TOOK STRYCHNINE

MRS. DILLIA CHAPMAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Mourned Over the Death of a Son and Sickness and Troubles in the Family Drove Her to the Act.

Mrs. Dillia Chapman, wife of Stephen Chapman, is lying dead at their home at 708 Ann street, from the effects of swallowing a dose of strychnine with suicidal intent.

Mrs. Chapman was 42 years of age and has been morose for several weeks which is supposed to have been caused from the death of a son about six weeks ago. Since his death she has been gradually losing her strength, and her grief, at times, was very marked, but at other times she seemed all right and would chat in the best of spirits. She would sit down and cry and take on about her dead boy for hours at a time. Last Saturday she got some cabinet photos that had been taken of the boy after he died, and since that she has kept one of them in her hands and wept almost continuously. She did not make any threats, however, until a few minutes before taking the poison, when she was in the room with her son Allen Chapman, who has pneumonia. The other children were out of the house, and she told this boy, who was in bed, that she had something down stairs that she was going to take that would lay her out. She left the room, but the youth did not think that his mother meant any harm to herself, so did not raise an alarm. This was about 4 o'clock, and a few minutes later a daughter found her mother lying on the bed ill. She did not know what was the matter and a physician was not called for some time after.

When Mrs. Chapman did not revive the children became alarmed and summoned Dr. Henderson, but she was dead when he arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman came to Pendleton from Douglas county last July, and have remained in town since. They have nine living children, six boys and three girls, ranging in age from 4 to 25 years. They are all here except one daughter, who lives in Spokane. The family is in destitute circumstances.

The funeral will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon.

Lost His Money.

L. L. Simpson, of Athena, was robbed of $105 while on the train between Athena and Colfax or after he reached this place, says the Colfax correspondent of the Spokesman-Review. Simpson had been married at Athena and took the train for Colfax to spend the honeymoon. He purchased tickets for himself and bride to Colfax and says he put his purse containing $105, in his pocket. After reaching Colfax, Mr. Simpson and bride stopped at the Hotel Colfax, and after securing a room he went to the barber shop to get shaved. When he left the chair and reached for his purse it was gone. Mr. Simpson thinks he must have been robbed while on the train, or possibly the purse fell out of his pocket in the car. He telegraphed for money and pawned his overcoat at the hotel to secure payment of his bill.

An All Star Cast.

The names of the principals in Edwin Owens Towne's New York comedy success, "Too Rich to Marry," will be announced soon. The management promises almost the entire original cast. There are a number of vaudeville features, which are introduced through the play, and there is not one dull moment. It is a scream from start to finish.

Meeting Commercial Association.

The Commercial Association met at their rooms Tuesday evening in regular session. Little business came before the association, except the appointment of committees and the adding of three new members. These were B. E. Kennedy, William Fitzgerald and Eldred Waffle. A committee was appointed to solicit funds to pay the Seventh Day Adventists back what it cost them to freight their tents and paraphernalia over from College Place to be used at the camp meeting. Lee Teutsch is chairman. A committee was also appointed to raise money to finish paying for the association's float, that was used in the Woodmen's parade.

He Would Trade.

If Mr. Furnish was defeated the Filipinos might get their independence—at least that is the Oregonian's present fear. That might be bad—or good—for the Filipinos, but isn't Mr. Furnish the real party at interest in that controversy? If you think he would swap the Philippine Islands for the governorship, you don't know Bill Furnish.—Portland Journal.

MILLS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

SCOURING AND WOOLEN MILLS HOLD MEETING.

E. Y. Judd, President of the Two Institutions, Talks Concerning the Wool Market and the Outlook for the Season.

At a meeting of the officers and directors of the Pendleton Wool Scouring and Packing Company, and the Pendleton Woolen Mills, at the mills office Tuesday afternoon, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Scouring mill—E. Y. Judd, president; C. S. Jackson, vice-president; F. E. Judd, treasurer; Frank B. Clifton, secretary; E. Y. Judd, C. S. Jackson, F. E. Judd, R. Alexander and Frank B. Clifton, directors.
Woolen Mill—E. Y. Judd, president; E. D. Boyd, vice-president; F. E. Judd, treasurer; Frank B. Clifton, secretary; E. Y. Judd, E. D. Boyd, F. E. Judd, C. S. Jackson and Frank B. Clifton, directors.

Geo. D. Fell was elected superintendent of Manufacturing and Chas. J. Ferguson was elected general manager of the woolen mills. The scouring mill had one of the most successful years and did more business during 1901 than ever before in its history, and the prospects are very bright for another good year. There is now wool enough in the mill warehouses to keep the scouring department going for two months and there is plenty more in sight. It is now running a day and a quarter each 24 hours.

The woolen mill ran continuously last year which was a record never before made, since it was established in 1896. After paying the heavy expense incurred in advertising and placing the goods properly before the trade, the management were able to charge off all bad debts and allow for all depreciation of machinery and then show a fair profit for the stockholders for the year. In fact the result from the business the past year was more than satisfactory for those interested, and they are also pleased with the outlook for the present year. They are satisfied from past developments that the woolen mill will prove a paying investment to the stockholders and a credit not only to Pendleton, but to the state of Oregon. The first few years after this institution was established it did not run continuously, but every year has added to its business and its trade has extended until the plant had to be greatly enlarged, and now it is one of the best equipped manufacturing establishments in the northwest.

Wool Market.

In speaking of the wool market to an East Oregonian reporter this morning, E. Y. Judd, president of the Pendleton Wool Scouring and Packing Co., said:

"On account of the strike among the operators of the American Woolen Co., considerable depression has been caused in the wool markets of the east and prices remain comparatively weak, but the London auction sales, which opened last week, show continued strength and we believe that as soon as the strike is settled the markets will get better, and there will continue to be a demand for Oregon wool and a gradual improvement in prices. The price now is slightly higher than the opening quotations of last year, and are about equal to the prices at the close of the season. Good attractive wools range from 8 to 10 cents per pound and some very light, which was shorn early, is quoted at 1/2 cent more. Heavy sandy wools from the lower lands, is quoted somewhat less."

Money to loan at lowest rates on town or country property. J. R. Dickson, East Oregonian building.
