Ti-ko-na. In the allegations plaintiff complains that for more than a year past defendant has been practicing a course of harsh and cruel treatment toward plaintiff, which consisted of calling him a worthless man and a liar and has been continuously peevish and scolding and that the only time that plaintiff could have any rest from her tongue-lashing and shrewish disposition was to get away from her and stay away, and about the latter part of January, 1902, defendant became particularly abusive and drove plaintiff out of the tent where they lived, on the reservation, threw all of his clothes out of the tent after him, and ordered him away from the premises. For the above treatment plaintiff asks the court to forever sever the matrimonial bonds now existing between them and that he be awarded the costs of this suit and such other relief as to the court seems meet. Carter & Raley are attorneys for plaintiff.

IN THE POLICE COURT.

Thomas Newport Fined for Striking a Woman—A Peddler Fined.

Police Judge McCourt has been busy again dealing out justice to law-breakers and drunks that infest Pendleton.

Monday afternoon Thomas Newport, a gambler, was arrested at the instigation of Marie Ford, a subject of the tenderloin, who claimed that Newport assaulted her. It seems that Newport had been one of a number of men in Pendleton who made their living from the gaming table, and when gambling was closed down he was closed out of business and has been obliged to live from other sources. Being a man who refused to make his living by the sweat of his brow, he called on Marie Ford occasionally for money to help him out of a tight place. Sunday night he called upon her and she refused to give him money as he demanded. Newport became enraged at her and in a fit of passion struck her. She swore to a complaint against him, and Monday evening he was taken in by Policeman Fee. After examining several witnesses and hearing all the evidence, Judge McCourt fined Newport $25 and costs, which amounted to $7.60, making $32.60 in all. The fine was paid.

R. H. Standley, a traveling gent who came to town loaded down with clever wire arrangements for a coat and hat rack, and who was peddling them over town for 15 cents each was arrested last evening for peddling without a license and fined $5. In default he was sent to jail for two and a half days.

Adam Wilson, a sheep herder, and John Smithson, a painter, were also before the police judge this morning for being drunk and disorderly. Wilson was let go with the promise that he would not repeat the offense, but Smithson was given two and a half days in the city bastille.

MAIN STREET LOOKS BETTER.

The Buildings on the East Side of It Greatly Improve the Street.

The citizens of Pendleton and visitors to the town, who have been compelled to look upon a mass of rubbish and building material which has filled a portion of Main street in front of the new bricks that have just been completed adjoining the Columbia saloon, can now draw a breath of relief. The buildings have been completed, and the rubbish has all been used up or moved away and the street is again clear with the exception of a couple of lime and cement barrels, and these will be removed soon. While the unsightly pile of boards, brick and other stuff has been an eye-sore, the new brick buildings that have been erected are good additions to the business buildings of the town and make Main street look 100 per cent better than before they were built.
